Steel Negotiators Renew Bargaining

No One Expresses Any Hope

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Negotiators bowed to a court edict and resumed contract talks Saturday in the costly 102-day steel strike. If they made any progress there wasn't any sign of it.

If any new proposals were laid on the table no one was saying.

President Eisenhower urged the negotiators to keep hammering away to get a settlement. The negotiators made no comment on the President's request — but they agreed to meet here Sunday afternoon.

David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, led his four-man bargaining team in the talks at a suite on the 16th floor of a midtown hotel. R. Conrad Cooper, the chief industry spokesman, was on the opposite side of the table with three companions who have met periodically with the union since last May.

The meeting lasted about 2 hours 45 minutes.

The industry representatives spoke for the "Big 12"—the 12 major steel companies in the nation.

When the negotiating session broke up a joint statement was given to waiting newsmen by Cooper. He said merely the negotiators did not care to answer any questions. Then he announced the negotiations will resume Sunday afternoon.

The negotiations Saturday came as a direct result of orders by the U.S. Third District Court of Appeals at Philadelphia. The court which has stayed an 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction, directed that negotiations be resumed.

"We're always hopeful—always striving," Cooper declared.

But at the end of the meeting no one expressed hope. No one had comment.

President Eisenhower made his latest plea for settlement of the dispute at his vacation headquarters in Augusta, Ga. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President sincerely hopes both sides "realize fully the obligation they owe to the United States and that they remain in consultation and negotiation until they settle it."

In Philadelphia, the head of Eisenhower's special three-man fact-finding panel denied a published report he had asked the President for permission to resume mediation efforts. Hagerty also issued a denial.

Dr. George W. Taylor said only that he had been in touch with Joseph Finnegan, chief of the Federal Mediation Service.

Expect Castro's Rally To Become Massive Anti-U.S. Exhibition

HAVANA (AP) — Cubans were urged Saturday to turn out a million strong Monday for Prime Minister Fidel Castro's rally to show support for the bearded leader against a rising tide of opposition. U. S. officials expect a show of anti-Americanism.

The call for a vast turnout came from labor and the press as Cuba disclosed it is asking the United States to arrest Pedro Diaz Lanz, ex-chief of Castro's air force who fled to Miami, Fla.

The FBI in Washington has reported Diaz Lanz said he led an airdrop of leaflets on Havana last Wednesday.

Castro calls Lanz a traitor and his regime claims the Wednesday incident and others included bombing and strafing.

U.S. Ambassador Philip Bonsal, disturbed at the apparent tendency to create anti-Americanism here as a result of Wednesday's incident, called at the Cuban Ministry of State Saturday to express official concern.

Bonsal was told by Cuban Subsecretary of State Francisco Chavarry that Cubans hold no resentment against the American people and that the safety of all foreign residents of Cuba, including American citizens, would be guaranteed by the Castro government.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa said in a press statement his government is asking the United States for the provisional arrest of Diaz Lanz and would request his extradition.

Roa said he had sent cables to both the Cuban Embassy in Washington and the Cuban consulate in Miami asking U.S. authorities to arrest Diaz Lanz.

He added legal documents are on the way to the United States. Roa said Cuba wants Diaz Lanz arrested "as a common criminal responsible for aerial intrusions over Cuban national territory and for two deaths and half a hundred wounded" plus damage to two sugar mills.

TV Stars Face Show Where Answers Won't Be Rigged

NEW YORK (AP) — The big money quiz shows are a thing of the past on television, but some of their stars now are going to have to answer questions of a much different nature.

And hereafter their responses will be concerned with something far more important than the mere winning of money. One thing is personal prestige. Another could be difficulties with the law.

As a result, the forthcoming quizzes may command the most attention of all yet.

First on the program is the renewal of a probe by a congressional subcommittee. It already has heard testimony of question-and-answer rigging on sensational TV shows which captured the fancy of millions of viewers.

The subcommittee will resume its hearings Nov. 2, and the spotlight obviously will be turned full upon Charles Van Doren, the college teacher who received $129,000 for what seemed a vast knowledge of everything on NBC's "Twenty-One."

Van Doren will be questioned here privately next week as a prelude to the hearing renewal. Rep. Steven Derounian (R-NY), a subcommitteeman, indicated the questioning would be by a subcommittee staff member as a preparatory step.

Others who gained even more money on similar telecasts, along with national reputations for brains, may be summoned.

In addition, it is possible that a New York grand jury may wish to pose a few further queries also. It already has on record one set of answers from many of the leading lights of the former Q. and A. programs.

Only Friday two top TV quiz luminaries strode into the office of Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan to make what was termed substantial changes in earlier statements concerning their participation in "Twenty-One."

One of the visitors was Van Doren. The other was Hank Bloomgarden, who received $98,500 on the same program.

Hogan said quite a few other former contestants and grand jury witnesses also have notified him they have had second thoughts about what they said previously and wish to clarify the record. Hogan named none.

Both Van Doren and Bloomgarden have denied that they were involved in any rigging on TV. But when explanations of the

Nehru Asks People To Remain Calm Despite Red Attacks

MEERUT, India (AP) — The situation in the disputed border areas, where 17 Indian policemen were reported slain by Chinese Reds last week, is causing grave anxiety, Prime Minister Nehru declared Saturday. But he called for calm and scolded those who demand that force be met with force.

"The situation has caused and is continuing to cause grave anxiety," he told a news conference. "But I do not say there will be war with China on this issue."

"We will defend our territory and our prestige and honor—we will not be intimidated or threatened by what China is doing," he declared.

"Even if there are differences, this is not the way to solve them. It is unfortunate and regrettable that the Chinese should come 40 miles into our territory and kill our people. They did it, not with ordinary bullets, but with mortars, bombs."

Officials said a large Communist unit, equipped with rifles, grenades, and mortars, had ambushed a 30-man patrol Wednesday in Kashmir's Ladakh Province, a plateau area fronting the Tibetan Himalayas.

Nehru said the area where the attack occurred "is not populated and not strategic."

The area is so remote, he added, that police had not been sent there until a year ago.

"We sent police, not for fighting but for patrol purposes," he added.

Sen. Kennedy Hits Farm Policy, Sees No Easy Remedy

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) Saturday advocated a national farm program treating abundance "as a blessing and not as a curse" for the needy at home as well as abroad.

This and five other basic principles, he said, would make it possible "to gear national production to international need—to grow food for stomachs and not for storage."

Kennedy, hopeful for the Democratic presidential nomination, spoke to a Midwest farm conference. He came to Springfield from Chicago and Bloomington and was en route to Joliet.

Kennedy slashed at Agriculture Director Ezra Taft Benson and his policies but said the problem "is bigger and deeper than even one man or even one administration" and has no easy remedies at hand.

"On the contrary, I think the farmers themselves are getting tired of hearing from politicians in either camp about some new short-term expedient, a wonder drug aimed at treating some current symptom, instead of getting at the real problem."

He said the six principles would support farmers' prices and income to give them a profit and reduce costs to American taxpayers.

Treating abundance as a blessing was the first principle, he said, and should lead to a "food for peace" plan to help all the world.

"But we also need to do more for the needy and hungry here at home. And I hope that Congress next year will take action on the bill I have introduced directing a full-scale attack on this problem — taking the job out of the hands of Mr. Benson, who has shown little interest in it, and giving it to the department responsible for those on pensions or public assistance."

Other principles proposed by Kennedy were: promoting and preserving the family farm; arranging farm programs to be run by farmers elected locally by farmers; encouraging the growth of the cooperative movement; concentrating on cutting the farmers' costs and assuring farmers a fair share of the national net income.

Ike Finally Gets Some Sun, Plays 36 Holes Of Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower finally got some sunshine Saturday and it was so welcome he played twice as much golf as usual—36 holes.

It was the kind of weather tonic Eisenhower had been seeking for the chronic bronchitis he says he has developed.

However, before he completed that tour the sun came out briefly—for the first time since Eisenhower arrived from Washington last Wednesday.

After lunch and Eisenhower's usual midday nap the skies cleared completely and there was plenty of sunshine for which the President had such a long wait. The wind was brisk and the temperature about 70 degrees.

So the President played another 18-hole round. As usual he traveled between shots in an electric golf cart.

So far as newsmen know, the last time Eisenhower played as many as 36 holes in a single day was during an Augusta visit last spring.

Sunday afternoon the President will pack up and fly back to the capital.

U.S. Plans To Start Probe Of Red China's Intentions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States plans to start a probing operation in about 10 days to see whether there is any easing of Chinese Communist hostility toward the West.

It will take this action against a background of apparent failure by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in his effort to enlist the Red Chinese to his peace offensive.

Authorities here still hold some hope that Communist China will begin to moderate its policies, refrain from the use of force, and thus make possible a real improvement in relations.

State Department officials insist that any agreements between Khrushchev and Western leaders will be of limited value unless the Red Chinese are somehow brought into line.

The whole range of Red Chinese-U.S. problems has been under review here. State Department officials have been consulting with Ambassador Jacob D. Beam, the top U.S. contact man with the Red Chinese government. Beam is expected to return late this week to his post at Warsaw, Poland.

On Tuesday, Nov. 3, he will meet for the first time in about two months with the Red Chinese envoy to Warsaw, Ambassador Wang Peng-nan.

Ambassadorial contacts between Washington and Peiping, begun in mid-1955, produced an agreement on release of Americans held in Red China but then bogged down over the issue of Red China's threats to use force to seize Formosa from the Chinese Nationalist government.

For several years, therefore, the contacts have been infrequent and unproductive. But they have been maintained. The routine of Beam-Wang meetings had been preserved in case either side had serious business to take up. This kind of situation has now arisen.

Officials said Beam is not going back to Warsaw with any startling new proposals. They added it is hoped there may be some sign of Red Chinese policy development in the new round of talks in Warsaw.

If this hope proves to be in any way justified, Beam will be prepared to carry on the meetings and, in effect, to explore the possibilities of moderating the potentially explosive differences which exist between the United States and Red China.

Primarily, the United States wants Red China to renounce the use of force against Formosa but has not asked the Chinese Reds to drop their claim to that island.

DAYLIGHT TIME ENDS SUNDAY AT 2 A.M.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Millions of Americans, mostly in the Northeast, enjoyed an extra hour of sleep Saturday night as Daylight Savings Time reverted to Standard.

Technically, Daylight Savings Time ended at 2 a.m. Sunday but the general practice is to turn clocks back an hour before retiring.

A number of areas switched from Daylight to Standard Time a month ago. But Lexington and Frankfort, Ky., stay on Daylight Time the year round.

Crash Occurs In Alberta; 13 Injured

PARKLAND, Alta. (AP) — A passenger train and a trailer-truck carrying household gas collided at a crossing Saturday. Officials said six persons were killed and three others are missing.

Thirteen were injured and rushed to a hospital.

A spokesman for a funeral home said earlier estimates of dead, that ranged as high as 12, were probably due to the condition of the bodies. The same factor made identification difficult, he said.

An explosion and fire followed the collision, engulfing the truck and the second coach of the Canadian Pacific Railway train in flames.

There were 25 persons in the coach and one person in the truck. It had been believed earlier there were two men and a woman in the truck.

First reports said some of the injured were in critical condition, but hospital authorities in Claresholm, 30 miles south of Parkland, later reported most were suffering from cuts and shock.

The diesel train was a so-called dayliner, made up of only two passenger cars.

"It was a terrible sight," one woman told reporters. "Bodies of a man and woman were lying on the track and the train and truck were burning."

First to reach the scene was a farmer, Ellis Oviatt, and his hired man, Paul Terlesky.

Terlesky said he was watching as the truck and train met and the truck exploded.

They dragged four persons through the rear door of the second coach. Fierce flames prevented them from rescuing others, they said.

The first coach was not derailed. The second was flaming and was tipped by the impact, but was prevented from falling over by the coupling with the forward coach.

Two U.S. Physicists Named As Probable Nobel Prize Winners

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Stockholm newspapers named two U.S. physicists Saturday as probable winners of the 1959 Nobel physics prize for their work in discovering the antiproton.

The Americans are Dr. Owen Chamberlain, 39, and Dr. Emilio Segre, 54, who in 1955 confirmed the existence of the negatively charged proton that can annihilate ordinary matter found on earth.

Chamberlain told the American Physical Society in 1956 the antiproton could not be used in a superbomb or for atomic energy. The reason is it takes as much energy to create an antiproton as is produced when it annihilates itself.

But scientists hailed the discovery as a big step in the endless

The two scientists and two assistants created antiprotons in a powerful atom smasher, the bevatron, at the University of Californias' radiation laboratory at Livermore, Calif.

The antiproton is like the proton, which with the neutron makes up the nucleus of ordinary atoms, except for the negative charge. The proton has a positive charge. When an antiproton strikes a proton or neutron, it annihilates itself and the proton or neutron.

quest to learn more about the nature and construction of the universe. They long had suspected the existence of the antiproton. Scientists do not rule out the possibility that galaxies of stars made up of antimatter exist somewhere in the universe.

The newspaper Expressen also listed as qualified candidates for the physics prize Dr. James Van Allen of the State University of Iowa and Dr. Hermann Oberth, German rocket pioneer. Van Allen was in charge of the cosmic ray apparatus aboard the first U.S. satellite, Explorer I. A radiation belt above the earth found by Explorer's apparatus was named for him.

Prof. Jaroslav Keyrovsky, 69, head of the Polagraphic Institute in Prague, was named in the Stockholm papers as a candidate for the chemistry prize. The Czechoslovak scientist originated polagraphy, a method of analyzing complicated chemical solutions. It enabled him to detect previously unknown substances.

The prizes in physics and chemistry—each worth $42,606 in cash this year—will be announced Monday by Sweden's Academy of Sciences. The Nobel Prizes in literature and medicine for 1959 have been announced.

Kennedy Hedges On Status As 1960 Candidate

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) hedged on his status as a presidential candidate Saturday, telling newsmen he would make a decision in January.

He stressed he is not primarily sampling public opinion on his three-day Illinois tour, but was here on invitation from the Illinois Farmers Union.

Kennedy, regarded as a prime Democratic presidential prospect, was asked at a news conference if he thought his religion would be a campaign issue. He is a Roman Catholic.

Kennedy replied, "I don't think it has anything to do with it."

Kennedy noted it was his first visit to Springfield. He said he expects to return to Illinois for another tour. He did not give a date.

Boosters Claim Capital Is Choice World's Fair Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the United States is going to have a world's fair in 1964, Washington civic boosters said Saturday it should be held right here near the capital.

Rival claims were laid before the commission Friday by representatives of New York City and Los Angeles.

The commission, headed by Harry A. Bullis, Minneapolis businessman, is to advise President Eisenhower whether it thinks a fair should be held at all and if so where.

Eisenhower then would pass his recommendation along to the International Bureau of Expositions, which holds its next meeting in Paris Nov. 3-4. No world's fair has much of a chance of success without the bureau's endorsement.

Washington spokesmen argued that business and industrial leaders throughout the country would be more enthusiastic about supporting a fair in the nation's capital than in any other city.

BRING LIVE OPERA TO BRITISH VILLAGES

LONDON (AP) — British villagers are getting a chance to see live opera on their home grounds. The government-financed Arts Council is sending out a company to stage such favorites as "La Boheme" and "Barber of Seville" in parish halls, farm exchanges and workers institutes over the next six months.

East Deluged By Heavy Rains, One Man Drowned

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy rains drenched parts of the East Saturday, slowing rail, highway and plane transportation and causing considerable damage.

A man apparently fell into a swollen creek and drowned in Portsmouth near Norfolk, Va. Norfolk had 3.83 inches of rain in six hours. The deluge flooded streets and stalled vehicles. Three families were evacuated by rowboat. At least two buildings were damaged by cave-ins.

The cloudburst raised by several feet the level of creek water flowing under Natural Bridge, a tourist attraction near Roanoke. The rampaging waters caused an estimated $5,000 damage to the bridge, washed out a walkway, ripped up 500 feet of blacktop paving and swept away about 500 benches.

Rains, accompanied by thunder and lightning, downed some Roanoke power lines and flooded some low places in the city.

More than an inch of rain fell in New York City between 7 a.m. and 1 p.m. on top of a quarter inch that fell during the preceding six hours. The weather was blamed for a few slight plane delays.

In New Haven, Conn., New Haven Railroad trains were delayed up to 2½ hours when heavy rains flooded a railroad cut. The line is one of the chief means of commuter travel between New York and Connecticut.

In New Haven, 2.65 inches fell between midnight and 1 p. m. Streets flooded when choked storm sewers were unable to handle the runoff.

Similar conditions prevailed in Hartford, where a 6-hour fall of 1.18 inches was reported.

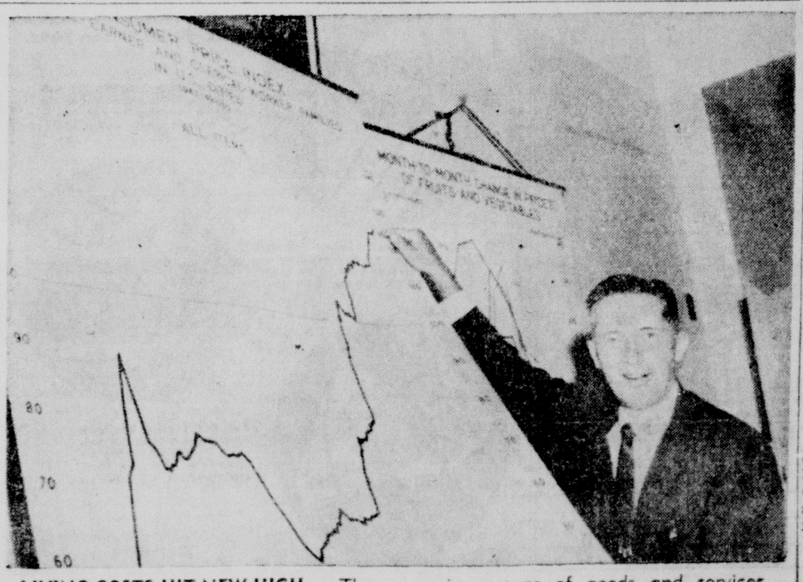
Pounding rains and high winds knocked out about 200 telephones in Keene, N.H., area and caused gate closure at two dams as a precaution against flooding in the nearby Connecticut River. There also was some minor street flooding in Keene.

In New Jersey, several small rivers overflowed banks in the wake of a general rain that was measured from ½ to 2 inches.

Electric power was shut down to more than 1,000 residents in Newton, N.J. One man was killed when an auto skidded on wet pavement.

OSLO FACES DARK, COLD WINTER

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Oslo is facing a dark, cold winter because of a hot, dry summer. Drought has cut the water level of hydroelectric plants so sharply their output will be reduced. Mayor Rolf Stranger asked last week that shops drop window lighting and that all Oslo citizens cut power consumption 15 per cent.



LIVING COSTS HIT NEW HIGH — The government reported that living costs climbed to an all-time high for September, 1959. Consumer prices rose for all major groups of goods and services, except transportation. Labor Department Price Chief H. E. Riley uses charts in Washington to explain the report. (NEA Telephoto)

Could It Happen Again?

Oct. 29 Marks 30th Anniversary Of Wall Street's Black Tuesday

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—It's been 30 years since people jumped out of windows because of what was happening at the corner of Wall and Broad streets.

That Black Tuesday, Oct. 29, 1929, saw the life savings of thousands of families wiped out in the most spectacular stock market break in our history.

It saw plungers drop dead as they watched stock tickers tapping out the news that they had gambled and lost.

And it heralded one of the worst and longest depressions in our history.

Could it happen again?

Of course it could—if that many people get as foolish as they were in the late 1920s. All the laws passed since then can't stop people from being silly.

There will always be some foolish people buying the wrong stocks at the wrong price. There will always be some con men selling worthless stocks or speculative securities at phony prices. It's how many there are of both that counts.

Today there are rules that give investors every opportunity of looking before they leap. There are a long list of props to the economy—such as jobless insurance, social security, old age pensions, record savings—to keep a drop in stock prices from sending people into the bread lines.

There are a number of financial policemen watching the stock exchanges, the stock sellers, the corporations whose stocks are up for sale, and even the amount of stock buying the public can do on the cuff.

The only thing that can't be regulated is the judgment of the stockbuyer himself. But now—30 years later — stock owners and traders seem to be a different breed of cats than those who dominated the hysterical '20s.

There now are an estimated 12 million persons in the United States who own stock. The vast majority are considered investors rather than speculators. Stocks also are in the hands of institutional firms managed by presumably hard-headed professionals—mutual funds, pension funds, bank-managed personal trust accounts, and corporations.

The amount of stock on margin is trivial today compared to the total number of stocks listed on the exchanges. And the amount of cash that must be put up in buying a stock today is 90 per cent, while in 1929 it was only 10 per cent. The volume of trading on that slim margin was fantastic.

Some 50 billion dollars of new corporate securities were sold in that decade and half of them became worthless. Often people bought them without asking anything about the companies' assets, or what they made, if anything.

The chairman of one of New York's largest banks set up six corporations—three American and three Canadian—to trade in stocks of his own bank. It was later brought out that he made more than 10 million dollars by such shenanigans. He is long dead and the bank is now one of the most respected in the nation.

Wealthy investors and businessmen stopped work to join in pools and syndicates to push up prices of certain stocks and then unload them. Sometimes it worked the other way and they raided the market to force prices down artificially so that they could buy them back at the bottom and cover their short sales.

Corporations took advantage of the growing demand for stocks and sold additional millions of their securities, thus watering the holdings of their shareowners. Investment trusts and holding companies were formed to foist onto the public questionable shares in huge quantities.

And the public loved it.

Stock trading reached 3 million shares a day in 1925, quickly climbed over 4 million and then 5 million. Customers' men at brokerage firms grew careless in advising about purchases, and many member firms joined the pools.

The Federal Reserve System's easy money policy in the mid-1920 encouraged the use of credit in speculation. Later it tried to correct this but it was too late. The public borrowed at the higher rates and went on gambling.

When a broker did urge his customer to use caution, he usually lost the speculator to another broker who catered to any buying whim.

Stock prices hit their peak Sept. 3, 1929, when the Associated Press index of 60 stocks stood at 157.7. There was a series of breaks during October and the big one came Oct. 29 when 16,410,030 shares were traded on the New York Stock Exchange, a record that still stands.

The AP index fell to its lowest point July 8, 1932, at 16.9. A long but often interrupted climb since then brought the index to a new peak of 235.8 on Aug. 3, 1959. The current figure is around 220.

Black Tuesday wrecked the hopes of thousands and sent many from riches to rags. But it also set off a train of events aimed at seeing it never happened again.

The New York Stock Exchange had been asking its member firms to give it data on their financial condition. It began demanding that they do. It tightened the requirements for listing stocks on the exchange and for staying on the big board after being listed.

Burglars Get Cash, Watches At U. & L. Grain Co.

NEW BERLIN — The U. & L. Grain Company was burglarized Thursday night or early Friday morning and thieves carried off $580 in cash and checks and watches valued at $500. The checks totaling $400 were later recovered after being discarded by the thieves.

Sangamon County Sheriff's reports say the burglars gained entrance to the grain company office through a window which was pried open on the north side of the building. The theft was discovered early Friday morning when Marvin Pitchford, Richard Battleson and Jack Chaudoin, employees of the company, reported for work.

Authorities say the safe door was hammered off, and estimates set the task at a three hour job. Nineteen watches were taken from the safe and two more were dropped on the floor as the burglars left the building.

Investigation of the theft is still in progress. The company, owned by Walter Uhnken, Alvin Lovekamp and Harold Hempel, was insured.

AUTO MISHAP AN N. MAIN STREET

Shortly after 10 o'clock Friday evening an accident occurred on N. Main St. at the square. The accident occurred when Jean E. Paisley, 8 Pitner Place, who was going onto the square from N. Main, stopped to allow another car to enter a parking space. The second car involved in the mishap, also going south on N. Main, was driven by John R. Elliott, 630 E. Chambers.

The Paisley auto was damaged slightly in the rear. The Elliott auto had extensive damage to the front end, including bumper, grill, hood and headlights.

TWO ACCIDENTS OCCUR AT SAME INTERSECTION

Two cars were damaged at the intersection of N. Main and Walnut streets Friday evening. The two cars, both going north on Main, collided as Richard A. Brodgon, 245 E. Wolcott, stopped for the stop sign at the intersection. The second car was driven by Donneta McDainel, 520 Pine.

The rear bumper, rear panel and tail light of the Brodgon auto was damaged. The front bumper and grill of the McDainel auto was damaged.

Earlier Friday afternoon the same intersection had been the scene of a minor accident involving George Davis and Melvin Brockway.

POWER LINE IN TREE RESULTS IN SMALL FIRE

The Jacksonville Fire Department was called to the 300 block of East Morgan street about 9 o'clock Friday evening. A power line had set fire to a limb of a tree.

The power company was called and servicemen cut the limb from the tree. Firemen then extinguished the blaze.

Miss Minnie Lucille Snyder of 1417 Noble Avenue, Springfield, passed away Friday morning at Memorial Hospital in that city. She was a former nurse at schools in Jacksonville.

Miss Snyder was a graduate of Washington University, St. Louis, and Barnes Hospital School of Nursing. During her career she served schools in Jacksonville, Edwardsville, Watseka, Salem and Taylorville.

She is survived by one brother, Willie N. Snyder of Mowequa, Ill., and one sister, Mrs. Anita Shamel of Springfield.

The body is at the Bisch and Son Memorial Home in Springfield where services will be held at 1 p.m. Monday. The Rev. Albert Sonius will officiate with burial in Camp Butler Cemetery, Springfield. Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 to 9 p.m. Sunday.

Charles Rumbles, Former Cook, Dies Friday

Charles Rumbles of 1429 Center Street passed away at 4:45 p.m. Friday. He had been in failing health for the past year.

Mr. Rumbles was a cook at MacMurray College for 14 years, and was later employed as a cook at the local Elks Club.

He was a native of Meridian, Miss., born Feb. 6, 1896, the son of Alfred and Mary Armstrong Rumbles. He was married to Alice Anderson on Oct. 8, 1949, in Jacksonville.

He is survived by his wife and one son, Clarence of Pontiac, Ill.

Mr. Rumbles was a member of the Mt. Emory Baptist Church, and the St. John's Masonic Lodge.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Gillham Funeral Home with the Rev. E. E. Thompson officiating. Interment will be in Jacksonville East Cemetery.

GREEKS AND VATICAN

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The theological faculty of the University of Athens opposes any re-establishment of diplomatic relations between the Vatican and Greece. Faculty members issued a statement saying "no relations whatever should be allowed with the Vatican except discussions on purely theological grounds."

TO HEAD CLINIC HERE

Rev. Daniel H. Sandstedt

The Rev. Daniel H. Sandstedt, chaplain of the Augustana Lutheran Hospital, Chicago, will lead the second annual Clinic on Pastoral Care to the Sick at the Passavant Memorial Area Hospital on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 27 and 28.

The Clinic, which originated last year, is planned jointly by the Passavant Hospital and the Ministerial Association of the Jacksonville Council of Churches, for ministers of the Passavant Area and surrounding communities. The Clinic this year will feature, as well as Chaplain Sandstedt, Dr. Frank Norbury, Dr. Robert Hartman, and Dr. Thomas Wilson.

Mr. Sandstedt is past president and a member of the Editorial Committee of the Chaplain's Association of the American Protestant Hospital Association. He also is guest lecturer for the University of Illinois and the Northwestern University Schools of Medicine, and the McCormick Theological Seminary. He is the leader of the Clinic for the second year.

On Tuesday morning following registration and devotions by Rev. Roy Goodell, of Winchester, Mr. Sandstedt will speak on "The Relation of Medicine and Religion—the pastor's view," and Dr. Norbury will speak on the same topic from the physician's view. In the afternoon Mr. Sandstedt will speak on "Ministering in Tensions" and will lead the discussion on "What Would You Say?" At 7:30 there will be an informal session at the First Presbyterian manse.

On Wednesday Dr. Hartman will open the session with the topic "Working with Pre-Marital and Marital Problems," and Mr. Sandstedt will follow with "The Use of the Sacraments in the Sick Room." At a luncheon, to which the members of the Passavant Medical Staff are invited as guests of the Ministerial Association, Mr. Sandstedt will speak on What is happening. Dr. Wilson will speak in the afternoon session on "The Educational Problem of the Surgical Patient," and Mr. Sandstedt will conclude the program.

The planning committee consists of the Rev. Clarence Bigler, chairman, the Rev. Frederic Tyrrell, registrar, Dr. Albert Fricke, president of the Passavant Medical Staff, and Ralph Bersell, administrator of Passavant Hospital.

State Officials Of Legion Will Inspect Hospital Here Nov. 5

A tour of veteran and state hospital installations will be made throughout the State of Illinois, beginning October 28th and ending November 11th, by officers of The American Legion, Department of Illinois.

The tour will be held during the month of November, which has been officially designated as "Veterans Recognition Month" by proclamation of Governor William G. Stratton.

The tour will begin from Chicago, to Dwight, Champaign, Danville, Paris, Robinson, Mt. Carmel, Harrisburg, Marion, Anna, Herrin, Chester, East St. Louis, Alton, Springfield, Beardstown, Pittsfield, Jacksonville, Quincy, Macomb, Galesburg, East Moline, Moline, and will terminate with inspection of veteran hospital facilities in the Chicago area.

Jacksonville will be visited Thursday, Nov. 5 by the Legion officials, who will tour the Jacksonville State hospital beginning at 9 a.m. The officials will be guests of the Kiwanis club at a noon luncheon at the Dunlap hotel.

They will leave this city at 2 p.m. for Quincy, where they will dedicate furniture at the Soldier and Sailor's home at 4 p.m., and attend an Adams County council and dinner at 6 p.m.

Geiger Heads Group

Department Commander John H. Geiger will lead the entourage and will be accompanied by Harry Jansen, who is a National Field Director of The American Legion; Frank Bottighiero, Rehabilitation Director for the Department of Illinois, and Tadge Jagelski, Public Relations Director for the Department of Illinois.

Other officers will join the Commander's party at various stages of the tour. Included among these will be Clarence E. Brooks, Senior Vice Commander of the Department; James Gwaltney, Department Adjutant; Vern Gray, Assistant Adjutant; Chester Newby and Edward Akin, Organization Officers; and District and Division Commanders.

On October 31st, the Department Commander will be in Herrin, Illinois, to welcome Martin McKneally, National Commander of The American Legion, on his first official visit to the State of Illinois. Commander McKneally will make his appearance at the Egyptian Jamboree, which is an annual event held in conjunction with the Egyptian Past Commanders Club at Herrin, Illinois.

Nominates Local Man For High DeMolay Honor

George Wilbur Bell, executive officer of the International Supreme Council of the Order of DeMolay for Southern Illinois, has announced that Wm. Dean Jarrett will be a member of the class of candidates to receive the DeMolay Degree of the Legion of Honor on Tuesday, Oct. 27. Jarrett was elected to the Legion at the 1959 sessions of the Supreme Council held last March.

The degree will be conferred in the Hall of Egyptian Preceptory of the Legion of Honor under the direction of Howard E. Lougeay, Dean, in the Masonic Temple at Belleville, Ill. The ceremony will start at 7:45 p.m. and cars will leave the Jacksonville Masonic Temple at 6:00 p.m. on Tuesday.

In observance of this occasion, the stated meeting of Louis Henry Clampit Chapter of Jacksonville scheduled for Tuesday evening will not be held. The Jacksonville DeMolay Mother's Circle has also cancelled its meeting for Tuesday evening. Dad Otis F. Jouett of the local chapter and a number of local members will attend the ceremonies in Belleville.

The Legion of Honor is the highest award available to former DeMolays and is granted for service not only to the order, but to the community as well. It is a public ceremony and all who desire to attend are most cordially invited.

Chapin Student Receives Lead In MacMurray Play

The Pulitzer Prize-winning play "The Diary of Anne Frank" will be presented Friday and Saturday, Oct. 30-31, at MacMurray College, with a local girl having a major role.

Gloria Fisher, a sophomore from Chapin, Ill., will play Mrs. Frank in the play that recounts the lives of two Jewish families who were forced to hide in the attic of a warehouse for more than two years to escape Nazi persecution.

Dr. Ray Holcombe, Professor of Speech and Theater Arts, announced the cast this week for the play that also won the Critic's Circle award. Portraying Anne Frank is a freshman from Van Wert, Ohio—Judy McCullen. She was a member of her high school speech team as well as a member of National Forensic Society. She previously had portrayed Lotus Blossom in "The Tea House of the August Moon."

A sophomore from Brooklyn, N.Y., Ed Hudaverdi, will be Peter Van Daan, the son of the second family with the Franks. Hudaverdi performed last year in "Murder in the Cathedral," playing Thomas a Becket. Mr. Frank, who survived the concentration camp ordeal and recently returned to the U.S., will be played by Jeff Davidson, a freshman from Mt. Zion, Ill.

His past dramatic experiences include parts in "Witness for the Prosecution," and "Barretts of Wimpole Street." In addition, his summer stock experience includes parts in "Tea House of the August Moon," and "Cyrano de Bergerac."

Bill Schrenk, a junior radio and television major from Greensburg, Pa., has been cast as Mr. Van Daan. He first became interested in acting when he played the male lead, Howard, in "Time Out for Ginger," his high school's senior play.

Since that time, Schrenk has appeared in one of his home town's civic productions. A member of MacMurray Players — local dramatic organization—he acted in "The Chalk Garden" and assisted backstage for many productions.

Single admissions are $1.25 for adults and $.50 for children. Patron season books can also be purchased for $5.50, for all five productions scheduled this year.

Jacksonville High School News

By Pat Bradley and Ann Fay

On October 20, Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude tests were given to 86 juniors and seniors.

The juniors took the test to prepare for the College Boards, while the seniors took them in hopes of gaining scholarships.

—JHS—

During the past week, Jacksonville High School's 31st annual homecoming festivities were carefully planned and prepared. On Friday, October 23 the results of the plans and preparation were displayed to the students and alumni of JHS.

—JHS—

On the morning of the 23rd, students arrived at high school to find the school decorated in bright streamers and banners. This decorating, done by the senior girls, was part of tradition behind the "upper-upper" classmen.

—JHS—

—JHS—

The Pep Rally Friday was followed by the parade in which the new queen made her appearance. Also riding in this parade were members of the football team, classes, clubs, and other groups. Many floats in the parade were judged.

—JHS—

After the parade at a pep meeting in Central Park announcement was made of the winning floats. Future Farmers of America float won first. The chapter used slogans explaining a display of live and dead chickens.

The senior class float captured 2nd place with a flot entitled "We'll Get 'Em in the End". This float showed a bee bombarding the rear of a football player.

—JHS—

The Crimsons won the exciting contest with Feitshans, Springfield school by a score of 33 to 26.

The JHS team did an excellent job. Didn't they?

—JHS—

Queen Donna was crowned at the Homecoming Dance. J'ettes, high school pep promoting club, Junior and Varsity Cheerleaders, and the football squads made up the Queen's Court.

Routt High School News

Large Barn At Bluffs, 4,000 Bales Hay Burn

BLUFFS — A landmark structure on the southwest edge of Bluffs was destroyed by fire Friday night with assistance of the strong winds in the area. Burned was the large frame barn on the farm owned by S. J. Mumman and occupied by the Eugene Evans family.

The building and its contents, 4,000 bales of hay, were consumed by the flames. Members of the North Scott Fire Department stood by most of the night to prevent another barn adjacent from catching fire.

The fire was first noticed at 9:30 p.m. when Abner Day of Winchester was passing the location and notified Evans. The strong winds fanned the flames beyond control and the drizzle of rain aided in keeping the fire under enough control to prevent spreading.

How the fire started is not known. The building is wired for electricity and is partially covered by insurance the owner stated.

The building was used often to house stock but did not have any animals in it Friday night. No estimate was made of the loss.

Americans consumed an estimated 32 billion bottles of soft drinks in 1958, an average of 184.7 per person.

Business College Students Attend Birthday Party

There was a change Friday afternoon in the regular class schedule at the Hardin Brown Business College. When the 2:20 p.m. class bell rang, instead of the students going to the college lounge room, as usual, they got into waiting cars which took them to 800 West College avenue, home of president and Mrs. D. L. Hardin, where a school party was in readiness, in honor of the birthday of D. L. Hardin.

The committee of students in charge of the party consisted of Sue Gorham, Medora, Ill., Martha Raftis, Jerseyville, Beverly Roegge, Arenzville, and Rosemary Ferguson, Jacksonville.

In place of the traditional birthday cake, apple pie, a favorite of Mr. Hardin, was on the menu. The guests also enjoyed Cokes, coffee, candy, popcorn and nuts. Mr. Hardin was presented with a number of gifts.

Games and music were enjoyed during the afternoon before the party adjourned at 4 o'clock and students departed for their homes.

Isn't Every Day Charity Fund Gets $17 Million From One Person

EDITOR'S NOTE — It isn't every day that a charity fund gets 17 million dollars from one individual. But it happened in Boston with a little known multimillionaire bachelor as the key figure. Here is the story of a man whose life was described as "a pattern of dignity."

By HENRY L. SUPPLE

The sum of 17 million dollars was left by Albert Stone Jr., a multimillionaire bachelor who in late years lived so quietly his bankers rarely saw him.

Stone died May 10. His will of four paragraphs directed that his entire estate go to the Permanent Charity Fund formed 41 years ago to support charitable work in Greater Boston. It was the largest charitable bequest ever made to a community trust.

Trustee of the fund is the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Co. The bank's president, William W. Wolbach, says Stone long had been a depositor but came to the bank rarely and had been in failing health in recent years.

It was not a case of rags to riches, however. Wolbach says he understood Stone was left several million dollars by his father. Fund officials said most of the money is in "sound common stock."

"We honestly didn't really know what Stone did," says Wolbach. "Twenty years ago he walked into our office and said he had decided to give something to charity. We explained how our organization operates to help many charities in the metropolitan area.

"He concluded, 'That's what I'm looking for.'"

Money for the various community projects comes from interest on the funds held inntrust.

Sidney Stone, a cousin, is the only living relative. He says Stone attended Chauncey Hall School but did not go to college. At the turn of the century Albert was in the shoe business as a jobber. He sold the firm in 1910 and joined his grandfather and other relatives in the real estate business.

Rotary Club Of Roodhouse Meets Wednesday Night

ROODHOUSE—W. L. Worcester, program chairman at the Rotary Club meeting Wednesday night, presented Mervin Henry who gave a report on the Galesburg conference.

Ross Manning installed the following new members: Dr. Ludwing Dech, Jack Jordan and Roy Burrus.

Bob Curry and Bert Schlie were visiting Jacksonville Rotarians. Bill Boston and Robert Dawdy were the Junior Rotarians present.

Following the regular session committees for the pancake supper to be held Nov. 4, met for final arrangements.

P. T. A. To Meet

The theme for the meeting of the Roodhouse Community PTA Monday night will be "And at PTA too, take some looks." Mrs. Paul Vannier, Bluffs, long active in PTA work, will be guest speaker. A membership skit will also be presented. Mrs. William Admire is president of the organization.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 in the music room at Washington School.

Roodhouse News

Charles C. Chrisman, Sr., suffered a stroke, Tuesday evening, and was taken to Our Saviour's hospital, Jacksonville. Two years ago, Mr. Chrisman suffered a heart attack. His room number is 305.

Mrs. Sanford (Lena) Long has entered Boyd Memorial hospital, Carrollton. Mr. and Mrs. Long and family moved to Roodhouse this fall from Waverly.

Clyde E. Winters, Clyde G. Winters and Delbert Winters, accompanied by Ernest Edwards, Athensville, have left on their annual deer hunt. Much of the time will be spent near Grand Valley, Colo.

M/Sgt. Jim Denny, Amarillo, Tex., is expected home for a two-day leave enroute to Texas from a service trip to Niagara Falls, N. Y. M/Sgt. Denny will report to Springfield for further duty. His wife and children reside in Roodhouse. He is the son of Mrs. Ruby Denny and the late C. E. Denny of this city.

Arthur Ford has entered Passavant hospital, Jacksonville, to undergo major surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Ruyle, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Yonker, Alton, have returned from a trip to Oklahoma City, Okla., and other points south. The Ruyles also spent a weekend in the home of Mr. Ruyle's sister, Mrs. E. C. Hakes and with his father, Harry Ruyle, who now makes his home with the daughter. Visitors in the Ruyle home here have been his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George McKinnon, Alamdeda, Calif.

THE LADY-LIKE BULL — The effeminate face of Brook Mandore, a 14-month-old pure-bred Ayrshire bull, has caused the British Ministry of Agriculture to condemn it to death. The Ministry claims the lady-like face would be passed on to its offspring and pollute the breed. An offer from American bull fancier Norman Bennett of Washington, D.C., will probably save the gentle bull from an untimely demise.

Farmers' Cash Return Drops 2% This Year

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers' cash receipts from marketings of their products during the first nine months of this year were down 2 per cent from the like period last year.

Reporting this today, the Agriculture Department put the receipts at $22,300,000,000. This was not a measure of net income because production expenses had to be taken out of the receipts. No estimate was given on expenditures.

The department said prices farmers received averaged 3 per cent less than last year, but that the volume of marketings was about the same.

Receipts from livestock and livestock products were down 4 per cent, but those from crops were up about 1 per cent.

The department said the prolonged steel strike was beginning to have some effect on industrial production and non-farm income. But there has been no evidence yet, it said, on any decline in the demand for food. It said food store sales in the third quarter of this year averaged 2 per cent above a year earlier.

The department said farm output this year now seems likely to exceed last year's record. Estimates indicate the crop volume will be about the same as last year, but that livestock production will be somewhat larger.

Young Baptist Pastor Builds 'Garden Of Hope' In America

By CLAUDE WOLFE

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — High on a hilltop overlooking the Ohio River sits an island of peace and quiet called the Garden of Hope.

It is a place where thousands of persons of all religious faiths can slip away for a while to rest and contemplate in surroundings as close to the Holy Land as man can make them.

The center of it all is a replica of the Garden Tomb in Jerusalem, believed by many to be the tomb given by Joseph of Arimathea for the body of Christ.

Through a narrow door cut in stone, one can see places of burial for three persons. On the space like the one where Christ traditionally is believed to have lain is engraved:

"He is not here, for He has risen."

"Joseph of Arimathea . . . took the body of Jesus. Now in the place where He was crucified there was a garden; and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was never man yet laid. There they laid Jesus . . ."

The Garden of Hope is the realization of the dream of a young, personable and tireless minister, the Rev. Morris Coers, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church in Covington.

The Rev. Mr. Coers first visited the Holy Land 21 years ago. Knowing that such visits were impossible for millions of people, he determined to reproduce part of it in the United States.

In addition to the tomb, there is a carpenter's shop, constructed as it would have looked if the work were done 2,000 years ago.

The "Glory Trial," stewn with reminders of the Holy Land, runs through the garden.

The garden, which seeks no profit, is not yet finished but already it is as beautiful and sacred looking spot as can be found anywhere—truly a Garden of Hope.

Honor Two Scout Leaders From Greene County

WHITE HALL—Tribute is being paid to two key volunteer leaders of the Boy Scouts during the month of the local Boy Scout drive for funds. Cubmaster Donald C. Goben and Scoutmaster Clarence Dawdy, Jr., the latter heading the Scouts of White Hall Troop No. 155, sponsored by the White Hall Lions Club.

Goben's job with Cub Scout Pack 155 which is sponsored by the local American Legion Post No. 70 is to co-ordinate the efforts of the five den mothers who hold weekly meetings. They are Mrs. Betty Weber, Mrs. Jewel Copley, Mrs. Marilyn Goben, Mrs. Lois Downs, Mrs. Louise Pilkington, Mrs. Lura Strang, Mrs. Margaret Nichols and Mrs. Betsy Wyatt. Charles Downs is Assistant Cubmaster and Richard Pilkington is chairman of the seven-pack committee. Ennis Tunison is chairman of the five-member troop committee.

The plan of both the Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts is to bring more boys into scouting through the "round-up" programs. The Explorer plan is a new activity for teen-age boys and involves high adventure and specialties by which the boys can follow the program of their liking. The Explorer plan is under the supervision of the Boy Scouts of America but otherwise has no connection with Boy Scouting.

EMPLOYMENT FEVER CHART—Some 66.3 million Americans were working at jobs as the calendar swung into fall, reports the U.S. Department of Labor. The figure dropped by 900,000 in September as large numbers of students and summer workers left the labor force. Total unemployment was 3.2 million, nearly 900,000 below the same month last year. Chart above traces past 10-year history of U.S. employment, showing an uneven, but steady, rise. "Actual" line shows total employment at any one time; "seasonally adjusted" line takes into account normal seasonal fluctuations in the labor force.

Meredosia Circle Meets On Tuesday

MEREDOSIA—Tuesday evening the Friendship Circle of St. John's ULCW met in the church parish hall.

The lesson, "You and the United Nations," was presented by Mrs. A. H. Unland. Hymns and a Scripture reading by Mrs. Oscar Nortrup were part of the lesson.

President Mrs. Gilbert Steinberg conducted the business session. Nearly all of the baptismal napkins being made by the members have been brought in. Several of the members have received, from Nachusa Home, the names of children to sponsor, sending small gifts and greeting cards when appropriate.

A nominating committee was appointed — Mrs. Kenneth Nunn, Mrs. James Donham and Mrs. Howard Edlen.

For the November meeting the lesson leader will be Mrs. Norman Gerecke; Mrs. Gerecke and Mrs. Don Grisham will be the hostesses. Each member is to bring an article for a silent auction.

WIN AND LOSE

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Baptists do a good job of winning members, but not in keeping them, says Abner V. McCall, president of Baylor University. He told a meeting here the Baptist churches are not adequately educating members, and therefore are losing many of them to other denominations.

Mrs. Ronald LeRoy Orr

Elizabeth Foiles, Ronald Orr Wed

WINCHESTER — Miss Elizabeth Susan Foiles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Foiles and Ronald LeRoy of Detroit (Pike County) were united in marriage Sunday afternoon, Oct. 18 at Glasgow Baptist church. The Rev. Charles Everly officiated for the double ring ceremony.

White glads with pink carnations and palms and tapers burning in candelabra decorated the altar of the church.

Robert Angel, soloist during the prelude sang "Melody of Love," accompanied by Miss Leona Bess. Miss Joyce Dinsmore at the organ played "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me." The traditional marches were used.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Orr of Detroit. He was attended by William Foiles, brother of the bride. Ushers were Larry Angel and Norman Angel of Kampsville.

The bride was attended by Mrs. A. C. Reel of Pittsfield. A cousin of the bridegroom, Sue Ellen Merriman, served as flower girl.

The bride wore a white Chantilly lace over satin gown with full skirt and three quarter length sleeves. A satin bow tied at the waist. Her veil, attached to a small sequin and pearl band, was of French illusion. She carried a white Bible and a purple throated orchid. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Reception in Hall

A reception was held in the Community Hall at Glasgow immediately following the ceremony. Pink with white were used in appointments. The large wedding cake was topped with a small bride and groom.

Assisting in the serving were Mrs. Lawrence Schuman, Mrs. Jerome Wirth, Mrs. Fred Foiles, Mrs. Olen Price, Mrs. Joe Elliott, Miss Sandra McClure and Mrs. James McClure, Mrs. Earl Watts and Mrs. Leo Angel.

Upon their return from their honeymoon the couple took up residence on a farm near Detroit. The bride is a graduate of Winchester High School and was employed at the Wisdom IGA store. The groom graduated from Pittsfield High School and is road commissioner in Detroit township.

Future Homemakers Elect Arenzville Girl President Of Section

Future Homemakers of Section 7 held their annual Rally Saturday, Oct. 17, at Ashland High School. Registration began at 9:00 a.m. Approximately 335 girls, advisors, and chapter mothers attended the rally. During the opening ceremony the principal from Ashland, B. W. Bierman, gave the welcome address.

After the morning program girls from the different schools gave reports and skits on the Teenage Consumer Project. Reports of the National Convention, held in Chicago during the summer, were given by Barbara Camm from Franklin, Jane Orne from Ashland, Carol Richardson from Jacksonville, and Mrs. Dean Chapman, the advisor from Franklin.

During the business meeting reports from the various officers were given, and the slate of officers for the coming year was presented and elected. Officers are: Carolyn Maschmeier of Arenzville, president; Retha Covey of Jacksonville, vice president; Della Thompson of Ashland, secretary; Lona Strawn of Franklin, treasurer; Alice Wilhite of Meredosia, parliamentarian; vice president of projects, Prudie Ginder of Chapin; vice president of public relations, Katherine Mervin of Chandlerville; vice president of recreation, Louise Cline of Greenview; section mother, Mrs. Betty Cantebury of Athens; and section advisor, Mrs. Mary Smith of Arenzville.

After the business meeting a delicious lunch was served in the cafeteria by the mothers of the Ashland F.H.A. girls.

Following lunch the Waverly Senior girls presented a style show, compliments of the Emporium in Jacksonville. Another feature of the program was a panel discussion by Jacelyn Kaligis from Indonesia; Ervin Vago from Hungary; Sam Ito from Japan; and Margaret Ma from China, all of whom are students at Illinois College in Jacksonville. The installation of the new officers concluded the program.

The theme for the day was "Getting To Know You" and in keeping with this theme, as the girls left the meeting, each was given an Eskimo bar to symbolize our new State, Alaska.

Greeting Cards Topic At South Side Circle

The South Side Circle met in regular session Friday, Oct. 23 at the home of Mrs. George Douglass 598 Jordan St.

The president, Mrs. Ethel Strawn, opened the meeting and conducted the business session.

Mrs. Earl Underbrink, program chairman, introduced Mrs. E. A. Schoedsack who gave a paper on the story of greeting cards. She started by impersonating a card saying "I am a greeting card. I create good will, friendliness, roads to peace. No place is too far, no road too rough for me to travel," and then she gave the history.

In 1844 an English man Sir Henry Cole was surprised to find Christmas just around the corner and "not a letter ready to post." An artist friend John called Horsley was induced to help him. He decorated a card which so pleased Mr. Cole he ordered 1,000. So the idea took form.

Today an original of these cards would bring $250.00. Other people took up the idea. Today greeting cards are a profitable business for many firms, foremost among them Hall Mark Co. which is a $3,500,000.00 business with over 5,000 employees.

Roll call was responded to by 16 members and three guests, Mrs. Geo. Riggs, Mrs. Ray Bourn, Miss Hazel Strawn.

A social hour followed with delicious refreshments served from a beautiful table with Mrs. E. A. Schoedsack presiding

Speaks Here Friday

Rosa Page Welch

"Attend the World Community Day observance; share in a service of promise to help bridge the barriers between women of different lands, nations large and small, people of different races and cultures, that God's Kingdom may extend to the ends of the earth."

For their annual observance of World Community Day, Friday, Oct. 30, at 2:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of the Centenary Methodist Church, the United Church Women are proud to present Rosa Page Welch.

Mrs. Welch, who has used her glorious gifts of music and lecturing to improve inter-racial relations, has been acclaimed throughout the U.S. as an "ambassador of goodwill," an outstanding artist, the "Marian Anderson of the Disciples of Christ." Seldom does one find the rare combination of spiritual insight and musical talent which she possesses.

From Mississippi

A native of Port Gibson, Miss., Rosa Page Welch was graduated from the Southern Christian Institute, a mission school of the Disciples of Christ at Edwards, Miss. The honorary degree of Doctor of Human Letters was conferred upon her by Eureka College, at Eureka, Ill. in 1953.

Known For Voice

In addition to her fame as a singer, she has taught academic and music courses and has done special work in religious education at the University of Chicago, as well as conducting courses in inter-racial understanding at inter-group and inter-denominational conferences of young people. Wherever she has been heard, she has contributed greatly toward improved race relations.

Visits 17 Countries

Among Mrs. Welch's varied experiences in other countries is an ecumenical singing mission which for 7½ months in 1952 took her to 17 countries. Three years later she was sent by the United Christian Missionary Society on a mission of goodwill to Latin America.

Members are reminded not to forget bundles of clothing for babies and tiny tots in refugee camps to encourage mothers in the struggle to care for their families.

Also, please bring 8c a pound to cover postage costs. If anyone wishes to bring all types of clothing for the United Clothing Appeal, Nov. 4, they will also be collected at the church doors before the World Community service. If you are unable to attend, clothing may be left with Mrs. Robert Hemphill, 327 Lockwood.

Full Partners for Peace is this year's World Community service theme. Mrs. James Cash is chairman. Assisting are Mrs. Al Miller, Mrs. Donald Pavlick, Mrs. Robert Hemphill and Mrs. D. O. Floreth. In the absence of Mrs. Cash, Mrs. L. E. McCurdy will be leader for the service.

Mrs. William Durham and Mrs. Donald Fairfield will sing, with Miss Gladys Howard accompanist.

Following the program a Tea will be served in Fellowship Room honoring Mrs. Welch. A nursery will be provided for pre-school age children by the host church.

Children Will Collect Fund At Arenzville

ARENZVILLE — On Tuesday evening October 27, between 7:30 and 8:30 little spooks and goblins, spacemen and witches will ring the doorbell in Arenzville, and townsfolks will hear the familiar chant, "Tricks or Treat for UNICEF."

Sponsored locally by the Arenzville F.H.A. and nationally by the V.S. committee for UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund Halloween program will be carried out at the same time in 10,000 other communities. Last year more than two million American youngsters participated in the biggest project ever carried out by children to help children.

Each penny collected by the Trick or Treaters wearing the UNICEF black and orange tag Tuesday night can mean five glasses of milk for a needy child overseas, or the BCC vaccine to protect him from tuberculosis. A nickels' worth of UNICEF penicillin will cure a child of yaws, a crippling tropical disease.

Following the Trick or Treat collection for UNICEF, refreshments will be served to the F.H.A. members by the W.S.C.S. of the Arenzville Methodist church, at the Home Ec Room. The costumes of the F.H.A. members will be judged by W.S.C.S. members.

This year, there will also be a contest for the best carved Hallowe'en pumpkins, with prizes of $3 for first; $2 for second, and $1 for third. Carved pumpkins are to be brought to the party and prizes will be awarded there. The pumpkin-faces must be carved by children of grade school age.

Windows of business houses in Berlin, Curran, Loami and New Berlin will be decorated by students under teacher supervision. Prizes of $3 for first; $2 for second, and $1 for third will be awarded Saturday night at the party.

The ever-popular "balloon-bust" will be a regular feature this year, also, with some of the colorful balloons carrying prizes.

The annual event is sponsored by the Men's Community club, and assisted by the New Berlin Woman's Club.

The Men's Fellowship of the Loami Baptist church was host on Monday evening to the members of the Men's Fellowship of the First Baptist church of New Berlin at Loami.

Following the showing of a film and devotions, a time of fellowship with refreshments was enjoyed.

Music Festival At Auburn

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 28, the annual Sangamon County Music Festival will be held at Auburn. The choirs and bands of all schools in the county will participate in the meet, and as well as playing individually, all the attending bands will join together to play as one large unit, as will the choirs to sing as a large group. Ralph Ashcraft is director of the bands of the local schools and Fred Wassell is vocal instructor.

The evening's presentations will vary from classical and devotional to jazz and calypso.

The public is invited and are guaranteed an evening of pleasure in music.

Band Activities

The County Music Festival at Auburn on October 28 will open the year for the New Berlin high school band. Then will follow the Hallowe'en party of October 31 at the fairgrounds building. New Berlin, with the high school dance band furnishing the music for the dance. In November, the band will present the annual Fall Concert. During the basketball season the band will provide music at each of the home games.

In the Spring, contests for solo, ensemble and band will be held, and the Spring Concert presented. Playing for Graduation exercises will be the year's finale of band performances.

Oskaloosa Herald Has Kind Words For Fitch

Under the editorial caption, "Harry Fitch A Legend Around Herald As Result of Activities," The Oskaloosa Daily Herald, Oskaloosa, Iowa, announced Oct. 15 the retirement of Mr. Fitch from business in that city.

Mr. Fitch, who began his career in the circulation department of The Jacksonville Journal Courier in 1920, has sold his photograph studio in Oskaloosa and will go to Seattle, Wash., for a rest. His son, Harry Fitch, Jr., will continue the Fitch studio at Cedar Rapids.

Mrs. Harry Fitch, Sr., died last March 16. Her father, D. C. Diltz, who retired after many years as agent of the G.M.&O. railroad in this city, now resides in Oskaloosa.

The Oskaloosa Daily Herald paid tribute to Mr. Fitch's progressiveness and career as a business man in the following editorial:

"Harry A. Fitch, local photographer and former Oskaloosa Herald circulation manager, photographer and engraver, has sold his studio and is going to Seattle to do a little fishing and relaxing for a while.

"Around the Herald we recall so many stories about Harry that it would be impossible to relate all of them. Seems like he was always starting some sort of promotion and dragging the folks in the news room in with him. Heaven knows how many ordeals we endured at Harry's insistent urging.

"During the depression days Harry dreamed up a fall festival that cost no one anything, except for a perfectly good suit Harry ruined pushing an old flatbed wagon from one street corner to another, presenting his free entertainment features — mostly kids from the high school in boxing, singing, dancing, and combos.

"It is doubtful if anyone in Iowa worked harder or longer than Harry in helping Pella get her Tulip Time celebration rolling. He spent hours and hours in Pella working up stunts and taking publicity pictures that the Herald furnished Iowa newspapers in advance and during the festival.

"The most popular feature at the Southern Iowa Fair for years was the Herald's Pet and Doll Parade—started by Harry as a circulation promotion among the Herald carriers. For a while it was a picnic affair with some prominent person as guest entertainer. He formed a carriers' band, made the costumes and presented a parade with prizes for pets and bikes and wagons. The attraction grew so big that it was moved to the fair and packed the grandstand year after year.

"Another year Harry bought a lot of firecrackers and offered them as prizes in a Fourth of July contest. Life was miserable around the Herald until the Fourth. Then Harry was stuck with some of the firecrackers and used them at will, especially late at night on New Year's Eve.

"The boss was interested in an engraving department, so Harry trained himself as a photographer with a pocket camera, then better ones, until he was able to do wonders with a Graphic. By watching engravers Harry was able to steal enough trade secrets to assemble and operate an engraving plant. A lot of folks were taught engraving by Harry, including innocent instruction of a Sigourney man who turned his training to making counterfeit money.

"When Harry started his own studio we drove him to distraction by intimation that all the equipment came out of the office. There were times when he wasn't speaking to some of us. But we still have a high regard for Harry and hope that he tires of Seattle and returns to Oskaloosa."

'CIVIC HOSTESSES'

Jacksonville's newest addition to traffic enforcement are Mary Myers, 421 South Mauvaisterre, left, and Lotha Carter, 1026 South East, and both are designated as "Civic Hostesses."

Both have been working several months but uniforms and other equipment just arrived a few days ago.

They are responsible for issuing overtime parking reminders to residents who park in the downtown area.

City officials and councilmen are "well pleased" with their work—during the short period of time both have been working, overtime parking revenues have hit the highest mark in the city's history.

Mrs. Edmund Lawrence Heyer

Sondra May Bride Of Edmund Heyer In Ceremony At Church Of Our Saviour

Miss Margaret Sondra (Sonnie) May, elder daughter of the B. Gordon Mays living west of the city, became the bride of Edmund Lawrence Heyer, formerly of Carlyle, Ill., in a lovely fall ceremony performed Monday morning, October nineteen, at the Church of Our Saviour. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund P. Heyer of Carlyle.

Reverend Robert Morris officiated for the single ring ceremony in which Mr. May gave his daughter in marriage. Arrangements of white glads and mums and greenery adorned the altar of the church illuminated by burning white tapers in candelabra.

The bride's sister, Judith Carole May, and the bridegroom's brother, Duane Heyer, attended the couple. Ushers were Thomas Cooney and John Waltrip.

Chantilly Lace Gown

The snug bodice, with Sabrina cut neckline, was set with long sleeves tapering snugly to points over the wrists. The webb sheer skirt in waltz length ended in a hand clipped hemline following the pattern of the lace.

A dainty queen's crown of sequins held secure the bride's blusher veil of illusion. She wore white satin shell pumps and carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis encircling white orchids.

The maid or honor wore blue lace over poudre blue taffeta with conventional length skirt. On princess lines the dress was fashioned with scoop cut neckline and long sleeves. Judy wore a tiny blue crown with veiling and carried a cascade of blue and white feathered carnations.

Mrs. May wore for Sonnie's wedding a fall suit in a vintage grape shade with matching color accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore a navy blue with white corresponding accessories. Both wore white cymbidium orchids at their shoulders.

A breakfast was served to members of the wedding party and those in the immediate families at Hotel Dunlap following the church ceremony.

Mrs. Heyer graduated in 1956 from Jacksonville High School and attended Stephens College at Columbia, Mo. She is employed at Morgan County Farm Bureau. Mr. Heyer, a State Trooper, is employed by Illinois State Police. Mr. and Mrs. Meyer reside at Hillcrest Trailer Court.

WHITE HALL — The regular meeting of the P.T.A. will be held Monday night, Oct. 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gymnasium. The program theme will be a continuation of "Let's Learn About . . ." started last month when members learned about those who help their children at school.

Monday night the members will learn about "Why a P.T.A." with past projects being evaluated and a committee report by Mrs. Allyn Nichols and Mrs. Kent Strang which will relate the work accomplished by the panels and "buzz sessions" of last year. Time will be alloted for the discussion of local objectives pertaining to this year's program.

A representative of the Heart Assn. will present a film depicting the throat culture program, and will answer questions relative to this subject. Parents who have not already done so are urged to turn in their membership envelopes to Mrs. Stanley Tribble, treasurer or to their child's teacher.

De Gaulle Matches His Unprecedented Power With Unprecedented Conduct

PARIS (AP) — For Charles De Gaulle, the presidency of France includes the role of supersalesman, promoting national unity and De Gaulle in one package.

He is not only the first president of the Republic to have executive powers (the rest were largely figureheads) but he is first of his line in a score of other ways.

No other French president has commanded such nationwide and international prestige. No other has traveled so much to show himself to so many. No other was his country's wartime hero in its darkest hours.

While De Gaulle is the 18th president since France gave up its kings, he considers himself the first—as he is in the new Fifth Republic he created.

Officials in Calais quickly found this out when the president of the local Chamber of Commerce handed De Gaulle a small gold plaque marking his visit there.

"A little memento of your predecessor, President Carnot," he said, recalling the last occasion on which a president of the Republic had visited the channel port.

"Ah, that poor Carnot," sighed De Gaulle as he accepted the gift. Then he added briskly: "But, as for me, I have no predecessor."

The Calais allusion was perhaps not a happy one.

Since becoming president in January, De Gaulle has traveled more than most other presidents during their whole terms.

He has turned up in small towns and villages which never saw a president before. He has ranged far and wide in the newly autonomous countries of the French overseas community.

Throwing the old-time stiff protocol to the winds without losing any of his in-born dignity, the 68-year-old President has let himself be jostled in milling crowds and shaken thousands of ordinary French men and women by the hand. Where once only notables could meet the chief of state, now any man in the street may get a chance to greet him.

Not only the number of trips but their pace has been stepped up. Under the old, relaxed system a president would arrive in the town he was visiting overnight. Thoroughly rested, he then started his engagements. Several times during each day he had breaks when he could change the boiled shirt and stiff collar which was then the presidential uniform.

De Gaulle adopts a streamlined procedure. Hatless and wearing an ordinary business suit, he drops in by jet plane or helicopter on the morning the tour begins. Climbing into a fast limousine, he is on the road by 8 a.m., traveling at breakneck speed—often 80 m.p.h. or more—with a long motorcade dashing perilously behind.

In roadside villages, where the tricolor - sashed mayor usually waits under a triumphal arch, the President makes a quick stop to shake him by the hand. If the crowd is large, he may get out to say a few words. But in less than a minute he ends with his usual cry "Vive la Republique! Vive la France!" Then, amidst applause and often a cheer, he doubles his lanky form back into the car and races off.

Outside the larger towns, the police motorcycle escort is increased and De Gaulle changes to an open car. He then rides, standing, to the city center.

Striding into the beflagged hotel de ville, he gives a few minutes to addressing the municipal council in one room, then the gathered notables in another. Then it's out to the balcony or a special platform on the town hall steps to address the waiting crowd. Few of these speeches last more than 10 minutes.

The message is always the same:

Only a strong France will be heard in world councils. France will only be strong if Frenchmen forget old differences for the sake of national unity.

World peace can only be made by the people themselves, since all regimes must one day pass away.

Social progress means that all Frenchmen equally share the country's gains.

"You are a great nation and great nations always have obstacles to overcome," he says again and again. And the crowd cheers.

Before returning to his car to take the highway again, the President often pushes his way deep into the crowd, creating minor stampedes as hundreds try to touch his out-stretched hands.

Dedicate Brown County Watershed Dam

300 Attend, Rain Pelts Ceremony

Rain marred the dedication ceremonies of Structure No. 3, a large dam, of the Hambaugh-Martin watershed project Friday. The dam will impound a 16 acre lake, with a depth of 29 feet, and is the second largest of the nine structures to be built in developing the watershed, the first of its kind in Illinois.

Seven of the structures will be much smaller. The other one will be considerably larger. It will impound 28 acres of water.

The Brown County Soil Conservation district and the McGee Creek Levee and Drainage district are cooperating with the federal government in the development of the plan, which is designed to protect fertile bottomland from the ravages of Martin and Hambaugh creeks at floodtime.

About 9,000 Acres

There are 57 farms involved in the watershed plan, with a total acreage of 9,000; 3,000 acres of bluff land and 6,000 acres of bottom land.

The project won government approval in 1957 after the landowners had banded together to complete preliminary work such as terracing, pond building and reforesting. It was steered through Congress by the late Sid Simpson of Carrollton. The landowners' share of the cost has been put at $67,000, with the federal government contributing $235,000.

Speeches Curtailed

About 300 persons inspected the project Friday. After a dinner served by the Chambersburg Christian church, the speaking program began, but the rain began peppering down and the program was made mighty short.

Remarks were made by Harold Hoelscher, chairman of the Brown County SCD; Raymond Turner, president of the McGee Creek district; William Klinger, Quincy, district engineer; Gladwin E. Young, deputy SCS administrator, Washington, D.C.; Col. Schweizer in charge of the Corps of Engineers, St. Louis; Lt. Gov. William Chapman, and U.S. Senator Paul Douglas. Mrs. Sid Simpson was unable to attend.

The smaller photo shows the directors of the Brown County Soil Conservation district. Ernest Jensen of Mt. Sterling, Harold Hoelscher, Marshall Cox and Roy Saxer of Versailles.

Eugene Nichols of Mt. Sterling is the SCS work unit leader. He is aided by Dale Tongate, Edsel Guthrie and W. D. Kallosh.

Europe's Coal Mining Industry Loses Race To Oil, Electricity

LONDON (AP)—The coal mines which fed Europe's postwar recovery are falling silent.

Unsold coal stocks are piling up. Miners are looking for other jobs.

Use of oil and hydroelectric power is mainly responsible. Other factors are over - buying from abroad in boom years and a reduced demand for coke in steel mills.

In West Germany 17 million tons of unsold coal are piled up at mines, 12 million in distributors' coal yards.

France has 11 million tons surplus, Britain 34 millions and Belgium 5½ millions.

More than 43,000 miners in West Germany have drifted to other jobs. Some 78,000 in France have been laid off. In Belgium, 27,000 miners will be out of work within two years. At least 13,000 in Britain will lose their jobs this year as the government shuts down collieries.

The West German government has promised to finance retraining of miners and to pay expenses incurred in moving to other areas.

Similar programs are under way in other countries. Labor representatives are working with industry and the government.

A focal point is Luxembourg, headquarters of the High Authority of the six-nation European Coal and Steel Community.

There representatives of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg are trying to anticipate the worst before it happens.

The High Authority is smoothing the way for industrialists to open new factories to offer jobs to unemployed miners.

West Germany has slapped a $4.76 tax on every ton of coal imported from outside the six-nation coal-steel pool.

Money Problems Delay U.S. Antimissile Missile Program

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — The United States will be defenseless against ballistic missiles for another four years, probably longer.

This estimate is based on a series of interviews with scientists and military men here, at the Army Ordnance Missile Command in Huntsville, Ala., and at the Army Air Defense School, Ft. Bliss, Tex.

The informants declined to be identified by name. One of these sources said that under present schedules the Army's antimissile missile, the Nike-Zeus, could not possibly be called operational before 1964 — if then.

Since October 1956, the Army has allocated around 875 million dollars to Zeus development, but the program is still plagued by money problems.

The last Congress appropriated 137 million dollars for the program but to date the Army has refused to accept the funds.

An Army source in Washington explained there is now a technical re-evaluation of the Zeus program under way which is due for completion April 1.

He said the Army had refused to accept the money on the grounds that it is for reproduction items and unless the Department of Defense intends to go forward with the 13-billion-dollar Zeus production program, the Army does not intend to waste the taxpayer's money.

The series of interviews also produced this information:

The Army Air Defense School will not begin to train instructors in the basic Zeus system until 1960-61 and will not graduate the first class of field operation specialists until 1963. However, the Air Defense School is currently training a few men to become instructors' instructors.

Theoretically it might be possible to place a Zeus battery in the field to counter intercontinental ballistic missiles late in 1963, but there are certain hitches.

The Zeus system is still a research and development project and a final, production line design has yet to emerge.

Even so, work on the Zeus is far enough advanced for the engineers to have determined a future need for certain items which require a manufacturing lead time of approximately four years.

To date no money has been appropriated by Congress, or set aside by the Defense Department, for production of these items. And work on the Zeus system still proceeds on a 40 - hour week, with some minor exceptions.

Ever since the first disclosure that the United States was working on an antimissile missile, the program has been shrouded in secrecy.

Since February the Army's technical people here and at Huntsville say they have been trying to give the nation an official progress report on Zeus. They have even prepared an 11½-minute movie on the first test flight of the weapon.

These progress reports and the movie are based on material which some of the technical people say has long been declassified, at least so far as White Sands and Huntsville are concerned. But the Pentagon has not released this information.

In any case, some of this unclassified information has been made available through a sort of under-the-table and don't - quote-me arrangement.

The Zeus missile itself is simply a bigbrother to the present anti-aircraft missile, the Nike-Hercules. Zeus is designed to operate in space as a guided missile with an atomic warhead.

Pictures of the Zeus indicate that it is a three-stage vehicle consisting of a booster to get it off the ground swiftly, a sustainer engine to speed it on its way and the warhead section. All are propelled by solid-type fuels.

The most radical design departure is the first-stage booster, housed in a single chamber, which hikes the Zeus to 60,000 feet plus faster than the eye can follow. The Hercules has a smaller, four-barreled booster.

Reportedly the Zeus will be able to intercept an incoming missile 200 miles from the intended target area.

To build the Zeus, scientists had to overcome two technical difficulties.

The first is heat. The Zeus has the same problem climbing out of the atmosphere as an ICBM dos on re-entry.

While Zeus' outgoing speed will be less than that of an ICBM, it also has a friction-heat problem. Scientists here believe they have the problem licked. How, they won't say.

The second major problem is guidance in space. As it passes through the atmosphere, Zeus is controlled by vanes, something like ailerons on an airplane. In space, however, the ailerons won't work.

The guidance problem reportedly has been solved by incorporating tiny rockets in the warhead which can be triggered from the ground to change the flight path of the antimissile warhead.

David Boyle Receives Honors At Kentucky U.

David Boyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Boyle, 1440 S. Main St., has recently received two honors at Kentucky University, Lexington, where he is enrolled as a freshman. Shortly after registering for Air Science in R.O.T.C. David was selected to serve in the Cadet Police Force.

David Boyle

This group ushers at basketball games, concerts and lectures and assists the state and local police in times of emergency. The cadets also act as official honor guard for the governor of Kentucky on state occasions. In appreciation of their service, the cadets are honored at a breakfast at the governor's mansion on the day of the famed Kentucky Derby and attend the race as guests of the governor.

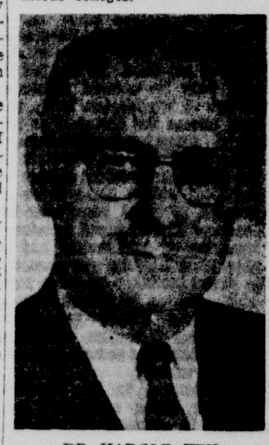
Last week David's family was informed of his second honor. He has been selected as one of fifteen young men, from a freshman class of three thousand, who will work with the Dean of Men on a study of freshman boy's problems. They will hold a weekly panel discussion.

David is enrolled in the school of anthropology and is majoring in archeology.

Protestant Weekly Editor To Speak At College Chapel

Dr. Harold E. Fey, editor of Christian Century, known as the world's largest Protestant weekly will be the speaker at the annual Reformation Sunday observance to be held this year at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 1 in the chapel at MacMurray College.

Ministers from all of the churches in the city have been invited to take part in the program which will include a processional of the clergy garbed in the robes of their various colleges.



DR. HAROLD FEY

In addition to Dr. Fey the MacMurray College choir under the direction of Henry Busche will present two numbers and will take part in the processional. The observance is being sponsored by the Jacksonville Council of Churches, Ecumenical relations department, of which Rev. Harvey Dibrell is chairman.

Dr. Fey is a minister of the Disciples of Christ (Christian) church and an author of two well known books. He published this year in association with another author a book "Indians and Other Americans," the result of a series of articles he wrote following a 1955 tour during which he visited Indian reservations in the United States and Alaska. His other outstanding book is titled "The Lord's Supper: Seven Meanings."

In 1957 following previous trips abroad Dr. Fey conducted a Christian Century World Seminar during a tour around the world. He has covered for his publication both world assemblies of the World Council of Churches has visited extensively in the middle East and during the Korean conflict spent considerable time in that area.

The Jacksonville Council of Churches believes it is extremely fortunate in securing a man of Dr. Fey's standing to deliver the address at the second of the Reformation Day observances.

If You're Considering A Monkey For A Pet, Beware-Read This First

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — You can take a monkey out of the jungle, but you can't take the jungle out of a monkey.

I learned that lesson the hard way—by sharing a bachelor apartment with a full-grown, wild one.

If you ever want a monkey for a pet, I would offer this advice: Pay a little more money and get a tame one. Also, don't give him the run—or better, swing—of the place. He'll make a monkey out of you.

A pet store was running a special, and I picked him up for only $17.50. The man even threw in a cage.

He was honest with me—as far as he would commit himself. He told me Junior had been in this country only several weeks, having left a tree in some jungle.

He explained somewhat indignantly I could not expect a tame monkey for $17.50. Especially with a cage thrown in.

Junior, if you want to get technical, is a full-grown, squirrel monkey. He's small, 10 inches long with a 14-inch tail. But he's all monkey.

Finally, I decided the best way to a monkey's heart was through his stomach.

I opened his cage and sat down on the sofa with a banana in my hand. This was a mistake.

Cautiously, Junior crawled from his cage, glanced around, noticed the banana and waited what seemed to me endless minutes before getting up enough courage to come after it.

He tiptoed across the sofa, lunged forward, grabbed the banana, jumped to the top of his cage, looked over the banana, peeled it, smelled it, took a bite and — threw it at me.

It was a bull's-eye.

Then Junior literally swung into action—all over the place. He stopped at times, seemingly to give me a fighting chance to close in. Then he would sneer and swing away. I had lost before I began.

Junior soon settled down and found the shower rod around the bathtub and a pole lamp in the living room to his liking. He started eating regularly, and seemed contented in having taken over. He never went back to his cage after that.

He even opened the refrigerator door for his own food, but never bothered to close it.

He loved mealworms—the larva of beetles—and ate 10 to 15 a day. They cost a penny apiece. He also liked stale bread, most fruit, but especially grapes, and marshmallows.

Surprisingly, the landlady became one of Junior's best friends. She would feed him grapes while emptying the trash.

One day she found Junior on the third floor. She scolded him and told him to get upstairs where he belonged. He did.

The relationship between Junior and me, however, was not as happy as it might seem.

Junior had one fault which became increasingly difficult to overlook. He was not housebroken.

But now someone else is cleaning up after him. I donated him to the zoo.

Greenfield Band Boosters Vote Change Of Name

40 Days Behind Iron Curtain Is Topic For Chapel

Mrs. Edeltrud Miller, assistant professor of Modern Languages at Illinois College, teaching French, will be convocation speaker at Illinois College on Monday morning, Oct. 26, at 10 a.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium. She will speak on "My Forty Days Behind the Iron Curtain." From February to June 1959 she visited family and friends.

Mrs. Miller was born in Germany and completed high school and Normal School work in Germany before coming to the United States. She received her A. B. degree from Seattle Pacific College and her M. A. degree from the University of Washington. She has completed additional graduate study at the Sorbonne in Paris, the University of Mexico, and held a Fellowship in Germanics at the University of Chicago.

Convocation exercises are open to the public, and friends of the College in the community are cordially invited to attend.

'Survey Of Asia' Topic Of Second Lecture Series

Felix Greene, who brought back the first comprehensive eye-witness report to American audiences on Red China, will present another survey of Asia when he speaks Thursday, Nov. 12, at MacMurray College.

He will discuss "The Far East Revisited" at 11 a.m., in Annie Merner Chapel. The lecture, second in MacMurray's series this year, is open to the public admission free. Dr. McKendree M. Blair is chairman of the series.

Greene's primary purpose in returning to the Far East is to study the effect of China's growing power in that area. He has been described as "a man of enormous curiosity to see for himself what makes the world tick." He has traveled over much of the globe since his university days.

Active in high echelons of British government for a time after leaving Cambridge, he then turned to radio and served as a senior official of the British Broadcasting Corporation for nearly 10 years, both in London and later in America as head of the BBC staff here.

During that time he was sent on a number of special missions to many parts of the world. He resigned from the BBC to make America his permanent home. Besides heading his own importing firm, he is a frequent broadcaster of news commentaries from the West Coast.

A trained observer of the international scene, he has given American lecture audiences their first authentic glimpse into the China of today under Communist rule. His visits were undertaken with the full knowledge and acquiescence of both the U. S. and British governments.

LIGGITT GROUP HEARS MEDITATION ON HARVEST SEASON

The Liggett Group, CWF of Central Christian church, met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gerald Miller, 508 W. College. Twelve members and two guests were present.

Mrs. Lee Lyons, leader, conducted routine business. Mrs. Miller gave an impressive period of devotion and meditation, centering her message around the harvest season and Indian Summer, which typified and expressed the thankful spirit and the gratitude of the early settlers.

Featuring a beautifully arranged worship table, consisting of harvest products, lighted candles and the open Bible, Mrs. Miller used passages of Scripture, poems and autumn pictures illustrating the many ways in which God is found.

Soft piano music was rendered by Mrs. Frank Moxon during the worship service. Mrs. Miller closed with prayer.

In the absence of Mrs. Adams, the afternoon discussion of the study topic, Town and Country Churches, was given by Mrs. Moxon. Present day changes and trends in both types of churches were presented by the leader and interesting comments were contributed by group members.

Mrs. Hubbert gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Hutches the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Callendar explained the plan for the collection of articles to be used in the missions project. Mrs. Lyons announced the next meeting would be Tuesday, Nov. 7, at the church.

Following the adjournment, Mrs. Miller served refreshments as the social hour was enjoyed.

Parking Problem Hits Merchants At Jerseyville

JERSEYVILLE — Downtown parking has become a problem which Jerseyville merchants are now seeking a solution. A number of meetings have been held the past two weeks by local business groups and city council members.

Proposals involving the purchase of a number of lots now occupied by either residences or other structures close to the business district are being considered, with the idea of wrecking the existing buildings and making the lots suitable for parking.

The question of how the purchases of the proposed parking lots will be financed is the one remaining to be solved, but some definite action is to be taken toward solving the parking space shortage.

Sportsmen Plan Series Of Night Trapshoots

The Meredosia Sportsmen's Club held its regular meeting Thursday night in the clubhouse on the beach road, conducted by the vice-president, Harold Weber. There were twenty five members and one guest present.

Beginning Tuesday, October 27, 7:30 p.m., the club will hold a series of night trapshoots.

After routine business had been taken care of, expenditures were authorized for the annual registration of the local Boy Scout troop and for subscriptions to "Boys' Life," the Scout magazine.

There was some discussion of painting the window and door frames, with no definite decision having been made.

Two films were shown, "Ocean Showroom" and "Over the Rainbow," both by Mercury Motors.

Refreshment committee for the November 12 meeting is John Nortrup, Virgil and John Steinberg.

Meat and cheese sandwiches, coffee and pop were served by Kenneth Nunn, Mr. Weber, and Mr. Nortrup substituting for Alpha Ommen.

FLYING FARMER

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When he climbs out of a B47 jet bomber at the end of a day's flying, Air Force navigator John P. Wright settles down on the farm.

A lieutenant colonel with 19 years in the service, Wright has taken a long term lease on a 90-acre farm next to Lockbourne Air Force Base here. Wright says he and his family are trying out farming on a part-time basis to see if that's what they want to do when he retires.

Takes Nine Mile Traditional Hike On 85th Birthday

JERSEYVILLE — James C. Vanaudoll of Dow walked the nine miles from his home in that village to Jerseyville on his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary ten years ago wednesday, repeated the hike again this week by negotiating the distance on his eighty-fifth anniversary.

Vanaudoll is a carpenter by trade and until several months ago remained quite active in the work. Unable to continue heavy work, he now devotes considerable time to working in his garden and experimenting in floral culture. He reported this week that he had just completed the task of replanting 800 tulip bulbs.

Lioness Club Sees Slides From Hawaii

The Jacksonville Lioness Club met Thursday night, October 22nd at the Dunlap Hotel, with twenty-one members present. The pledge was given by lioness Eades, and the Invocation by lioness Furry. Two birthdays were recognized, lionesses Hess and Quy.

Mrs. John Murray, president presided at the meeting. The monthly gift was awarded to lioness Floreth, and the lovely table decorations of dahlia's, chrysanthemums and ivy were awarded to lionesses Long, Murray and Noudett.

The program was presented by lion John Murray who showed colored slides and movies of their recent trip to Hawaii. The next meeting will be held November 12.

ISD Alumnus Will Be Honored Oct. 31 At Homecoming

On Saturday, Oct. 31 the Illinois School for the Deaf will hold its 38th annual Homecoming with the ISD Tigers meeting the Indiana School for the Deaf eleven in the grid tilt. Besides the football game and the dance, a special event will feature this year's homecoming.

The day has been officially designated as "Ladislaw Cherry Day" in honor of an ISD alumnus who last July was elected Grand President of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf at its 18th quadrennial convention in Detroit, Mich.

The ISD alumni association will be in charge of a program in the school auditorium Saturday morning beginning at 10:15, honoring Mr. Cherry. Participants will include Superintendent Thomas Kline, Rev. Delbert Thies, Walter Maack of Collinsville, president of the alumni association; Leonard Warshawsky of Chicago, assistant grand secretary-treasurer of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf; John Houser of this city; Robey Burns of Chicago; and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fitzgerald also of Chicago.

LADISLAW CHERRY

At noon there will be a luncheon at the Dunlap hotel for Mr. Cherry. Robey Burns will be master of ceremonies. Following the luncheon a motorcade will form for a swing around the business district and then head for the ISD football field. At half-time the motorcade will form again for a trip around the gridiron. In the evening Mr. Cherry will be presented to the audience at the homecoming dance prior to the crowning of the queen.

Lost Hearing When Seven

Ladislaw Cherry was born in Warsaw, Poland at the turn of the century and came to the United States when he was very young. He lost his hearing at the age of 7 from spinal meningitis. It was not until he was 11 years old that his parents found out that there were schools for the deaf in this country. The first school he attended was the Mt. Airy School for the Deaf in Philadelphia, Pa. Later he attended the West Virginia School for the Deaf in Romney and then the Ohio School for the Deaf in Columbus. In 1913 his parents moved to Chicago and the fall of that year he was enrolled at the School for the Deaf here.

Straight A's At I.S.D.

At ISD Mr. Cherry was what is known in modern times as a "straight A student." He graduated in 1918 with honors at the head of his class. In the fall of that year he entered Gallaudet College in Washington, D. C., the only college for the deaf in the world. After his graduation from Gallaudet he joined the staff of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf at its home office in Chicago. Several years later he became assistant grand secretary-treasurer of the society and a short time later he was promoted to grand secretary-treasurer from which position he worked his way up to the grand presidency. Among his colleagues he gained the reputation of being a hard and diligent worker.

In addition to his academic work, Mr. Cherry also took a keen interest in athletics while he was a student at ISD. He played both baseball and football, the only sports at the school in his day. At that time ISD's opponents were the late Coach W. T. Harmon's Illinois College teams. Not having the services of an athletic director, athletics at ISD was left in charge of the older boys among whom a leader was chosen. The leader usually was president of the Boys' Athletic Association. Cherry held this position during his senior year.

Mr. Cherry also took an active part in the activities of the Boys' Literary Society, serving as president his last year at the school. He also wrote for the ISD school paper, The Illinois Advance.

The National Fraternal Society of the Deaf of which Mr. Cherry is now grand president, is a fraternal insurance organization catering to deaf men and women between the ages of 18 and 55 in the United States and Canada. The objects of the society are to provide a circle of friendliness and fellowship among the deaf, and to pay sick, accident, and death benefits.

Society Has $4,500,000 Assets

The society was begun by a group of young deaf men in Flint, Mich. in 1901. Today it has over 10,000 members with assets valued at approximately $4,500,000. It operates on the lodge system and has branch lodges in over 100 cities. It is chartered under the laws of the State of Illinois and is licensed by the insurance departments of 37 other states and by the Dominion of Canada. The home office of the society, formerly located in Chicago, is now a modern, one story structure in Oak Park, Ill.

Jacksonville is among the cities in Illinois that has a branch lodge of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf and is known as Jacksonville Division No. 88. Officers of the local division are Elgin Cress, president; John Boatwright, vice president; Charles Long, secretary, and Robert Anderson, treasurer.

Other cities in Illinois that have branch lodges of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf are Peoria, Rockford, Springfield, Moline-Rock Island, and Chicago which has four.

On Homecoming Day Jacksonville Division No. 88 will sponsor a individual handicap bowling tournament at the Bowl Inn and in the evening a party at the Am Vets Hall.

Pleasant Hill Youths Admit 5 Burglaries

PITTSFIELD, Ill.—Four Pleasant Hill youths, all 17 years old, signed statements Friday in Pike county court admitting participation in five burglaries during the past two months, including breakins on two occasions at Pittsfield High school.

The four also admitted burglaries at Pleasant Hill High school, the elevator and Red and White store in that village, according to State's Attorney Bryce Irving.

The defendants to the burglary charges are Larry Dean Lippincott, Robert Dean Gray, Jerry Dean Guthrie, and Robert Lee Helms, who are being held in jail.

The court referred their cases to Probation Officer Hiram Mc. Kenna, who will make a report back to the court.

SCOUT ROUNDTABLE HELD AT SALEM LUTHERAN SCHOOL

A Boy Scout Leaders Roundtable was held the second Monday in October for scoutmasters and leaders throughout the Honest Abe district.

Jerry McCurley, assistant scout master of Troop 102 gave a demonstration of patrol leaders' responsibility and the proper method of honoring the office.

The scout roundtable is held on the second Monday of every month at the Salem Lutheran Church. All scout leaders are urged to attend.

Ashland Woman's Club To Help In 1959 Fund Drive

ASHLAND—The Ashland Junior Woman's club will again participate in the Brain Research Foundation's annual fund drive. The theme of the 1959 drive will be "Campaign For Understanding."

The Junior club is now selling packets of candy corn, with the entire proceeds going to the Brain Research Foundation. Help this worthwhile project by buying this "Trick or Treat" candy.

Poster Contest

First place, division A—Jerry Murray; first place, division B—Dickie Jacoby; second place, division A—Jim Murray; second place, division B—Richard Wayne Bloomfield.

Prizes were contributed by Newell Insurance Agency. Each first place winner received a certificate good for $5 in trade at any Ashland store; each second place winner received a similar certificate good for $2.50.

Jerry Murray's winning poster had a theme "Fire Prevention—the Best Way To Fight Fire Is To Prevent It." Ten small pictures were drawn showing how to eliminate fire hazards.

Richard Jacoby's winning entry contained an interesting use of material showing a house on fire. The display included a fence by the house, trees and rocks lining the walk to the house.

Jim Murray's poster had a "before and after" picture showing a forest fire and its desolate result. Richard Bloomfield used five matches to demonstrate how to build a safe fire. He used actual leaves for his tree and lined the fire area with small rocks.

Back in Business

Dr. R. O. and Dr. E. L. Beadles, dentists, are now back in business after being burned out recently in the fire which destroyed the Ranes building.

The two dentists have set up temporary offices in the Jess Bennett building, south of Wests grocery store. The interior and exterior of the building have been painted and partitions have been erected.

The dentists plan to build a new building in the near future on the ground between the American Legion hall and John Gutmann's paint store.

Throngs Visit Elliott State Bank Opening Saturday Afternoon

Throngs of customers and friends visited the Elliott State Bank and Trust Company Saturday afternoon for their official grand opening of the remodeled portion and new addition.

Bank officials were on hand to greet the crowd of people and employees guided the spectators on a special tour of the building.

The open house culminated a two-year expansion program and included a new portion featuring drive-in facilities and an enlarged installment loan department. The remodeled portion houses street-level teller windows and savings department. The second floor houses the trust department and executive offices. The lower level features the accounting department and vault. A room is also available to any group in the Jacksonville area for meetings.

1200 Attend Opening

A crowd of more than 1200 persons visited the bank during the two hours Saturday afternoon. Each woman received a boxwood plant, special kiddie checks to be used throughout the business district were presented to all children making the tour and cigars were given to all men.

Contest Winners

Winners of the "Know The People At Elliott" contest were awarded Saturday afternoon by bank officials.

First prize of $50 went to Isabel Cully, Jacksonville; second, $25, to Russell Osborne, Murrayville; third, $10, to Dorothy Mae Darush, Jacksonville; fourth, $7.50, to Sonnie May Heyer, Jacksonville; and fifth, $7.50, to Hugh Norfleet, Alexander. All awards were made in the form of savings accounts at the bank.

The correct total number of years experience for the 56 employees was 498 years, 3 months. Miss Cully won first place with her estimate of 497 years, 7 months.

All 56 employees were on hand to explain various duties and facilities available at the bank.

"Open House" hours Saturday were from 4 to 6 p.m.

Hospital Physical Therapist Gives Exercise Lecture

Thirty-five graduate staff nurses met in the conference room of Our Saviour's hospital Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 21.

Sister M. Maura, chairman of the program committee, introduced Jack Barnes, Physical Therapist, supervisor of physical therapy department of Passavant hospital.

Mr. Barnes gave an interesting and informative demonstration on the use of passive and active exercises. He also showed how to correctly use and adjust crutches. He told of the benefit derived from the use of physical therapy for patients afflicted with vascular disease and muscular disfunction caused by disease or fracture.

Mr. Barnes remained one half hour longer after his formal lecture to instruct those who desired further knowledge concerning the exercises.

Drill Falls, Pins Barry Man In Small Space

PITTSFIELD — Ray Spoonmore of Barry remains in fair condition in the Illini Community hospital where he was taken several days ago, following an accident. He is a dynamite blaster and driller for the Missouri Gravel Company.

He was injured when an 800 pound drill fell on him, pinning him in a six inch space between the boom and draw bar of the drill. He was thrown face downward and was badly crushed in the midsection.

He was able to crawl free and was taken to the hospital where surgery was performed. He will undergo further surgery as he improves.

George Shearing Quintet Scheduled Here Nov. 16

GEORGE SHEARING

George Shearing and his quintet will bring a welcome change of pace to Jacksonville music life with an appearance Nov. 16 at MacMurray College.

The famed Capitol recording artist, who was born totally blind, will appear in concert at 8 p.m., in the MacMurray field-house on Hardin avenue. Tickets are available at The Tune Shop, or by contacting MacMurray College. They list at $1.25 for high school students, $1.50 for adults, and will be sold for $1.75 each at the door the evening of the performance.

In charge of local publicity is Terry Brennan, a MacMurray student, with Miss Christina Cleeland and Miss Pamela Smith handling ticket sales at JHS.

Sponsored by the MacMurray Joint Social committee, the event should attract a large number of music lovers in this area. The sextet, which will leave immediately afterwards for an extended stay in Chicago's London House, has made four nationwide concert tours with Billy Eckstine and Count Basie. They have performed in every major auditorium and theater in every principal city in the U. S. and Canada.

The story of Shearing is one of tremendous talent and courage. Born totally blind on Aug. 13, 1919 in the Battersea slums of London, he was one of eight children of an impoverished coalman. He received no more than the normal amount of musical training given elementary students until he entered Linden Lodge School for the Blind at the age of 12. There his talents were noticed, but when his formal education ended at 16, George considered himself lucky to land a piano playing job in a neighborhood pub. He studied classical music during his off hours, and eventually began getting supper club engagements with a band led by a friend of the family.

Shortly thereafter, one of his former Linden School instructors recommended him to Claude Bampton, who was in process of organizing an orchestra for a tour of Britain. He signed with the outfit, an all-blind band.

His "Lullaby of Birdland" is already one of the most recorded tunes of all times. Included in his "discography" are such tunes as: "How Come You Do Me Like You Do?"; "I Don't Stand a Ghost of a Chance;" and "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody."

Shearing hopes ultimately to wed jazz and the classics so that his group can successfully tour several months of the year with symphonic orchestras as well as on its own.

George Rogers Clark Is Discussed Before Society

"Without doubt, every experience in our lives is of some value to us in after life," Edgar Dukes said in opening his talk on the George Rogers Clark expedition into the Illinois country for the quarterly meeting of the Morgan County Historical Society at the Dunlap Hotel, Friday evening. Mr. Dukes, formerly of Albion, Illinois, is a resident at Illinois christian Home in this city.

Mr. Dukes traced the march of civilization to the west, using maps and pictures to illustrate its movements, with Donald Robinson assisting in showing the slides.

"Young America stood strong because of her rugged individuality. Independence (with a big I), and persistent forward push," he said in describing conditions in the American colonies at the time of the birth of Clark in Virginia.

"It is the first permanent settlers that impressed themselves upon the future," he continued, in listing the qualities of Washington, Jefferson, George Mason, and others who helped to shape the character of young Clark.

"He learned from the Indians in Ohio all the tricks of Indian fighting which later he was to use in capturing Kaskaskia, Cahokia, and Vincennes with a handful of Kentucky frontiersmen."

"Clark died an old man, crippled and poor, on the banks of the Ohio, without ever having been paid by the government for the expenses he incurred in conducting the expedition. A monument to him at Fort Massac that cost a million and a half dollars didn't do him any good," he concluded.

Adopts Jacksonville

Mr. Dukes was introduced by Ernest Hoagland, president of the society, as a "man who has adopted Jacksonville as his home. History is one of his hobbies, as is the art of printing."

Bernard Wax, field representative of the Illinois State Historical Society, was a guest at the meeting and spoke briefly.

"We in Springfield are there for your benefit," he told the group, "and we want to extend to you any help we can give."

In the discussion period following the program, Mr. Hoagland told of a visit he made to the Kaskaskia State Park where a stone shelter and overlook have been built in order to provide a place for viewers to stand and look over the river to an island, once the site of Kaskaskia, the first capitol of Illinois, long since washed away by the river.

"There I saw three bronze markers. On them was a sonnet, To A Sunken City, written by Louis William Rodenberg, one of our own members.

Mr. Rodenberg when questioned after the meeting, credited the D.A.R. with placing the triptych as one of the series of memorials marking the Clark trail in Indiana and Illinois which Mr. Dukes described in his talk.

Rev. L. E. Olson, pastor of First Baptist church, gave the invocation preceding the dinner.

Christmas Cantata

The first practice for the Christmas Cantata was held Tuesday evening in the band room at the school. Practice will be held in the band room each Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. All the churches will participate in the cantata again this year. Miss Dorothy Fridlund, director, urges all interested persons to contact her, or be present Tuesday evening.

Clear glass bottles are made essentially from sand, soda ash and limestone.

Hamilton's Restaurant Will Double Capacity

Hamilton's Restaurant, 216 East State street, has begun a remodeling and expansion program which will double its capacity from 100 to 200 diners.

The front portion of the building directly east of the present restaurant, formerly occupied by Hunter's Cleaners, will be converted to restaurant use. The carpenter work has been started by George Day, contractor.

Lloyd T. Hamilton and his son, George A. Hamilton, who are associated in the business, said the new section is expected to be ready for occupancy about Jan. 1.

The new section is located directly south of the Pilgrim room in the restaurant. Entrance to the new section will be through the present restaurant.

The new section will be completely remodeled and equipped in modern, attractive style.

George Hamilton said the red canopy across the front of the present restaurant will be extended over the new section, and fronts of both buildings will match.

Lloyd T. Hamilton has been engaged in restaurant business here since 1913.

Michigan Turns Back Gophers

By JIM KLOBUCHAR

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)— Struggling Michigan turned loose Darrell Harper and Fred Julian on long touchdown runs in a two-minute flash of old time Wolverine fire Saturday and defeated Minnesota, 14-6.

It was a game of deliverance for the young Wolverines, their first Big Ten victory after six straight losses dating back to midseason of 1958, and it pulled them out of the conference basement.

Harper startled the favored Gophers by grabbing a high punt on the 17 and sprinting 83 yards to score with 2½ minutes gone in the third period.

Two minutes later, Julian, like Harper, a relative disappointment in two previous seasons, smashed off tackle, cut back and sped 42 yards for a touchdown. It was the first touchdown in his Michigan career.

After flubbing the scoring chances all day, the Gophers cashed in with 1:14 left when Larry Johnson passed 17 yards to Tom Hall. The attempted pass for a two point conversion failed and Minnesota was finished.

By winning this 50th anniversary battle with its old enemy, Michigan held onto one of the celebrated trophies in college football, the Little Brown Jug. In doing so, Michigan pushed Minnesota into the Big Ten basement and ran the Gophers' run of losses to 17 in their last 20 games.

[illegible] RECEIPTS

CHICAGO (AP) — Estimated livestock receipts for Monday are 23,000 cattle, 12,000 hogs and 3,000 sheep.

Bill Skowron, Yankee first baseman who suffered a broken wrist in mid-season, will be an instructor next winter at the Kissimmee, Fla., baseball school.

ALL GRAINS FINISH WEEK WITH GAINS

CHICAGO (AP) — Old crop wheat futures scored their best gains in several months on the Board of Trade this week. Other grains also finished the week higher.

Except for Monday, old crop wheat—the December, March and May deliveries— advanced every day as bullish influences brought increased buying into the market. December wheat was in greatest demand most of the time and this delivery was up more than three cents a bushel at the close Friday.

At the finish, old crop wheat was up 1¾ to 3⅛ cents a bushel compared with Friday a week ago. New crop wheat — the July and September contracts — were unchanged to ⅛ lower. Corn finished ¼ to 1⅜ higher, oats ½ to 1¼ higher, rye ¼ to 1 higher and soybeans 1¼ to 2⅛ higher.

Bullish influences in wheat included reports of continued very small farmer selling in the Southwest, a large pending business with Brazil and Pakistan, and a report that red wheat had been bought by a milling interest to move out of Chicago.

Another factor was the expectation a Department of Agriculture report on the amount of wheat under government support would prove to be bullish.

The report came out Friday after the close of the market, confirming expectations. It showed 234,749,287 bushels of wheat under support as of Sept. 30. This is some 60 million bushels more than was under the loan a month ago.

The report also showed 203,034 bushels of corn and 229,820 bushels of soybeans were placed under support since harvesting of the new crop commenced a month ago.

Soybeans continue to be the most active and most speculative commodity on the grain market. The speculative interest in beans has been extremely large and the open interest has expanded to an all-time record of over 146 million bushels.

Advances in corn were attributed to low inventories, which brought aggressive demand from both exporters and processors for first run marketings of the new crop. Exporter and processor supplies were reported at low levels.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)— Chagrined by the flashing of false hopes that a negotiated settlement of the steel strike was in the making, the stock market this week sank to its worst loss in a month.

The market declined monotonously day after day until the final session when an overdue technical rally, aided late in the day by news of a possible resumption in the steel negotiations, erased a part of the week's losses.

While the steels, motors, rails and other pivotal issues declined, space age stocks generated a bull market of their own, some touching new highs. American Motors and Studebaker-Packard, the established producers of compact cars, also continued in favor.

The Dow Jones Industrial average fell 10.15 to 633.07.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined $3.60 to $221.30. This was its worst weekly decline since the week ended Sep. 19 when it lost $5.30 in reaction to the Russian moon rocket and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit.

Volume swelled to 13,886,806 shares from 11,543,106 in the previous week's advancing market and was the largest total since the week ended Sept. 26 when turnover was 16,011,460 shares.

Losers outnumbered gained by 805 to 432. New lows totaled 127 and new highs 41.

U. S. Steel dropped 3 points on the week, Bethlehem 1½ and Lukens 2⅝ despite the Friday rally which cut losses vastly.

Bond trading totaled $26,191,000 par value compared with $25,323,000 a week ago and $26,081,500 a year ago.

Purdue Outlasts Hawkeyes, 14-7

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue sent two burly fullbacks plunging over Iowa's goal line in the second quarter Saturday and virtually eleminated the defending champions from the Big Ten football race, 14-7.

Recovery of Purdue cripples was the push the Boilermakers needed after being upset at Ohio State last week. Fullback Bob Jarus, who missed the game, scored one of the Purdue touchdowns and his understudy, Jack Laraway, made the other.

Quarterback Bernie Allen, who injured an ankle just before the Ohio State setback, also played his share of the game in Purdue's two platoon system.

The fine passing of Iowa quarterback Olen Treadway, one of the nation's best, set up the Hawkeye's lone touchdown in the final period. A 25-yard pass to end Jeff Langston started a 76-yard strive and fullback Don Horn went the last couple of yards.

Pur — Laray 3 plunge (Allen kick)

Pur—Jarus 1 plunge (Allen kick)

Iowa — Horn 1 plunge (Moore kick).

Harry Gilmer's 8.7 yards for 167 plays during the 1945 football season for Alabama still is a Southeastern Conference record.

Dismissed Friday from the hospital were Mrs. Herberta Crawford and son of Kane; Mrs. Lucille Gotway and son, Hardin and Mrs. Helen Meek, Carrollton.

Mrs. Barrows Dies At Home In City Friday Evening

Jennie Barrows, widow of Ed Barrows, passed away at her residence, 207 East Greenwood, at 7:40 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Barrows was born in Morgan County in the Asbury Community, Jan. 30, 1872. She was the daughter of William and Alice Saunderson Richardson. She was married Jan. 20, 1892, and her husband preceded her in death in 1953.

Surviving is one son, Paul, of Asbury; two sisters, Miss Sade Richardson and Mrs. Nellie Keeler; two brothers, Robert Richardson and Will Richardson, all of Stafford, Kan. There are two grandsons, William Barrows of Springfield and Don Barrows at home. She also has one great-granddaughter.

One son, Ralph, preceded her in death.

She was a member of the Grace Methodist Church, Circle Ruth and the Asbury W.S.C.S.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Williamson Funeral Home with Dr. Frank Marston officiating. Burial will be in Asbury Cemetery.

The family will be at the funeral home Sunday from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

PIKE RESIDENTS ATTEND BANKERS MEET

PITTSFIELD — Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Grigsby joined a group in Chicago and went by special train to Miami Beach, Fla. They had two days in New Orleans and two days in Jacksonville, Fla. Mr. Grigsby is the cashier of the Farmers State Bank and they will attend the National Bankers Convention in Miami Beach, where they have reservations at the San Souci Hotel. The meetings are to be held in the Fountainbeau. The Grigsbys plan to be away about two weeks.

An average of 59,000 people were admitted to hospitals in the United States each day in 1958.

Expect Castro Rally To Become Anti-U.S. Show

New leaflets raids by night-flying planes, the reported strafing of a railway car in northern Cuba and a predawn roundup of 40 persons suspected of plotting against Castro kept the Cuban pot boiling.

Havana radio stations said an unidentified gray-colored twin-engine plane fired on a gasoline-powered railway car near the town of Guama, on Cuba's north coast in Camaguey province, early Saturday. The reports said there were no casualties and the car was not damaged.

Denunciations of the United States are expected at Monday's rally.

The Popular Socialist—Communist — party issued a manifesto urging all Cubans to attend the rally to "protest attacks of military aviation from the United States against Cuba."

The Cuban Confederation of Labor ordered all members to quit work at noon Monday and turn out a million strong at the presidential palace in a show of solidarity for Castro.

Only electrical and telephone workers were excused.

Revolucion, newspaper of Castro's revolutionary movement, also called for a million persons to attend the rally.

Most official Cuban indignation is directed at failure of the United States to control the flight of anti-Castro planes from Florida. Some Cubans accused unnamed U. S. officials of joining anti-Castro exiles in a campaign to embarrass the 10-month-old revolutionary regime.

Pro-Castro newspapers and radio stations blamed two deaths and more than 50 wounded Wednesday night on bombs and machine-gun fire from planes based on U. S. soil. But U. S. officials said after exhaustive inquiry they have been unable to find either bomb craters in Havana streets or witnesses who saw bombs or gunfire from planes. The implication is that casualties were inflicted by those firing on the planes.

The Cuban air force has mounted night patrol over Havana to halt flights by light planes showering leaflets. But the air force conceded one plane had flown over Friday night, dropped leaflets and eluded pursuit. Police over Friday night, dropped leaflets and eluded pursuit. Police said another light plane had flown over eastern Havana after dark dropping anti-Castro leaflets signed "Catholic Anti-Communist Assn."

Police struck before dawn in picking up 40 Cubans they said were suspected of planning new violence against Castro's government. Among those detained were several former soldiers who had served under ousted President Fulgencio Batista, authorities said.

new developments were sought, everyone said it would not be proper to comment before the Washington hearings.

Hogan turned aside questions about further grand jury appearances or the possibility of perjury prosecutions. Such things, he said, would have to be decided later.

Van Doren, 33, an English instructor at Columbia University, got a $50,000-a-year consultant's job with NBC as a result of his activities on "Twenty-One."

In the midst of all the furor, CBS President Frank Stanton ordered cancellation of all network quiz shows still on the air and announced a policy of dropping such things as canned laughter on filmed programs.

This set off a row with producers of the "Person to Person" program, formerly conducted by Edward R. Murrow. The producers, John A. Aaron and Jesse Zousmer, angrily announced they were quitting.

Murrow apparently was stung, too. Now on leave from CBS, he issued a statement in London Saturday accusing Stanton of "ignorance both of news and of the requirements of TV production."

Murrow asserted that in setting up such a program as "Person to Person," in which people often are interviewed in their homes, it isn't possible to operate without advance planning by technicians, interviewers, and those to be interviewed."

SHILOH WSCS AT PARSONAGE

The WSCS of Shiloh church met at the parsonage Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Causer opening with the song, "I Must Tell Jesus." Roll call was answered with "my favorite plaything as a child."

Business and communications were taken care of and the secretary and treasurer's report read and approved.

The worship service was by Margaret Wegehoft and the program by Nina Richards, assisted by Rev. Causer. There was also a discussion on the lesson. The pastor gave a short talk on Russian churches. He also accompanied at the piano.

After the prayer and benediction the hostess served refreshments.

The Third Circuit Court is studying the union's appeal from a Taft-Hartley injunction directing the 500,000 strikers to return to their jobs for 80 days. A decision is expected early this week.

Government attorneys obtained the injunction in U. S. Dist. Court here Wednesday. But its enforcement was delayed by the appellate court pending disposition of the union appeal.

Under Taft-Hartley, both sides are required to continue negotiations with the help of federal mediators during the life of the injunction.

Plan Luncheon Oct. 28 At Old Orchard Club

PITTSFIELD—There will be a bridge luncheon at the Old Orchard Country club on Wednesday, Oct. 28, at 1 p.m.

The Fortnightly of the Methodist church will meet on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Irving Wheeler. The W.S.C.S. study class will meet on Tuesday evening at 7:00 in the Hillerbrenner rooms. The intermediate M.Y.F. will meet on Wednesday at 7 p.m.

The Ministerial Association will meet on Tuesday evening at 7:00 in the Rainbow Restaurant.

Pittsfield's share in the July city sales tax collection was $4,448.73. This goes into a fund for the new city lake.

The Pittsfield Woman's Club will meet on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 27, at 2:30 at the Community Center with Miss Minna Bauch, the president, presiding. Miss Ella Dean will give a travelogue and show slides. Hostesses for the afternoon will be Miss Dean, Mrs. Daisy Curless and Mrs. O. M. Branson.

The Pittsfield schools will return to their regular time schedule on Monday when the state returns to Central Standard Time. School will open at 8:30 and close at 3:15.

Bradley Bows To Drake, 20-12

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Drake scored three touchdowns in the first half and then held on to defeat Bradley, 20-12, Saturday in a football game played in wind and chill on a wet field.

The victory was Drake's first of the season after four straight losses. Bradley now has two wins against five defeats.

Ken Macke was a standout in Drake's first-half offense, hurling two touchdown passes to Dave Erbst. Floyd Willikins made Drake's third TD, going over from the 9-yard line in the second quarter.

Bradley started its offense rolling in the last half, but it was too late.

Bradley's Ron Hermann scored on a 52-yard run in the third and Phil Nolan, Bradley end, went over from seven yards after taking a pass from Dean Mefford.

Despite shifting winds, 37 passes were thrown in the game. Bradley threw 20 completing seven while Drake threw 17 completing 8.

In Bradley's second touchdown drive, which carried 81 yards, Mefford, a second-string quarterback, completed six passes on six attempts.

Edward Campbell, Former Editor, Publisher, Dies

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Edward E. Campbell, who established three newspapers in more than half a century as an editor and publisher in Missouri and Illinois, died Saturday of infirmities in suburban Ellisville. He was 86.

Campbell was a close friend of the late Champ Clark, former speaker of the House, and was his Illinois campaign manager in 1912 when Clark lost the Democratic presidential nomination to Woodrow Wilson.

He started his career in Louisiana, Mo., where he started the Louisiana Times and practiced law.

A University of Missouri graduate, Campbell founded the Alton, Ill., Times in 1909. He sold the paper in 1925 to the Alton Telegraph.

In 1927 he established the Granite City Press-Record. He served 20 years as its publisher before retiring in 1947. Among his ancestors was Daniel Boone.

Hospital Notes

Mrs. Edwin Miers, the former Pauline Turner of Jacksonville, has returned to her home in Springfield after being a surgical patient at St. John's Hospital in that city.

Seven Insane Criminals Escape, Two Recaptured

ATASCADERO, Calif. (AP) — Two dangerously insane men among seven who sawed their way out of Atascadero State Mental Hospital were recaptured Saturday. Motorists were warned about the five still at large.

Friday night, the seven cut through a special type of steel bar which state officials had been told was saw-proof. Forty other patients in the same ward could have fled but didn't.

In midmorning, Jesse Reyes, 23, of Los Angeles County, walked up to a psychiatric technician near a school in Atascadero and pleaded, "Take me back to the hospital." The technician was out with hospital security men looking for the fugitives.

Mason Alston, 22, criminally insane, was captured earlier nine miles north of the hospital by officers alerted by a passing motorist.

Radio broadcasts all night and Saturday warned motorists against giving rides to the fugitives.

The first group escape in five years at the hospital, in a sparsely settled area 13 miles south of Paso Robles, astounded state officials. They had been assured that the chromium steel, which had to be installed with special equipment, could not be sawed.

East-West Talks On A-Test Ban Reopens Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The East-West parley on banning nuclear weapons tests reopens Tuesday in what shapes up as a crucial phase of the year-old conference at Geneva.

Some U.S. authorities regard a test ban agreement as a necessary forerunner if there is to be success at the broader 10-nation disarmament conference slated to get under way early next year.

If the Soviet Union will not agree to inspection controls aimed at detecting banned nuclear explosions, it is contended, then there is scant chance of a pact on other types of arms reduction where the West insists controls also are necessary.

U.S. negotiators are hopeful the resuming test-ban talks will produce agreement. But they have no word that Moscow has changed its basic position.

When the talks recessed two months ago, the United States, Britain, and the Soviet Union had reached agreement on a substantial range of items in the proposed treaty. Moscow had softened demands for a sweeping veto and had agreed there ought to be some controls.

But Moscow balked at a scientifically based control and inspection system which the West said is needed to make a test ban reasonably foolproof. The Russians also rejected Western proposals for a special study on how to detect underground nuclear blasts.

U.S. conferees have no new proposals to present as the Geneva meeting gets underway again. They will try to convince the Soviet Union there is need for a study on how to spot underground explosions.

OFFICIALS CONFER ON MILITARY BUDGET

WASHINGTON (AP)—The heads of the State, Defense and Treasury departments got together Saturday for a two-hour conference on next year's military budget.

Secretaries Neil H. McElroy of the Defense Department and Robert B. Anderson of the Treasury took advantage of a Saturday lull in government business to meet with Secretary Christian A. Herter at the State Department.

Asked later what they talked about, McElroy told newsmen "We're getting into budget-making time and there are certain problems in the military budget" as it relates to diplomatic and Treasury planning.

URGE COMMON LANGUAGE FOR ALL OF ASIA

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP) —A common language for Asia—perhaps Mandarin, Arabic, or an Indian one—is advocated by M.A. Ayyangar, speaker of the Lower House of India's Parliament. He told newsmen here this "will bring about better understanding among various countries and may get them to work together." India alone has 14 major languages.

CHAMP IN EXHIBITION

NEW YORK (AP)—World Heavyweight Champion Ingemar Johansson has signed to box a four-round exhibition in Kingston, Jamaica, Dec. 5. The exhibition will be staged in Kingston's Sabina Baseball Park, against an unnamed opponent. The announcement was made Saturday by promoter Andy Niederreiter, who is booking Johansson's tour of the Americas.

Sophomore quarterback Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State has a five-minute recording which is broadcast each week from Wilmington, N.C., his home town.

Dorothy C. Lemon Estate Sold At Public Auction

Three tracts which included two residences in Jacksonville and a 1½ acre plot with house and outbuildings located north of the city were sold at public auction Saturday morning at the Morgan county court house.

Tract 1 was 1½ acres located about 3/4 mile north of the city with a four room modern frame house, basement and garage. The property sold to Vincent Flynn for $7,000.

Tract 3 was a home located at 127 Diamond Court, a seven room modern frame house. Howard Becker was the successful bidder at $4,000.

Apartment Houses Sold At Auction In Winchester

WINCHESTER—A public sale of apartment houses was held Saturday at the Scott County Court House at 2 o'clock with J. E. Venable of Pittsfield as the auctioneer, and L. Allan Watt, attorney for the former owners, Audrey R. Peak and Shirley R. Watson.

The two story brick residence located on South Hill Street one half block South of the public square was purchased by Mrs. Audrey Peak for $2,850.

The vacant lot fronting on Walnut Street and which is East of and adjoining the above residence property was bought by Ray Campbell for $925.

A one story frame house which is divided into four apartments located one block south of the public square on Hill Street was purchased together with the lot adjoining the property on Hill Street by Mrs. Kenneth M. Watson for $2625.

A four apartment building located on West Cherry about a block west of Main Street which is a two story frame house was bought by Mrs. Henry DeSherilia for $1500.

Emma Chapman Of White Hall Dies Friday

WHITE HALL — Mrs. Emma Pritchard Chapman died Friday at 5:45 p.m. at her home on W. Bridgeport. She had been in ill health for two years.

Mrs. Chapman was born at Rising Sun, Ind., on Dec. 25, 1865. She was the daughter of William H. and Amanda Pritchard. On Aug. 14, 1889 she married Charles W. Chapman, who preceded her in death, Aug. 11, 1914.

Surviving are two daughters, Ruth Bouker and Miss Elizabeth Chapman, White Hall; two grandchildren and five great grandchildren. A sister, Bernice Rucker of Joplin, Mo., also survives. One daughter, Natalie, preceded her in death in 1940.

She was a lifelong member of the First Christian Church of White Hall and was previously a school teacher and a music teacher.

The body is at the Dawdy Funeral Home in White Hall. Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at the First Christian Church in White Hall. The Rev. Ruth Nicklin will officiate. Interment will be in White Hall Cemetery.

Southern Cal Edges Stanford

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Southern California's unbeaten Trojans ran into a band of Stanford Indians on the warpath Saturday but managed to escape a scalping and edge out their rivals 30-28.

Stanford, a team beaten in four of its five games, went into the game 19 - point underdogs, but amazed a crowd of 44,209 in Memorial Coliseum by leading the Trojans 21-12 at the half.

Southern Cal came back with a touchdown in the third quarter and two more in the fourth to win.

Hero of the winning team was Clark Holden, a 200-pound fullback who scored four of the five Trojan touchdowns. His markers came on runs of 22, 21, 4 and 1 yards.

Norman finished the afternoon with a passing record of 16 completions out of 32 throws for 207 yards and a pair of touchdowns.

WARNING TO ALL DELINQUENT PERSONAL PROPERTY TAXPAYERS OF IMPENDING PUBLICATION

THE TAX COLLECTOR WILL PUBLISH IN THIS NEWSPAPER A LIST OF THE NAMES OF PERSONS WHO ARE DELINQUENT IN PAYMENT OF PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX, THE AMOUNT OF THE UNPAID PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX, AND THE AMOUNT OF INTEREST ACCRUED, UNLESS PAYMENT IN FULL IS MADE IN SUFFICIENT TIME TO AVOID SUCH PUBLICATION. THE PUBLICATION WILL BE MADE AT SUCH DATE AS IS AUTHORIZED BY LAW.

"In case any person, company or corporation shall refuse or neglect to pay the taxes imposed on him or them, when demanded it shall be the duty of the collector to levy the same, together with the cost and charges that may accrue, by distress and sale of the personal property of the person, company or corporation who ought to pay the same.

In counties of less than 500,000 inhabitants, the collector may annually publish a complete list of the names of persons who are delinquent in payment of personal property tax, the amount of the unpaid personal property tax and the amount of interest accrued;

Such publication shall be made within 90 days after such taxes become delinquent, and such list shall be printed in one or more newspapers printed in the county. In any township in which there is published a newspaper of general circulation, the list of such township shall be published in one or more such newspapers. The newspapers in which such lists are published shall be entitled to a fee at the rate of 15c per column line.

Not less than 30 days preceding the publication of any such list of delinquent personal property taxpayers there shall be published a notice, at the rate of 15c per column line, quoting this Section and warning all delinquent taxpayers of the impending publication. This notice shall be published in all newspapers in which said delinquent list will later be published.

There is imposed on each delinquent taxpayer named in any list published pursuant to this Section, a charge of $1.00, to be collected in the same manner as the tax is collected, as reimbursement to the collector for the cost of preparing the published list. As amended by act approved July 15, 1957", (Section 692 Chapter 120, Illinois Revised Statute 1957.)

Wildcats Beat Notre Dame; Illinois Suffers Second Loss

N'Western Notches 30-24 Win Over Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—The talent of Northwestern quarterback John Talley, who threw three touchdown passes and raced 61 yards to score, overmatched the luck of the Irish Saturday as the second-ranked Wildcats defeated Notre Dame 30-24.

This fifth straight Northwestern victory of the season was the Wildcats' first over Notre Dame since 1940 and only their fourth triumph against 23 defeats and 2 ties in a scrappy series which had lapsed after 1948.

Talley, 175-pound senior from Delaware, Ohio, hurled touchdown passes covering 78, 54 and 18 yards. The only one of Northwestern's five touchdowns in which Talley failed to figure was the second Wildcat score which came on a 3-yard run by Ray Purdin.

Notre Dame's three touchdowns, two of them scored by halfback Bob Scarpitto, and Monty Stickle's 38-yard field goal, all came on Northwestern miscues.

Wildcat fumbles on their own 2 and 12 were directly responsible for Irish touchdowns. And a 52-yard pass play, from Notre Dame's Don White to Scarpitto worked for a score only because a Wildcat defender tipped the ball directly into Scarpitto hands.

After Northwestern took an 18-7 halftime lead, the Irish outscored the Wildcats 17 to 12 in a rousing second half.

The Wildcats marched 78 yards to score their first touchdown in the opening period which came on Talley's 18 yard pass to Elbert Kimbrough.

Still in the first period, Northwestern's Irv Cross recovered Bill Clark's fumble on Notre Dame's 7. Two plays later Purdin scooted 3 yards for a touchdown.

In the second period Clay Schulz recovered Wildcat Purdin's fumble on the Northwestern 2. Two plays later, Scarpitto scored from the two.

Northwestern made it 18-7 before halftime when Talley arched a touchdown pass covering 54 yards to Purdin.

That trimmed Northwestern's edge to 18-14, but the Wildcats came back for two more touchdowns.

In the third period, the Irish scored again on a 52-yard pass from White to Scarpitto which defender Albert Faunce deflected into Scarpitto's hands.

In the final period, the Irish exploited still another stroke of fortune. Back to punt, Northwestern fullback Mike Stock fumbled to a 27-yard loss and the Irish had the ball on Northwestern's 23. Four plays later, Stickles kicked a 38-yard field goal.

But, then both time and luck ran out on the Irish.

Wildlife Official Supplies Chart For Duck Identification

Hunting opportunity for three species of wild ducks—canvasback, redhead, and ruddy—which are in such short supply has been drastically curtailed in most States of the Nation and seriously curtailed in the remaining States.

In order to help the hunter identify these ducks and avoid shooting them by mistake, the Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, has prepared drawings which point up some of the identifying features of each.

The Fish and Wildlife Service recommends two things. The first is that each hunter learn these identifying marks. The accompanying picture will help. The second thing is that the hunter withhold his fire until the duck comes in close enough for him to see its eyes. By that time the duck is close enough to be identified, and also close enough to be killed if it is not one of the three mentioned species.

The Fish and Wildlife official explained that because of three years of serious drought in the prairies of the northern United States and southern Canada where most of the ducks are produced, there is a shortage of all ducks, but that the condition of canvasback, redhead, and ruddy ducks is especially precarious.

Former Coach At Greenfield High Suffers Attack

GREENFIELD—Jim Evers, 48, coach of the Centralia High School football team, has been ordered by a physician to take a leave of absence.

Evers was found to be suffering from a heart condition and will spend two weeks in the St. Mary hospital in Centralia.

After leaving Greenfield he was assistant coach under the late famed Arthur Trout at Centralia High.

Lucas Leads Penn State Past Fighting Illini, 20-9

CLEVELAND (AP)— Quarterback Richie Lucas shrugged off four pass interceptions Saturday to lead eighth-ranked Penn State to a 20-9 victory over Illinois in an intersectional contest.

The classy signal-caller from Glassport, Pa., intercepted two passes himself, scored a touchdown, ran 16 times for 66 yards and passed for 71 to account for more than half the Nittany Lions' total yardage.

Illinois turned a recovered fumble into a 30-yard field goal by Cliff Roberts in the opening period and a pass interception into a second-period touchdown by fullback Bill Brown.

Penn State marched 65 yards in nine plays in the first period with Lucas going the last four on a keeper play. In the second period, the Lions went 51 yards in 14 plays with halfback Dick Pate scoring.

In the third period, Gary Kolb of Illinois intercepted a pass on his own two and on the next play Brown fumbled and Pat Botula recovered for Penn State. The Lions needed two plays before Dick Hoak scored the final points.

Ole Miss Whips Arkansas, 28-0

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — With powerhouse fullback Charlie Flowers ripping Arkansas' line to tatters, mighty Mississippi manhandled Arkansas 28-0 Saturday.

Flowers rammed over two Ole Miss touchdowns in a bitter first half scramble that left the Razorbacks reeling. Halfback Wey Partridge and quarterback Jake Gibbs also hit paydirt for the Rebels.

The heavy but agile Mississippi line kept the frustrated Porkers bottled up most of the game. A ferocious goal line stand late in the game stopped the Hogs' best effort on the Ole Miss five.

Ole Miss controlled play from the starting horn, piling up 201 yards rushing to Arkansas' 106 and using just enough passes to keep the defense off balance.

It was a tremendous bid for a higher berth in the national football rankings. Ole Miss stands fourth in The Associated Press poll. Arkansas was tenth.

The Rebel touchdowns came on strictly engineered drives on 80, 56, 49, and 20 yards.

Europeans Dream About Winning Fortune In Weekly Soccer Pools

By JOHN FARROW

For many it is their only hope of wealth. Like Jimmy Gault, the $28-a-week Irish railroad worker who won $841,915 for a twopenny bet last season.

For some it means complications, as for the 17-year-old rookie in a 24-man Royal Air Force bombing school syndicate that recently won $705,810. Aircraftman Kenneth Hooton announced he would give the bulk of his $18,572 share to charity because his father, a Methodist preacher was stoutly opposed to gambling.

But the gambling instinct of millions of workaday Europeans has made soccer pools a big business in Britain, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Italy, Denmark, Sweden, Greece, Switzerland and Austria.

Sky-high prizes, like that won by Gault, are paid only in Britain. But other countries give prizes that still add up to a fortune for the average man on the street. Mostly their wins were tax free.

Pools playing is a national pastime in Britain. About 10 million people — roughly an entry from four out of every five families — take a stab.

The pools pay out an estimated $100,800,000 in prizes. The remaining money goes into pool operating costs. Individuals pay no tax on their winnings.

"Totocalcio" — roughly meaning soccer stakes — is helping to pay off the estimated 29-million-dollar bill for staging the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome next year.

It also keeps the Italian Olympic Committee in the chips so it can send Italian atheletes to sports meets around the world.

The biggest Italian pot was $394,000 won by timber dealer Romeo Giacin and land surveyor Roberto Caldart.

After two days of celebrating, Giacin, 49, fell ill with appendicitis. Peritonitis set in following surgery. He died 11 days later.

Nicola Saccinni, 50, his wife Carlotta, 46, and a friend won $384,000 in 1954. A few months later the couple separated. Newspapers said they couldn't agree on how to spend their share of the money.

In many countries, vast amounts of money from the pools are spent on fabulous sports projects.

In Greece, a six-year, 15-million-dollar program for sports development has been launched which is expected to be covered entirely by pool profits.

This year for the first time the pools will pay the English Football League $112,000 for the use of its soccer program on which bettors base their selections. The money will be used for the good of English football.

Average revenue from soccer pools in Germany totals $595,000 each week. Up to 25 per cent is used for charity and sports purposes. Top prize money is limited to $119,000. Each chance costs one mark—23 cents.

Dressen Plans To Let Braves Know He Is The Boss

By ARTHUR BYSTROM

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Charley Dressen, the new Milwaukee manager, made it unmistakably clear Saturday that he would "lay down the rules" to the Braves and would expect them to be obeyed.

The veteran field boss who piloted Brooklyn to two National League championships was introduced at a news conference after signing a two-year contract Friday to succeed Fred Haney who resigned three weeks ago.

Dressen, 61, in answer to a question as to how he planned to handle a team that the front office has admitted was difficult at times to manage, said emphatically that "from now on the Braves are playing for me."

"At spring training," he said, "I plan to tell the players 'I'm Charley Dressen, you are playing for me. I will lay down the rules and I will expect the players to obey them.'"

Dressen said that with the addition of one or two good, young players it wouldn't take much to get together a club that will win a few more games and bring Milwaukee another National League pennant.

He said the most pressing need appeared to be for someone to plug the hole at second base and for possibly another good relief hurler.

Dressen said that he was not sure how much good Red Schoendienst, veteran second baseman who is recovering from tuberculosis, would be to the club. Therefore, he said, he was trying to make a deal for an infielder. He did not say who he was seeking.

Michigan State Trips Indiana, 14-6

By BOB VOGES
Associated Press Sport Writer

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gary Ballman, a sturdy sophomore playing with a finger in a cast, scored two touchdowns and kept Michigan State in Big Ten contention with a 14-6 victory over Indiana here Saturday.

Ballman, a right half who was an uncertain starter because of the injury, caught a 20-yard pass from Dean Look for the first score in the second quarter. He bolted 25 yards through left guard for the second touchdown in the third period.

Indiana was put in position for its last period touchdown by a 40-yard pass from big John Henry Jackson to Ted Aucreman, who escaped to the one. Three plays later, Jackson passed to Earl Falson for the score. A Jackson pass for the two-point conversion failed.

Michigan State, an outfit with alternate losing and winning Saturdays the first of the season, looked like a team that had finally jelled.

The Spartans now have won two and lost one in the conference. Indiana has won one and lost two.

Look started hitting his receivers late in the second period, driving the Spartans 93 yards for the game's first score. A 36-yard pass to Herb Adderley put MSU in position on the 23. Then Look passed from the 20 to Ballman on the five and Ballman dodged past the safety man to score.

Nine plays carried 67 yards for the second Spartan score. The surge was made in eight running plays plus a 19-yard improvised play—a Look pass to Fred Arbanas, who then lateralled to Adderley.

Badgers Stop Buckeyes, 12-3

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin's fired up football team, defeated Ohio State, 12-3, Saturday before a crowd of 55,440 rain-soaked and thoroughly chilled fans.

The Badgers ranked 12th in the nation, jumped off to a 9-0 first period lead, added a field goal in the second quarter and then held on after the halftime intermission to virtually eliminate Ohio State from the Big Ten championship race.

Wisconsin's bruising line, led by Danny Lanphear, Jerry Stalcup and Jim Heineke, proved the big difference on the puddle - filled stadium turf as the Badgers posted their second victory in three conference outings. It was the Badgers' first victory over the Buckeyes in 13 years.

Lanphear, a 220-pound senior tackle, roared in to block a punt and set up a safety in the opening minutes. The ball rolled into the end zone and then out as the Badgers' Allan Schoonover could not hang on to it.

Taking the ensuing kick on its own 46, Wisconsin marched downfield in 13 plays for a touchdown. Dale Hackbart, the slick quarterback, capped the advance by skirting end from seven yards out.

Ohio State's Dave Kilgore kicked a 27-yard field goal after the Buckeyes were stalled on the Wisconsin 9 in the second period. Then, with seconds ticking away before halftime, Karl Holzwarth matched Kilgore efforts, also from the 27.

Louisiana State Slips Past Florida, 9-0

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Louisiana State's alert defense pounced on Florida mistakes Saturday and the nation's No. 1 football team whipped the stubborn Gators 9-0.

The hard-charging Tiger line, led by guard Emile Fournet and tackle Bo Strange, prevented Florida from getting a punt away and set up a touchdown in the second quarter. A little later end Gaynell Kinchen intercepted a pass and halfback Wendell Harris booted his fifth straight field goal of the season.

Florida almost turned the tables in the final quarter, snapping up two LSU fumbles and riding the passing of Dick Allen and Jack Jones into the shadow of the LSU goal. But both times LSU's tenacious Tigers were able to thwart a score.

The victory was LSU's 18th straight and the Tigers still haven't yielded a touchdown this season. They have given up only two field goals in six games.

The Gators did a good job on All America halfback Billy Cannon, holding him to 55 yards in 15 carries. The big speedster finally came through with some clutch runs in the touchdown drive and scored from the one.

One California Voter Blasts State Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least one California voter thinks his state was out of line in trying to tax the incomes of Chicago White Sox baseball players.

Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-NJ) said Saturday he has received a letter from the Californian protesting "the greedy move to grab some fast tax dollars."

Case, several weeks ago, criticized a move by California officials to insure collection of the state's income tax from White Sox players competing in the World Series at Los Angeles.

Case said each White Sox player was asked to sign papers allowing the state to collect the tax.

The Californian, whom Case identified only as a resident of Oakland, said the attempt to collect the tax from the White Sox "makes one wonder to what ends they (state officials) would stoop."

He asked if the salaries of out-of-state opponents of California's professional baseball and football teams were also taxed.

Minneapolis Gets Pro Football Test Sunday

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Minneapolis takes the pro football test Sunday. The city which almost lost pro basketball and has yet to field major league baseball can make a big impression on the National Football League expansion committee with an enthusiastic turnout for the game between the Chicago Cardinals and the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Cardinals, a shaky franchise with a sputtering offense, apparently are in the market for a new home. They tried Buffalo last year and the upstate New York city flunked the test. This year the Cards have scheduled two home games at Minneapolis and moved the other four from Comiskey Park to Soldier Field in Chicago.

After a fine exhibition season and a one - sided victory over Washington on opening day, the Cards have lost three straight and are in the Eastern Conference cellar. The Eagles are in a four-way tie for second with Washington, Cleveland and Pittsburgh. Defending conference champ New York leads with 3-1.

In other Eastern games Washington is at Cleveland with the Browns favored by 9 points, and New York is at Pittsburgh in a pick 'em contest.

In the Western Conference, the NFL champion Baltimore Colts are 13-point home favorites over Green Bay, Los Angeles rates 12 better than visiting Detroit and San Francisco gets the nod by one point over the traveling Chicago Bears.

The Colts, Packers and 49ers are in a three-way tie for first at 3-1. The Rams are 2-2, the 1-3 and the Lions 0-4.

A Tie And A Victory Highlight Prep Card

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP — The tumble of Arlington Heights and the tying of Collinsville, two Illinois high school football teams unstopped in five games, stood out Friday.

A 21-21 tie between Collinsville and Assumption of East St. Louis marred the record of Assumption, never a loser in four other games.

Arlington Heights' upset by Hinsdale in a West Suburban headliner, 27-26, marked the first time in six outings the league leader faltered. Hinsdale was tabbed early as a team to watch but lost its first two games. Included in the losses was one game to Maine of Des Plaines, Arlington's big title challenger next week.

Peoria Manual, Carmi, Freeport, Ottawa, Taylorville, Sycamore, Watseka and Macomb Western were among teams preserving perfect records.

Freeport banged West Aurora 32-9 in the Big Eight while the defending champion Elgin, lost to East Rockford 14-6. Freeport and East Rockford are the foremost title foes.

Peoria Manual lifted its hopes for the Mid-State Eight crown, whipping 19-0 Peoria Spalding, a winner four times but tied once by Peoria Central.

Carmi, Sycamore and Western turned in shutouts also. Carmi's single touchdown over Mount Carmel was enough to break its deadlock with the losers for the North Egypt Conference leadership.

Freeport and Ottawa strengthened their records to six wins straight. Ottawa stopped Sterling 33-13 in the North Central.

Taylorville's fifth triumph permitted losing Shelbyville to become the first team to score on the Tornadoes. The 19-7 result gave Taylorville an edge on Shelbyville in the Mid-State circuit.

Murphysboro lost for the second week in a row, absorbing a 47-6 pasting from Sparta in the Southwest Egyptian. Carbondale, the top team in this league, won from Pinckneyville 32-6.

In the South Seven, once-beaten Herrin nicked Harrisburg 15-13 while powerful Centralia went outside the loop and for the second straight week scored 53 points, this time against Salem's 13.

Pease Defeats Dunkel In Finals Of North-South

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—Walter Pease, 56, Plainfield, N. J., attorney, won four of the last six holes Saturday to defeat Paul Dunkel of Hackensack, N. J., 4 and 3 in the finals of the North and South Seniors Golf Tournament.

Rain was falling again on the soggy No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club when the two longtime golfing friends bogied the 15th and final hole.

Pease was 5-over-par of 72 for the 15 holes. Dunkel, 65, was 10 over.

Dotted Line And Tudor Era Win Split Sections

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The King Ranch mare Dotted Line and Mrs. Herbert Herff's Tudor Era won the split sections Saturday as 21 grass course specialists raced for $225,100 in the Man O' War doubleheader at Aqueduct.

This was the initial running of the Man O' War, honoring the great American champion of 40 years ago. The management made racing history by adding $100,000 to each division.

Dotted Line, a 6-year-old American-bred daughter of Princequillo-Inscribe, was the only mare in either division and she provided most of the thrills by overhauling Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's English-bred Amerigo at the head of the stretch in the first division. They fought it out for over an eighth of a mile before Dotted Line drew away for a 1¼ length victory. Bill Boland rode Dotted Line and Bill Hartack piloted Amerigo.

Amerigo took second by three quarters of a length over William C. McMillan Jr.'s Prince Willy.

Hartack wasn't to be denied in the second division as he sent the favored Tudor Era to the front at the start and kept him there for the 1½ miles.

Tudor Era romped home by 3 lengths over Sidney M. Barton's Marlow Road, who took second by a head from E. M. F. Guerrico's Argentina-bred Anisado.

Dotted Line returned $57.50, $15.90 and $9. Tudor Era paid $6.40, $4.20 and $3.40.

Dotted Line was timed in 2:40 4-5 and Tudor Era in 2:41.

The first division purse grossed $112,050 of which Dotted Line netted $71,732.50. Tudor Era netted $72,382.50 in the windup which was worth $113,050.

E. P. "Red" Hohmann, right, is shown receiving the Ray Lynch Award from Jack Fee, local representative of the R. L. Lynch Company, as first place in an insurance group's annual outing held at Quincy recently. Hohmann won the first place trophy over golfers from central Illinois and eastern Missouri at an annual outing sponsored by the Quincy Board of Underwriters.

Bowling Results

The 24th annual Jacksonville Bowling Association City Championships will be held Saturday, Oct. 31, through Nov. 8, with the team event held the first weekend at the Bowl Inn and the doubles and singles Nov. 7 and 8 at the Bowling Center.

The entry fee is $3.75 per man for each event. All prizes will be paid on a handicap basis with a prize going to at least one person out of every four entered. Trophies will be awarded to first place in each division. The average used will be the final league averages for the 1958-59 season. New bowlers averages will be taken as of Oct. 28, 1959.

Entry blanks are available at all bowling lanes. A large turnout is expected so get your entry as soon as possible.

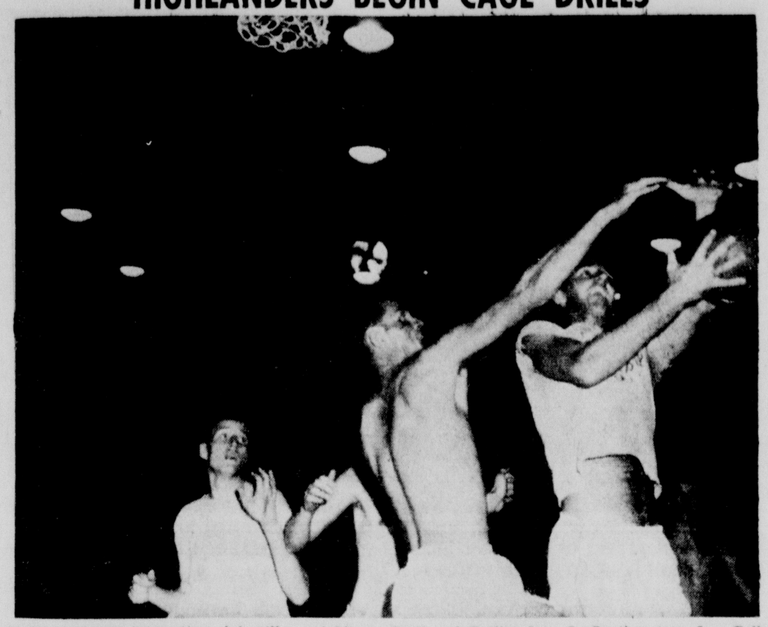
RULES MEETING AT PITTSFIELD

The Illinois High School Associations sponsors basketball rule interpretation meetings each fall. Coaches, officials, scorers and timers are urged to attend one of these meetings.

A meeting in this area will be held at Pittsfield High School at 8:00 p.m. on Tuesday, November 10. The local manager for the Pittsfield meeting is Dick Heitholt, principal of Pittsfield High School. M. F. Sprunger, of the High School Association in Chicago, will be the leader for this interpretation meeting.

HIGHLANDERS BEGIN CAGE DRILLS



"It should be an interesting club that we'll have again this year, a run-and-shoot team like the one last year that averaged 85 points per game."

This was Bill Wall, coach of the MacMurray College Highlanders, describing his squad that started practice last Tuesday in the Hardin avenue field-house. With a 30-18 two-year record, the Highlanders face an extremely tough 24-game schedule, including 10 home games beginning Dec. 9 against Millikin.

Coach Wall, in his third year at MacMurray, welcomed 12 returning lettermen and 20 new prospects at last week's practice. Included was Gary Little, a 1957 JHS graduate who was inactive last year but who scored 501 points and averaged 22 per game to lead the Highlanders to a 15-10 record in their first season of intercollegiate competition.

Last year's leading scorer, Marv Hohenberger of Defiance, Ohio, will be back this year, along with Ron Price, one of MacMurray's best all-around athletes, from Gillespie, Ill. Tom Allen and Don McCarty, from Columbus, Ohio, and Pleasant Hill, Ill., are returning and will be aiming for starting spots on this year's five.

Seniors Jerry Lace of Stillman Valley, and 6-9 Bob Leistner of Springfield complete the group of lettermen picked by Coach Wall as potential team leaders.

Stresses Defense

"We like to capitalize on the fast break and a fast offensive pattern," Coach Wall commented. "But we're stressing defense more this year. I haven't been satisfied with the quality of defensive play shown by the squads of the first two years."

Last year the Highlanders were ranked 16th in the nation in small college offense by the NCAA. The team will soon be divided into varsity and junior varsity squads, Wall said, with the J-V's having 15 contests scheduled. During Christmas vacation, the varsity team will travel to Louisiana to play in the McNeese State College tournament at Lake Charles. The trip will also include attendance at the Sugar Bowl and a sight-seeing excursion into New Orleans.

The complete schedule appears below. All home games start at 8 p.m., and are played in MacMurray's Hardin Avenue field-house.

Illini Add To Oldest Grid Rivalry Saturday Against Boilermakers

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Illinois adds to its oldest football rivalry Saturday when it meets Purdue, a team which was faced for the first time in 1890. The two schools have met 40 times, with Illini winning 19 games, Purdue 16, and five ending in ties.

Recent games have been controlled by the Boilermakers. It has been six years since Illinois last beat Purdue. In that 1953 game, the Illini needed a win to stay alive in the conference title race. Sophomore sensations J. C. Caroline and Mickey Bates provided the victory. They carried the ball 45 times and gained 231 yards, 157 for Caroline and 74 for Bates. The hard-running sophomores carried Illinois to a 21-0 win and an eventual share in the Big Ten championship.

The two teams tied 7-7 in 1956. Purdue won 1957's hard-fought battle 21-6, but there was an odd statistical twist as Illinois compiled an impressive advantage in almost every offensive category except touchdowns. Illinois' fleet halfback Bobby Mitchell scored the only touchdown for Coach Ray Eliot's team on a 10-yard scoot around end.

Last year, the big Boilermaker line completely smothered Illinois' offense as Purdue won an easy 31-8 victory. Illini were able to make only four yards net rushing the first half as they fell behind 18-0, and never recovered. Five Illinois fumbles, three of which were recovered by Purdue, greatly aided the Boilermakers.

Purdue and Illinois met for the first time in 1890 at Lafayette, where the Boilermakers walloped Illinois 62-0. The next five contests also were unproductive for the Illini as Purdue grabbed three wins. Best the Orange and Blue could do was settle for two ties.

At the turn of the century, however, the Illini took the series lead, which they have not relinquished. In 17 games after 1900, Illinois lost only one and tied two.

In 1943, six members of the Illinois varsity and frosh squads were transferred by the Marine Corps to Purdue. With the aid of these six, all of whom became Boilermaker regulars during the 1943 season, Purdue handily defeated Illinois, 40-21, and went on to win a portion of the Big Ten title. In 1946, five of the Purdue-Illini, as they were tabbed, returned to Illinois to help the Fighting Illini rout Purdue on the way to Big Ten and Rose Bowl championships. The score was Illinois 43, Purdue 7. Only member of the group who failed to return was Tony Butkovich, who was killed on Okinawa.

Syracuse Routs W. Virginia, 44-0

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Sophomore halfback Ernie Davis led a devastating Syracuse attack Saturday that humbled West Virginia 44-0. It was the fifth straight lopsided football triump for the unbeaten Orangemen, ranked sixth nationally.

The East's top team, geared by vicious line play, exploded for 23 points in a big second quarter that featured a 57-yard scoring run by Davis. The 205 - pound Negro dashed 29 yards in the third period for his second touchdown.

Davis gained 141 yards in 9 carries, a 15.6 average, against the completely outclassed Mountaineers. In all, Syracuse rolled to a total 589 yards, against 109 for West Virginia.

West Virginia, which stunned a good Pitt eleven 23-15 a week ago, threatened only twice in this game played in alternating sunsine and showers before 35,000. Its deepest penetration was to the Syracuse 20.

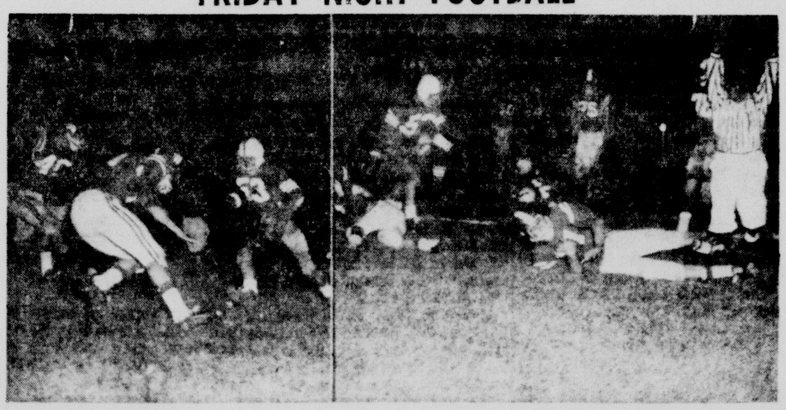
FRIDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL



Football scores on local and area games Friday night will be found on page 12 of this morning's Journal. The above action was taken in Jacksonville's 33-26 homecoming victory over Feitshans. The player rolling in the end zone is halfback Gary Spangenberg, who had just scored his third and final TD of the game. The other shows Ken Norton and Jack McCarty (40) of JHS coming up to make a stop on a Feitshans back.

ROUTT GAME MONDAY

The Routt Rockets will make up a postponed contest with Waverly's Scotties Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. on the JHS Athletic field. The Rockets are undefeated in five starts and have limited the opposition to 13 points while accounting for 165 points. Joe Doglio's Scotties have won two against three defeats.

Small College Scores

WAUKESHA, Wis., (AP) — All scoring was confined to the final 4⅓ minutes Saturday as Carroll downed Augustana, 13-7, in a College Conference of Illinois football game on a muddy field.

Carroll scored on runs of 21 yards by John Meshing 75 yards by Ken Hill. Meshing kicked an extra point.

Augustana, from Rock Island, Ill., counted in the final 39 seconds on a two-yard burst by Gordon Kelly at the end of a 47-yard march which featured a 28-yard pass from Ken Collinson to Max Petersons. Peterson kicked the extra point.

CHARLESTON, Ill. (AP) — Fullback Art Thompson powered Eastern Illinois to a 32-6 victory over Eastern Michigan in an IIAC football game Saturday.

Thompson carried the ball 25 times and ripped off 165 yards while scoring two of Eastern Illinois' touchdowns.

EMU's only score came in the third quarter on a nine-yard run by Ron Gulyas.

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — Southern Illinois trounced Illinois State Normal, 19-8, Saturday, putting a damper on Normal's homecoming.

The IIAC game was played in a steady drizzle before 3,000. Normal's conference record now is 0-3, Southern's is 2-2.

Standout for Southern was Amos Dullocks, a back who tallied three times. All came after line plunges. Normal tallied early in the first period on a 1-yard line-buck by Ron Ross. The attempt for the extra point was blocked. Two more points were picked up on a safety in the third period.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) —Illinois Wesleyan handed Millikin a 32-6 defeat Saturday in a College Conference of Illinois football game played in a driving rain.

It was Wesleyan's fifth consecutive football victory of the season. The Titans thus remained in a tie for first place with Wheaton in the CCI race.

Present Day Players Setting Bad Example For Future Athletes

"THE SECOND GUESS"

NOTE: The following article appeared in the Denver Post Monday, Feb. 16, 1959 as a "Second Guess" column by Jack Carberry. Mr. Carberry's excellent presentation merits your attention to a matter of importance to all administrators, coaches, parents and players interested in educational athletics.

As this congregation knows, I have been around the sports beat for a long, long time. And for as long as I can remember, I have listened to the cry of the loser, "We was robbed," to alibi his own or his team's shortcomings. But in all the years I have never witnessed, nor have I heard, anything approaching the complaining voiced nowadays not only by the spectators, but by players, and more especially the "teachers" of our athletics.

Maybe it is the times in which we live. Maybe it is traceable to a world in which there is a general distrust of leadership, in governments, and in business, and even in our social life. Whatever the cause, there is in the world of sports a growing disrepect for authority—the referees, the umpires, the linesmen and the judges.

Now, I am not attempting to put the "blast" on any individual or any particular sport. But I want to tell you the story the father of a 10-year-old lad told me—a story which I think should make every "teacher" of American games, coaches and players alike, reach a better understanding of their responsibilities.

The boy is a membr of a South Denver Sunday School league. The team, as are the other clubs, is sponsored by the dads of the various congregations who provide the uniforms, pay the cost of hall rent, and other expenses. Coaching is provided by various church members who give considerable of their time. Officiating is on the same volunteer basis. Every effort is made to have the families of the players attend the games, the thought being that this will aid in producing "family togetherness" — a word we hear used, and overused, quite frequently.

This particular father, and his wife, attended one game last Wednesday night. Both came away shocked—and frightened.

During the course of the game their boy, along with his teammates, kept up a constant screaming, directing their remarks at the officials — berating them for their calls, and jumping up from the players' bench to emphasize their disagreement by gestures which have become all too familiar to basketball audiences everywhere—the holding of the head in hands, as though in agony; the holding of the nose and such cries as "You stink," and "You robber, you."

"I was tempted," said the father, "to go down and take my boy off the bench. But I feared that might break up the game. But when I got home I sat down with him and asked him what he meant by such conduct.

"Why did you act as you did—surely you know the referee, a good friend of ours, would not cheat your team, or any team? Did you really believe you were being cheated?

"I was not," the father said, "prepared for the answer I got."

"My boy said: 'No, I did not think we were being cheated—I like Mr. (he named the referee) very much, and he is a swell guy. But he was an official, and all the coaches on the big teams, and all the players on the Truckers and the college teams you take me to see, yell at the officials and make signs, and they are all good coaches and good players.'"

The boy named one coach in particular—truly a capable teacher of the game, but one given to histrionics, under the delusion I am sure, that he is adding "color" to the game.

"He (naming the coach) is the best coach in the world, and his players are the best players and they yell at the officials all the time."

One cannot help but wonder if coaches and players on "the big teams" ever give thought to what their actions—not alone upon the playing field but upon the bench—have upon those who view them as their heroes.

It is serious business. This particular father was undecided as to what he should do. His first thought was to take his boy out of sports. If sports taught little more than disrepect for authority—and that is exactly what such antics as one witnesses in sports means — then sports surely have lost all their value.

If an official is incompetent, be he volunteer in the little Sunday School league, or the well-paid referee on the field for the "big games," his future services should be dispensed with.

But the growing disrepect for authority being exhibited in American sports today cries out for corrective action also.

Monday there were 642 inmates in Denver's county jail; there were 73 boys and girls in Juvenile Hall; several additional hundred were in the state home at Golden. Why? Because 99% of them lacked all respect for authority—of teacher, of minister, of priest, of policemen, and of the laws under which we live.

Let us cut out the "play-acting" and play ball.

BIG BASEBALL TURNOVER

Cincinnati (AP) — Nobody can say the Cincinnati Reds stand still. A look at the baseball roster of 1954 shows that only six players of that season are still with the team. They are catcher Ed Bailey, infielders Roy McMillan and Johnny Temple, outfielder Gus Bell and pitchers Joe Nuxhall and Tom Acker.

LSU, Wildcats Pace College Bigwigs Past Halfway Point

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

With Louisiana State and Northwestern leading the way, the bigwigs of College football thundered past the halfway point of the season Saturday.

There was hardly an upset to be found. LSU, Mississippi and Syracuse, among the top 10 teams in the current Associated Press poll, shut out their opposition.

Texas, No. 3, played Rice under the lights, and Georgia Tech, No. 9, had an arclight date with Tulane.

Louisiana State, No. 1, roaring toward the Southeastern Conference championship, whipped Florida, 9-0, in a league game. The victory was the 18th straight for the Bengals from the bayou, and they have yet to yield a point in the conference this season.

Northwestern, No. 2, downed Notre Dame, 30-24, with John Talley tossing three touchdown passes, and scoring once himself. Notre Dame scored all three of its touchdowns on Northwestern mistakes.

Mississippi, No. 4, whitewashed Arkansas, 28-0. The Razorbacks are No. 10, and rated Texas' main threat for the Southwest Conference title.

Southern California, No. 5, the Pacific Coast untouchable, behind for three quarters, rallied for a 30-28 victory over Stanford. Oregon, No. 11 in the AP poll, was tumbled from the unbeaten ranks by Washington 13-12.

Syracuse, No. 6 the Goliath of the East, crushed West Virginia, 44-0, while Penn State, No. 8, another pretender to the Eastern throne, cut down Illinois, 20-9.

Yale, the only, undefeated, untied, unscored-on major team in the country, kept its flawless record intact with a 21 - 0 triumph over Colgate. The Elis are ranked 19th, the highest of any Ivy League team in many a year. Penn, the other undefeated Ivy League club, tied Navy 22-22.

With Illinois' defeat by Penn State, Purdue and Wisconsin became the major threats to Northwestern for the Big Ten title. Purdue virtually eliminated Iowa, the defending champions, 14-7, while Wisconsin scored its first victory over Ohio State in 13 years, 12-3.

Army bounced back with a 25-6 intersectional triumph over Colorado State, while Oklahoma, struggling to get back near the top after two defeats, squeezed past Kansas 7-6 in a Big Eight game. It marked the Sooners 74th league game without defeat.

Woman Fights Off Intruder At Home; Question Suspects

Mrs. Amy Scheferkort, 37, of 444 South Clay avenue, gave courageous battle to an intruder who sneaked into her home early Saturday morning.

The woman was aroused when she heard someone raising a window. She ran into the kitchen where the intruder attempted to grab her.

Mrs. Scheferkort snatched up a piece of wood about two feet long and started swinging at the man, who appeared to be between 20 and 25 years old. She told police at least one blow from the stick landed on the man's face.

Knocked To Floor

The intruder then knocked the woman down. She arose and continued to fight the man, who ran from the house and disappeared when Mrs. Scheferkort's children awakened and ran into the room in response to her cries for help.

Her six year old son ran to the home of a neighbor and a call was placed to the police department.

Sgt. Robert Brune, Patrolmen Gary Hayes and Estell Jackson got the call at 12:54 a.m., and hurried to the residence. They found that entrance was gained through an unlocked window.

Nail In Wooden Stick

Mrs. Scheferkort gave the officers the wooden stick she used in attempt to protect herself. A nail protrudes from the end of the stick, and may have scratched her assailant. The stick will be given microscopic examination.

The woman described the intruder as colored, between 20 to 25 years old, wearing a mustache. She estimated him to be between five feet, two to five feet six inches tall; weight about 150 pounds.

Police began a roundup of suspects, two of whom were taken to the police station and viewed by Mrs. Scheferkort. Both were released after she said neither was the man who entered her home.

A prowler was at work earlier in the night on Hardin avenue. Police were called to a home where someone was prowling outside, but no clue was found.

Tells Junior Women Of Need For Plan Commission

By Nancy Hainsfurther
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone Pioneer 2-5520)

WINCHESTER — Members of the Winchester Junior Woman's club and their husbands were asked Thursday night at their monthly dinner meeting held at the Legion Hall if they wanted to raise their children to maturity and have them go elsewhere to seek employment because the County didn't provide any. This question was posed as Albert Hainsfurther, Jr., of the Industrial Development Committee told the sixty people that in the years 1949-56 453 students graduated from high school and of these 259 were girls, 194 boys but today there is only 130 of these persons remaining in the area. These figures show that about 40 per year leaving here is the average.

These figures as well as statistics on the decrease in the amount of farms in the area were pointed out as Mr. Hainsfurther stressed the need for the town that once boasted industries and a population of 3000 to look to the future and begin now with a City Planning Commission being formed to work towards bringing an industry into the area. As stated in previous talks, the area is rich in utilities that a business demands for efficient operation.

Need Commission

The need for the establishment of a City Planning Commission whose duty it is to zone the area, establish a building code and in general, plan the future growth of the town was urged during the evening. Such a body would plan for streets to lead to housing developments instead of individuals building homes and blocking otherwise ideal lots near them, and also assure business that establishments undesirable to a particular type of business would not be built near them.

Mr. Hainsfurther pointed out that a brochure should be made showing the selling points of our town and suggested the Junior Women assume the responsibility using their feminine intuition for making a booklet that would make an executive interested in having his business locate in Illinois, which ranks second in favorable taxation program in the United States, come to Winchester to settle. This fact brought out the idea that the whole job is a selling job—making a business want to locate here because of its ideal situations.

Special Interest

Of special interest to many of the young couples assembled who want to see the town progress instead of become a rest home was the discussion of the FHA plan recently introduced to expedite home financing. The plan known as the Certified Agency Program is the newest approach to government insurance of home purchase loans. The plan is down payments may be as low as 3 per cent of the first $13,500 of appraised value plus 15 per cent of the next $2500 plus 30 per cent of the value in excess of $16,000. The CAP makes these same terms available the announcement said, but they will vary with the merits of each case as the lender relates the amount of the loan to the value of the property and to the borrower's ability to meet his mortgage payments. This plan is designed to help people in smalled communities buy homes of their own at FHA terms regardless of where they live.

Bringing ohs and ahs to the dinner meeting was the drawing of the winner of the $100 cashmere coat which was won by Mrs. Ann Cunningham. The money taken in by the local club will be donated to the Brain Research Foundation.

The clubwomen voted to donate to the Boy Scout Drive and also agreed to meet on the Public Square at 5:45 October 27 to attend the Fall Banquet to be held at Bluffs. A high attendance is urged so that the coveted cup may remain with the local club. Members were asked by the president, Mrs. Robert Mellor to turn in their service hours at Tuesday's dinner.

Mrs. Jerry Alberts was announced as chairman of the Ward Party to be given November 12 at the Jacksonville State Hospital.

Dorcas Circle

Mrs. Lucy Jones was hostess to members of the Dorcas Circle of the Christian Womens Fellowship Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Bessie Andell and Mrs. Margie Tribble assisting.

Mrs. Reva Garrison assisted by Mrs. Jessie Riggs presented the program with Mrs. R. R. Jones giving the devotions.

Announcement was made of the rummage sale to be held four days, November 6 and 7 and November 13 and 14 at the church all day.

Plans were made to bring materials to the November meeting for making hospital bandages.

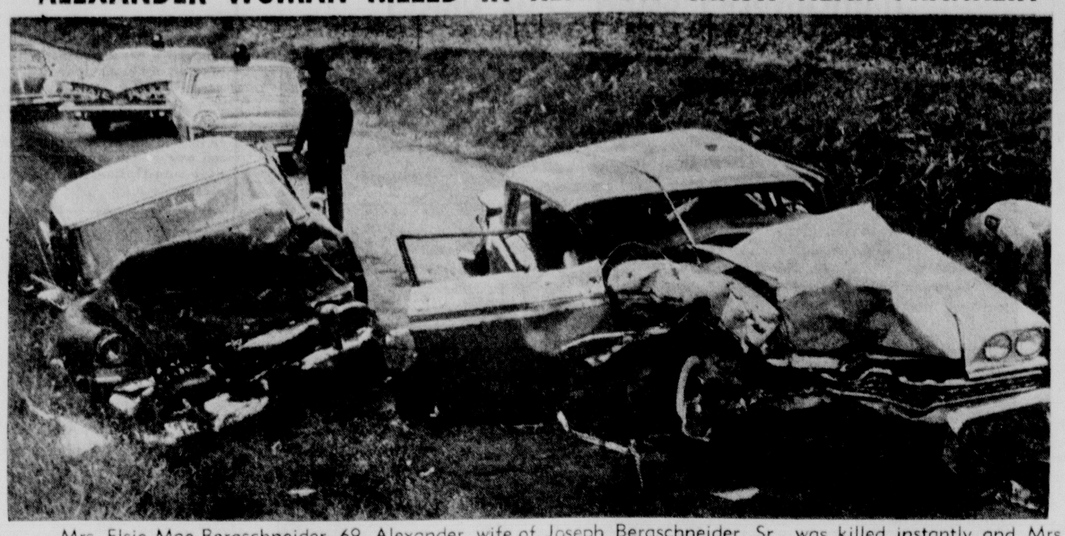
ALEXANDER WOMAN KILLED IN HEAD-ON CRASH NEAR FRANKLIN



Mrs. Elsie Mae Bergschneider, 69, Alexander, wife of Joseph Bergschneider, Sr., was killed instantly and Mrs. Evelyn Beerup, 26, also of Alexander, was rushed to Passavant hospital where her condition is reported as "critical" about 2:30 p.m. Saturday, one mile north of Franklin on a blacktop road.

Mrs. Bergschneider, driver of the car on right, was headed south and Mrs. Beerup, driver of car on left, was going north. The two cars met head-on. Cause of the accident is not known, although investigating officers said the heavy gusts of wind may have had a bearing on the accident.

Both women were riding alone at the time of the accident. State trooper Albert Hamilton rendered first aid to Mrs. Beerup who is suffering deep and extensive cuts to the face and head. She was taken to Passavant hospital by the Neece ambulance. Mrs. Bergschneider's body was removed to the Neece funeral home in Franklin.

Mrs. Beerup's husband Max is stationed in Japan with the U. S. Marines and is expected to return at once. They have two children.

Coroner Elmer O. Sample conducted an investigation at the scene and will hold an inquest at the Neece funeral home Monday at 6:30 p.m. State troopers attended at the scene of the accident. Both cars were towed away by the Brummett garage.

Born In Iowa

Mrs. Bergschneider was born in Keokuk, Iowa, February 8, 1890, a daughter of George and Emma Bender. She was married to Joseph R. Bergschneider on March 4, 1916, and he survives.

Surviving children are: Emma Bergschneider of Pasadena, California; Sister Mary Gutchen of Sacred Heart Convent, Springfield; Ernest R. Bergschneider, Tulsa, Oklahoma; Joseph A. Bergschneider, Alexander; Verne Bergschneider of Alexander and Robert E. Bergschneider at home.

There are two sisters, Mrs. Elisha Wary of Santa Clara, California and Mrs. Sylvester Armstrong, Madera, California; one brother, Ira Bender, Fresno, California and sixteen grandchildren.

She was a member of the Church of Visitation in Alexander and the Catholic Daughters of America.

Funeral services will be held at 9 a.m. Tuesday at the Church of Visitation in Alexander, Rev. Father John Spreen of Quincy will recite the Mass.

The Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. on both Sunday and Monday evenings at the Neece Funeral Home in Franklin.

Burial will be in Sacred Heart Cemetery at Franklin.

Still Hopeful Man Will Be Located

Although six months have passed since the disappearance of Bruce Campbell, Sr., in Jacksonville, police officials in both Jacksonville and Northampton, Mass., are still hopeful that he will be found.

A small photograph of the missing man was published in the Journal Courier soon after he dropped out of sight while on a visit. A larger photograph showing more facial details has been located by Mrs. Campbell, and forwarded from Northampton, Mass., to Chief of Police Charles P. Runkel of Jacksonville. The picture was taken several years ago.

BRUCE CAMPBELL Sr.

The family and officials are hopeful that through wide circulation of the photo in this and other states, Mr. Campbell will be found.

Since he left the Sandman Motel on West Walnut street early on the morning of April 14, 1959, there has never been a clue of any kind as to his whereabouts.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell had arrived in the city to visit their son, Dr. Bruce Campbell and family, and were stopping at the motel during the time the son's family moved to a new home. Mr. Campbell was exhausted after the trip from Northampton, and was treated twice by a physician. At the time he left the motel sometime before 2:15 a.m. April 14, Mr. Campbell was known to be wearing only a pair of green pajamas. He did not take any personal effects, these having been left at the motel.

A wide search of the Jacksonville area was carried on for two weeks or more, sometimes by as many as 400 men.

Mr. Campbell, 57, is 6 feet tall and walks with a limp. He was engaged in business as a stock broker at Northampton. His wife is employed in a clinical laboratory there.

Chief Runkel said that the FBI has circulated a photograph, and that one has also been printed in the Illinois Police Magazine.

Vandals Carry Off Gum Machine

Unidentified persons visited the local Bus Depot early Saturday morning and carried off a gum dispensing machine. Police say the machine disappeared from its spot in the station between 4 and 4:30 a.m.

The machine is placed in the depot as a non-profit device. All proceeds from the sale of gum are used to purchase glasses for those with handicapped eyesight. The machine is under the sponsorship of the local Lions Club.

The machine had not been recovered late Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bushnell of route four, Carrollton, became the parents of a son born Saturday at 2:42 p.m. at Passavant Hospital; weight, seven pounds, four and one fourth ounces.

Hansen Seeks Custody Of Three Children

CHICAGO (AP)—Duncan Hansen, 29, who was acquitted last week on a charge of slaying his ex-wife, opened court action Saturday seeking sole custody of the couple's three children.

Attorneys for Hansen filed the petition in Superior Court asking custody of Nancy, 6; Charles, 4, and Laura, 2. The children are in the temporary custody of their uncle, Richard Hansen.

Attorneys for Hansen served notice to attorneys for Mrs. Marietta Long and Dr. George E. Shambaugh Jr. to appear in court Tuesday if they wish to oppose Hansen's custody petition.

Mrs. Long and Dr. Shambaugh are parents of the dead woman, Susan Shambaugh Hansen, 25.

Richard Mills Has Article In Lawyer's Journal

VIRGINIA — Richard Mills, young practicing lawyer from Cass county, has recently written a legal article which has been published in the Illinois Bar Journal.

The article appears in the September, 1959, issue of the official publication of the Illinois State Bar Association, and is entitled "Illinois Youth Commission—Five Years Old." In his article, Mr. Mills interprets the Youth Commission Act, the Family Court Act, the Criminal Code, other Illinois statutes and court opinions dealing with the Illinois Youth Commission. The article is intended to aid practicing lawyers, judges, states attorneys and juvenile agencies to better understand the function, purpose and authority of the Youth Commission.

Mr. Mills is legal advisor to the Illinois Youth Commission, and maintains his law office in Virginia. He is vice president of the Cass County Bar Association and is the author of legal articles which have appeared in other legal publications, including the American Bar Association Journal.

18 Classes Planned In Halloween Parade Here Thursday Night

Gilbert Schaefer, general chairman, announced yesterday that plans are complete for the annual Halloween Parade sponsored by the Jacksonville Exchange Club and the merchants.

The parade will be held Thursday evening, October 29, and will form on South Church street between West State Street and College Ave. at 6:15. It will move promptly at 7 o'clock from Church street East on West State street to the Square—around the Square and back over West State street to Dunlap Court and then South to the judging and awarding platform on Dunlap Court.

All children entering the parade will receive free movie tickets to the Illinois or Times theater. The tickets will be handed to each contestant as he passes over the judging platform. Numerous prizes, donated by the merchants of Jacksonville will be awarded to the boys and girls with outstanding or best "make-ups" in each of the classes. While prizes will be awarded only to children 16 years of age and under, everyone including adults in masquerade are invited to join the parade.

Bands Will Parade

Jacksonville bands will enliven the parade with music. Other attractions are being planned. In case of rain the event will be held in the High School Gym at the scheduled time.

Classes and Contestants

1. Clowns. Chick Henske, Larry Omundson.
2. Comic strip characters. W. F. Bailey, Bill Hudson.
3. Witches. Art Seeman, Wilford Queen.
4. Miscellaneous, Small. Don Shook, Milt Edge.
5. Farmers. Letts Reid, George Foster.
6. Indians. Russell Armstrong, Roger Olson.
7. Black Faces. Clyde Fitch, Walter Derringer.

WLDS Equipment Improves Hi-Fi

New equalizing equipment installed this week at the radio transmitting house on the Old State Road east of Jacksonville has increased the audio frequency range of WLDS-AM to provide listeners with true high fidelity according to an announcement made yesterday by Gerry Cassens, the station's technical supervisor.

The equipment, in conjunction with a new transmitter installed last year, gives listeners the best of high fidelity reproduction. All sounds from the lowest rumble to the highest harmonic of the violin string are reproduced exactly as recorded without any loss in the transmitting equipment.

The station is now capable of broadcasting all sounds in the audio spectrum from 20 to 20,000 cycles. This exceeds the range of hearing and the variation in response is much less than the minimum required by the Federal Communications Commission Standards of Good Engineering practice. The response in the normal hearing range is flat and overall distortion has been reduced to two per cent.

The range of high fidelity now enjoyed by WLDS listeners is limited only by their receivers and speakers.

High fidelity has been broadcast by WLDS-FM for several years and the new equipment for WLDS-AM completes a long range program of modernization and improvement.

Childern Canvass Today For UNICEF 3:30 To 6

Will UNICEF "trick or treaters" find you at home today between 3:30 and 6:00 p.m.? There's no need to run from these spooks, because theirs is a mission of goodwill. Dressed in Halloween costumes and wearing the UNICEF orange and black band, children of Jacksonville will be asking for your coins or dollars in behalf of hungry and diseased children all over the world. Our children are excited about helping children who aren't able to "trick or treat" for themselves. Won't you encourage them?

Last year UNICEF aid benefitted 55 million children and mothers. Because countries aided by UNICEF match the contributions more than 2½ to 1, a UNICEF penny grows on its way around the world. And don't underestimate its power! One cent will buy enough vaccine to protect a child from tuberculosis in one of the 62 countries where that killer is being fought; 10 cents will provide about 50 glasses of milk for the children of large areas of the world where this health giving food is considered a luxury. These are only two of the many, many ways needy children are helped by UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund.

So invest generously in UNICEF. UNICEF stock of milk, food, and drugs pay dividends of health and hope for sick and hungry children the world over.

Hog Cholera Strikes Many Illinois Areas

Hog cholera has returned with a vengeance to some of Illinois' principal swine-producing counties during the past few weeks. Losses have been severe in most of the affected herds, according to Director Stillman J. Stanard, Illinois Department of Agriculture.

Always a threat, hog cholera has been less troublesome in recent years because of improved vaccines and the Illinois law requiring that garbage, once a source of hog cholera virus, be cooked for swine feeding. The present threat has shown laxity in applying prevention measures. Director Stanard emphasizes that corrections must be made quickly if Illinois is to avoid a major hog cholera epidemic.

Slack Vaccination

The staff of the College of Veterinary Medicine, according to Dean C. A. Brandley, believes that as few as 40 percent of the herds in some affected areas have been vaccinated against hog cholera.

Some herds may have been vaccinated by persons who were not familiar with the need for adequate doses of vaccine, or pigs may have been vaccinated at too young an age.

Even among herds with satisfactory vaccination, heavy exposure to hog cholera virus may be responsible for home diseased animals. Furthermore, there are variations in strains of hog cholera viruses that attack swine, as well as differences in the condition and environment of swine at the time of or after vaccination. All of these known factors could account for the irregular findings reported in many of the affected animals and herds.

Speed Urged

Plans should be made quickly to vaccinate hogs at recommended ages and with recommended doses of modified live or killed hog cholera vaccine. It is unlawful in Illinois to use the naturally virulent hog cholera virus in vaccination programs. In some areas veterinarians may prefer to use large doses of anti-hog cholera serum alone to protect healthy herds for a short time where a hog cholera outbreak has occurred on a nearby farm.

Except for hogs shipped to market, producers in affected areas should impose a 60-day voluntary quarantine on swine herds to help reduce the traffic in hogs between farms. If growers and veterinarians carry out these essential precautionady measures with accuracy and speed, excessive losses from hog cholera can be stopped.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

GETTING OFF CORN CONTROLS DIFFICULT

The present corn situation reminds us of the old Chinese saying, "He who would ride a tiger should first make plans for dismounting."

For several years we have been riding the tiger—of production control. Some people enjoyed the ride. Others did not. This year we are getting off. And dismounting will be an interesting experience.

The production controls on corn were voluntary. No farmer was compelled to restrict his plantings. But farmers who limited their plantings got higher prices (from the government) than farmers who sold on the open market.

Few Complied

In recent years only one-fifth or less of the farmers limited their corn planting in order to qualify for the higher price support. Others planted as much as they thought best for their own farm business. These farmers did not increase their plantings much this year.

On many farms the government planting allotment, or acreage, was only about half of the normal corn acreage. Thus farmers who were complying with their corn allotments had only about half as much corn as would ordinarily be included in a high-profit rotation. When corn controls were dropped this year, most of these farmers doubled their acreages.

The U.S. acreage of corn for harvest jumped from 73 million in 1958 to 84 million this year. This increase amounts to 15 per cent. Although it is a big increase, this year's acreage is still far below the record acreages planted in the horse-and-mule days. The acreage of corn harvested reached an all-time peak of 111 million away back in 1917. It held at around 100 million for about ten years and then pushed back to over 110 million in 1932. After that it gradually decreased until by 1957 it had shrunk to less than 73 million.

It thus appears that economic factors, as well as acreage restrictions, have been working to cut corn acreages. But it is difficult to clearly identify causes and effects. For example, acreage restrictions on corn and cotton tended to force farmers to plant other crops, especially soybeans. Prices of soybeans and soybean products declined, and consumption greatly increased. Gradually the demand for soybeans increased and provided a good second-best use for farm land.

The Life Saver

It would be interesting to speculate on what our Illinois farm situation would have been if the soybean crop had not been developed to grow well under corn-belt conditions.

Part of the increased corn production this year is offset by smaller crops of oats, barley, sorghum grains, soybeans and wheat. Production of hay also was smaller than last year.

Even with the big jump in corn acreage, the excess of feed grain production over probable disappearance is only moderately larger than it has been in the past two years. Where we added around 10 million tons to excess stocks of feed grains in each of the past two years, the addition this year will probably be around 12 to 14 million tons.

Sunlight Makes The Difference!

JUST PLAIN SUNLIGHT made the difference between the healthy-eared plant on the right, held by University of Illinois Agronomist E. B. Earley, and the nubbin produced by the other plant, held by Research Assistant W. O. McIlrath.

The research indicates that lack of sunlight keeps hybrid corn from living up to actual yield capacity. As plant populations increase, upper leaves shade lower leaves. If it weren't for this, farmers could get 300 bushels per acre from hybrid corn at a plant population of 20,000.

"We can supply enough fertility and moisture for these yields, but not enough sunlight because at present we don't know how to lick the problem of self-shading," Earley says.

Stalk Population A Major Factor In Corn Yields

Morgan county farmers could probably increase their corn yield per acre by simply stepping up their planting rate, Farm Adviser George Trull observes.

This conclusion was based on a survey of 23 Morgan county corn fields in which population counts were made.

The 23 fields surveyed were located in 10 of the 18 townships of the county. The average plant population was 12,573 stalks per acre. Individual fields showed a variation from a low of 8,500 stalks per acre to a high of 16,440.

University of Illinois agronomists recommend a population of 16,000 plants per acre on land capable of producing a 100 bushel yield. For land capable of producing 75 bushels, a population of 12,000 stalks per acre is suggested.

"All of the fields checked would be capable of producing at least 75 bushels per acre, and most of them would produce over 100 bushels per acre with proper fertilization and care," Trull said.

"There are many limiting factors in corn production, and this survey shows that underplanting is one of the factors which is limiting yield. Farmers cannot expect to realize the potential of their soil if the corn plant population is low."

Under average conditions it is necessary to plant about 15% more seed than the actual population desired. This will make up for cold, wet soil, insects, diseases, and cultivation losses.

One way to determine if the corn were planted about right is to weigh the individual ears. If the average ear weighs about ¼ pound, the planting rate was probably about right.

4-H Achievement Day Program Here Nov. 7

Jacksonville merchants are working closely with the Extension personnel of this county to forward plans for the annual 4-H Achievement Day program to be held Saturday morning, Nov. 7.

At that time the merchants will aid in the recognition of outstanding work attained by youths who have completed projects built around the 4-H slogan: Learn by Doing. They will give substantial gifts to those who have done exceptionally fine work during the past 4-H year. They will also provide many door prizes for those who have been enrolled in both home economics and agriculture club work, but haven't achieved top rank thusfar.

The program will be held at the Times theatre. The doors will open at 8:15 a.m. and a selected movie will be shown at 8:45.

Wayne Hibbeler of Walker's Furniture, head of Jacksonville Associated Merchants, and Jack Gillespie of Waddell's, head of the Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of 4-H club encouragement, will meet with extension workers this week to make final plans for Achievement Day.

Labor income of Illinois farmers hasn't risen as fast as labor income of factory workers in the same areas of the state.

Purdue Says Corn Field Splendid Range For Sows

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Proper care of the sow herd during the breeding and gestation periods will pay off in a good pig crop next spring.

Richard Hollandbeck, Purdue University extension swine specialist, says that gilts should be at least eight months of age and weigh at least 225 pounds before they are bred.

Sows can be "flushed" by increasing their grain ration one week before breeding. The sows should be bred on the second day of the heat period and accurate breeding records kept.

Exercise Needed

If the sows are turned into corn fields after the harvest they will not only utilize corn left in the field but will get much needed exercise.

When the animals are running in corn fields they should each receive one to one and a half pounds of 35 per cent protein supplement daily. The supplement can be hand-fed. Also needed to be available at all times is a good mineral mixture of 40 parts bonemeal, 40 parts limestone and 20 parts iodized salt. Do not let sows become overfat, Hollandbeck says.

Need Dry Bed

Sows on draylot should receive a grain ration containing 14 per cent total protein supplement. Gilts on drylot should have a grain ration of 15 per cent total protein supplement.

It is also important that the sows, as well as all pigs, be provided with a clean dry shelter, free from drafts, at this time of year to prevent respiratory diseases. Clean, fresh water at all times is another essential.

Indiana Farmland Prices Advance

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Indiana farm land values continued their long upward trend, reaching an all-time high July 1, state-federal agricultural statisticians at Purdue University report. The index stood at 312, using the years 1912-14 as 100.

Since July, 1958 values have risen five per cent, and they now are 94 per cent above the peak reached in 1920. The July 1 average value per acre of all Indiana farm land with improvements was estimated at $248 an acre. This compares to $236 a year ago and $227 two years ago, according to the statisticians.

Active farmers continue to be the most frequent purchasers of farmland. In the 12 months ending last March 1, they bought more than three-fifths of all farms and parcels of farmland sold. Nonfarmers bought a little more than a third. More than 40 per cent of the purchases in 1958-59 added land to existing farms.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

As everyone knows, particularly if he has already put away his lawnmower, the frequent heavy rains this fall have already stimulated grass growth. Cattle and sheep on the Station are enjoying unusually luxuriant grazing. But the silage-making and seeding crews have slowed to a muddy halt.

These field crews, however, are reinforcing the plot - working crews. Harvesting plots is usually handwork, and men in knee boots can go where field choppers can't.

Tedious Endeavor

Plot sampling involves much more work than is apparent to the casual observer. So the regular plot crews welcome assistance from the field crews.

To give you an idea of plot sampling, let's look at the grain sorghum test here on the Station. We have only seven varieties, but each variety is planted 28 times. And the 28 plots are scattered throughout the grain sorghum test area.

We plant each variety 28 times to reduce any errors that might occur in sampling and to reduce the chance that one variety may have more favorable planting site. Well, anyway, seven varieties multiplied by 28 equals 196 plots to be sampled.

Here is what was involved in sampling: First, we wanted to know how much silage each variety would yield. This meant that part of each plot had to be handcut and piled separately for running through a forage chopper. Afterwards, the entire mass of chopped forage was weighed. Then a sample of each variety was weighed and placed in a forage drying oven so that we would know the dry-matter yield of each variety.

To obtain grain yields, the heads from part of each plot were cut off, sacked and threshed. The sampling did not stop with the threshing of the grain. Each of the threshed samples was sifted and weighed. After weighing, part of each sample was put into a small bucket and was weighed to obtain a test weight, or the weight per bushel. Meanwhile part of each sample was also being tested for moisture.

Now, what else can you do to a sorghum test plot? I guess you could dream up a jillian other tests to run. You might, for example, test both the grain and the forage of each variety for protein content. And you could test it for many other characteristics.

Specific Data

The following data we think are important and are easily obtained.

Each variety was scored for standing ability and resistance to plant disease. Each variety was measured for plant height. And even more important than plant height is uniformity of height. Some varieties are level; others are up and down, making combining difficult. Uniformity of head length and the distance from the base of the head to the top leaf are also important for easy harvesting. So these additional measurements are being made on each variety.

As you can see, it takes a lot of work to test varieties that will be acceptable for field planting.

UI Plans Annual Short Course In Agriculture

URBANA — Farm boys making plans for this winter should set aside the time from February 8 to March 18, 1960. During this period the University of Illinois will present its annual winter Agricultural Short Course.

This six-week course is designed for boys who cannot attend regular college sessions, explains Warren Wessels, assistant to the dean of the College of Agriculture. It gives them an opportunity to keep up with the latest advancements in farming.

Wessels announces that courses will be offered in farm management, marketing, farm machinery and farm buildings and electrification. Several courses will also be offered in crop and livestock production and management.

More details on the 1960 short course will be announced later. Those interested in attending may write to Wessels at 104 Mumford Hall, Urbana, Illinois.

Narrower Rows Produce More Soybeans

Soybeans planted in 28-inch rows yielded about four bushels more than average on the University of Illinois Allerton trust farms near Monticello this year.

J. B. Cunningham, trust farm manager, reports that 885 acres of soybeans on eight farms averaged 31.2 bushels an acre. In spite of the severe drouth, this yield was about the same as last year's. Rainfall for June, July and August measured only two to three inches. Last year June and July rainfall totaled 15 inches.

The top-yielding farm made 35 bushels an acre on 38.6 acres. The operator, Frank Lubbers, Jr., planted his beans in 28-inch rows and did a thorough job of preparing the land, planting, cultivating and harvesting, Cunningham reports.

University of Illinois agronomists have obtained about 5 bushels an acre more for soybeans planted in 24-inch rows than in the usual 40-inch rows. Following these research results, Cunningham has encouraged the farm operators on the Allerton trust farms to plant their beans in narrower rows. Several operators fixed their planters to plant 38-inch rows and used the same row width for both corn and soybeans. The results so far look promising for both corn and soybeans, although corn yields have not yet been figured.

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

It seems there are so many strains in modern living that a lot of folks get wound up like a pretzel. And if the tension isn't relaxed, something's got to give. One of the latest treatments we've heard about for mental tensions is laughing gas. According to the medics, laughing gas releases secret fears and gets you as relaxed as the bride's father after the wedding's over.

As a firm believer in an occasional chuckle, we can see a load of logic in this idea. A sense of humor, it seems to us, would do the trick even better. It serves as a shock absorber over many of life's worst bumps. As the poet said, "Laugh and the world laughs with you." If you sit around brooding you collect nothing but wrinkles. So maybe the doctors have something. If you've got troubles, just breathe deeply . . . and laugh it off.

A California woman who was brought into court for driving at night without lights claimed "I can see like an owl." We'll bet the judge didn't give a hoot.

MEREDOSIA 4-H CLUB NAMES NEW OFFICERS

The Meredosia Redi-Workers agriculture 4-H club was reorganized last Monday evening at a meeting held at the high school.

New officers chosen were: Donald Schleiker, president; Byron Fuelling, vice president; Patsy Schleiker, secretary and treasurer, and Betty Schroeder, reporter.

The leaders for the next club year are Eldred Ehlert, Harold Schroeder and Marvin Schleiker.

TO EVALUATE 4-H PROGRAM

Youth advisers from eight counties will come to Jacksonville Tuesday, Oct. 27, for an all day meeting with U.I. 4-H advisers to evaluate current standards and how they may be improved.

They will meet at Farm Bureau hall at 9:30 a.m.

Representatives from Greene, Pike, Scott, Brown, Cass, Schuyler, Adams and Morgan counties will meet with Hugh Wetzel and Mrs. Alice Hare, state 4-H leaders.

Note Of Pride

The other day Leonard Bernstein, musical director of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, charmed the members of Washington's National Press Club, as he does just about everybody else.

He only recently returned to this country from a successful tour of the Soviet Union and Middle East. As usual, Bernstein was brimming with ideas, this time with those having to do with music's value as a bridge of understanding between peoples.

His Washington appearance, like his orchestra's tour, was a hit. This man, who now conducts one of the nation's finest orchestras, is also a pianist of recognized stature, and a composer of three Broadway musical smashes in the past 15 years.

On top of all this, on television telling the story of music, he has proved himself one of the ablest communicators of ideas in this century. He is a man of high intellect, of taste, of keen wit.

If the time ever comes when this country can't find work for a man like Leonard Bernstein, we'll be on the way downhill.

Go Up Or Shut Up

All the nations concerned would do the world, and its reading public, a great service if they would quickly agree on the time and place of a summit meeting—if there is to be one.

There is no way to calculate the expenditure of newsprint and radio-TV time in endless speculation over the summit.

Will there be a meeting? When? Where? Why does Khrushchev want one? What do the allies think? What do we think? And so on—and on.

These questions have been dealt with again and again, in different contexts of time, not only this year but in other years since the last such meeting at Geneva in 1955.

The purposes and meaning of a well-intentioned summit meeting are grave indeed. But no one can forever take seriously mere talk about it.

Let's schedule it and get to it. Or if that can't be done, let's file the subject away until something really happens. Never was so much said about so little.

Mr. Welch Returns—

Joseph N. Welch, the Boston lawyer who gained fame in the 1954 Army-McCarthy hearings, never really has been able to go back to the quiet life since that time.

In the years intervening, he's done many a television stint, including some notable discussions of the meaning of the U.S. Constitution. This year he played the role of a judge, fittingly enough, in a movie that's still going the rounds. He's just back from a European tour to promote that film.

Maybe that set his mind. Anyhow, he's facing the inevitable and is giving up the law for a full-time television career. He says the law is a young man's game. Whether it is or not, he's out to show that TV is an old man's game.

The word is that on TV he'll concentrate on public affairs, hoping to stir wider public interest. Too bad they won't make him Commissioner of Television, to keep things honest, like the baseball commissioner does for baseball. But it's bound to be more honest just by the fact of his presence.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — No, Virginia, there is no such address as 77 Sunset Strip. But there is a cafe called Dino's, and it was the site of a recent party to hail the TV series' second season.

Dino himself was there—Dean Martin, who introduced the show's stars and producers. It was his first public acknowledgement of what "77 Sunset Strip" had done for his bistro: making it nationally known. Oddly, the publicity was unsolicited.

The celebration over, the film makers went back to the job of turning out television shows. That job gets tougher all the time, according to Howie Horwitz, who has produced "77" from the beginning.

"When we went on the air last season, there were only four detective shows on TV," he remarked. "This season there are 14, that means we're going to be facing a lot more competition."

Horwitz pointed out that the opposing networks have brought in blockbusters to try blasting "77" out of its dominance of the Friday night audience. NBC has scheduled a series of specials at the same time, and CBS shifted Desilu Playhouse from Monday nights.

"But we've got something going for us," the producer said confidently. "We have big assets in three personable and accomplished stars, Efre Zimbalist, Roger Smith and Edd Byrnes. We still haven't exploited all of their talents. Roger, for example, is an accomplished guitarist and singer. We'll bring that into a show soon."

"But we're not going to make ours a kookie show," the producer added. "There would be a temptation to exploit a hot personality, but that would throw our show out of balance." He pointed out that since the sponsors aim their products at the post-teen audience, there's no pressure to kookie-ize the show.

BELAFONTE ON BROADWAY

Belafonte says a major Broadway problem today is "the prohibitive production costs" which have "stifled and suppressed the creative forces."

He has teamed with Leo Kerz and George Justin to sponsor "Moonbirds." The fantasy, says Belafonte, "reflects the type of imagination that our theatre could really stand to see."

MISS HOPKINS ON TOUR

NEW YORK (AP)—Miriam Hopkins is starring in a 73-city tour of "Look Homeward, Angel," the Pulitzer Prize drama based upon Thomas Wolfe's famed novel.

Miss Hopkins, who appeared in the original company on Broadway and tour, has signed for the new production sponsored by Theatrical Interests Plan.

Mark Twain Had Nothing on 1959 Gobbledygook; Mr. Khrushchev, as One Little Boy Sees Him

BY JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—One of the attractions at the White House Correspondent's banquet was actor Hal Holbrook's impersonation of famed writer Mark Twain. Holbrook's best monologue depicted Twain trying to confuse a reporter who was interviewing him. It ended like this:

Reporter— "Now, Mr. Twain, how could you have talked with George Washington at his funeral if he was dead?"

Twain—"I never said he was dead."

Reporter— "Well, was he or wasn't he dead?"

Twain—"Some said he was."

With that one of the real-life reporters at the banquet turned to a friend and whispered, "Sounds just like an interview at the State Department."

TEXAS OIL, gas, and sulphur lobbyist Dale Miller recently returned from a Lone Star State wingding that would have been a nightmare for any Washington host or hostess. The barbecue and bourbon feast was tossed to celebrate the completion of a new bridge named after Miller.

Four hundred guests were expected. One thousand showed up. Despite the unexpected arrivals, there was still enough food and drink for everyone.

WHEN TREASURY Department Chief Counsel David Lindsay goes on vacation, he always carries one of those long cardboard tubes that are used to mail maps and calendars. He uses it to hold his fishing pole and two golf clubs, a driver and putter.

"Those are the only two clubs I'm any good at using," Lindsay explains. "By carrying them in a cardboard tube instead of a golf bag I can get out of paying excess baggage charges to the airlines."

NEWEST NOVELTY drink in town is the Dillatini, which was introduced at a Sheraton-Park hotel party. It's a Martini with a dillybean in it instead of an olive. A dillybean is a dilled string bean.

Promoters are hawking the drinks as an aid to cutting down on smoking. They claim that imbibers who suck gin-soaked dilly-beans forget about puffing cigarets.

LATEST STORIES to come out of Khrushchev's visit:

A Washington mother showed her three-year-old TV viewer a newspaper reproduction of a caricature of Khrushchev made at a luncheon by one of the guests. "Who's that, Brad?" she asked, to see if the Russian's visit had made any impression upon the child's mind.

"It's Mr. Clean," the boy immediately replied, "the funny man who wipes away dirt on television."

If anyone has reason to feel sad when Khrushchev's visit here ended it was the Statler hotel barbers. For members of the Soviet Chief's entourage were the best customers that they have had in years.

Each day the barbershop was packed with Russians who always ordered haircut, hair singe, manicure, shampoo, facial massage, shave and shoeshine. Some came back for the works two and three times during their stay.

What startled the barbers most was the Russian who walked into the shop, flashed a $50 bill and asked, "Is this enough for a haircut?"

Be Cheerful, Considerate When Visiting Sick Friend

Got a sick friend? You can help to make his hospital stay a little more pleasant if you'll just remember:

- That the first few days a patient is in the hospital are the poorest time for making calls, sending flowers, or calling on the telephone. The visits may even be a handicap if he is so ill that it is an effort for him to have to try to keep a conversation going. He'll welcome such attentions when he begins to recuperate.
- That most people do rush in at the first and then gradually forget about the patient who has a long stay in the hospital. So your attentions will be doubly appreciated if they come along after others have quit calling.
- That it is better to visit a sick patient alone than to make a party of it by taking along several friends. If the patient were up to a party he wouldn't be in the hospital.
- That while you should be cheerful when calling on a person who is ill, you shouldn't be bursting with the joy of living. All that energy, vivaciousness, loud talk and laughter is bound to make the sick friend feel even weaker, frailer and more despondent.
- That the one time you don't talk about the state of your own health is when you are paying a call on one who is ill. Don't try to share the spotlight. Let him tell you how he feels. Let him be the star.
- That the fact that you can't go to see a sick friend is no reason for ignoring him. One women sends a card with a little note on it every single day that one of her friends is ill. The daily note says as clearly as a visit, "I'm thinking of you."

matter of FACT

The American National Association of the Red Cross—as the American National Red Cross was first named—was incorporated in 1881 with Clara Barton as president. Miss Barton had done much relief work among soldiers during the War Between the States. Shortly after the War she went abroad when she became interested in the Red Cross. She returned to the U.S. to become the founder of a similar organization here.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — George F. Kennan would be just another ex-diplomat, lost in reverie, except that more than anyone he symbolizes in an ironic and dramatic way the American dilemma in dealing with the Soviet Union.

Twelve years ago he fathered an idea which has been American policy ever since: Prevent Soviet expansion by ringing her with military bases and alliances. This was the so-called containment policy.

It was followed rigidly by both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations, without basic change. And now this rigidity irks Kennan who seems to be shying away from his brainchild and is calling for fresh thinking.

Where once Kennan was for stiff-arming the Soviets absolutely, now he is for making concessions to them in order to get concessions. The American dilemma simply comes down to this: Is this the time for a change?

The world was different when Kennan had his idea in 1947, or, rather, the relative positions of the United States and the Soviet Union were different.

Then the United States had a monopoly on the atom bomb and was soon to have the hydrogen bomb. The Soviet Union had neither. The Soviets then were even considered backward. Kennan even said at the time that the Soviet Union, in relation to the West, was weak.

The story is far different now. The Soviets have both the atomic and hydrogen bombs. It may be ahead of this country in missiles to deliver them. It is definitely years ahead of the United States in space development.

It has made astonishing progress in science, education, industry. It can no longer be considered weak. What did Kennan hope to accomplish with his plan?

By holding the Soviets tight, he thought, weaknesses might show up internally or changes for the better might occur. In one sense, changes for the better have occurred.

Stalin died within those 12 years. His successor, Premier Nikita Khrushchev, has relaxed controls a bit in the Soviet Union, has called for peaceful coexistence, but at the same time made it plain the Soviet Union is conscious of its power.

So—while the United States 12 years ago was able to put pressure on the Soviet Union with impunity and without fear of disaster, this is no longer true. Moscow now has the power to apply pressure and make the Allies back up, as it showed by deliberately creating the Berlin crisis.

As he watched the changes occur, Kennan began to talk in a new way: of making a deal with the Kremlin so both sides could pull back their troops in Europe; of neutralizing Germany; of abolishing all nuclear weapons.

In short, he says, we are no longer strong enough to get our way without compromising with the Soviet Union.

He accuses the Eisenhower administration, which has acted as stiffly toward the Soviets as the Truman administration, of being "stilted, cramped, and inflexible" in its thinking.

He was a prophet once. Is he still one? To follow his thinking now would require changes in American policy as profound as those set in motion to carry out his containment idea.

For example: Putting the containment policy into operation—the military bases and alliances—meant this country broke with its past, ended its isolation, and got up to its neck in the affairs of the rest of the world.

The country as a whole is forever uneasy about relations with the Soviets, wants some solutions, but is wary and hesitant about change.

Just because it is, the Soviets under Khrushchev have been able to take the initiative not only in dealing with the United States but in Communist relations with the rest of the world.

Kennan's old boss, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, was and is for the status quo, as was his successor, the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Any move toward dropping Kennan's old ideas for his new ones will not be made quickly or easily.

It May Pay You to Check Social Security Benefits

BY MARIE DAERR

Are you missing out on Social Security benefits that are due you?

Arthur S. Flemming, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, believes that many Americans are in this situation. He believes they may be unaware of their rights under the 1958 amendments or may not know that they must file application before payments start.

About 190,000 men, women and children were added to the list of those receiving monthly old-age, survivors and disability insurance benefits, as the result of the amendments, Secretary Flemming announced.

Biggest group made eligible were 126,000 dependents of disabled workers. About 50,000 other disabled workers received monthly benefits under a new provision. This eased the work requirements for persons applying under the disability insurance provision. It also extended to June 30, 1961, the deadline for filing of applications by people with long-standing disabilities.

Before September, 1958, disabled workers between the ages of 50 and 65 who were applying for benefits and those under 50 who wanted their Social Security records "frozen" had to meet two requirements. They needed Social Security credit for at least five of the 10 years before becoming disabled, and for at least 18 months out of the three years preceding disability. Under the 1958 amendments, Social Security credit for 18 months out of the last three years is no longer required.

The amendment extending the filing deadline gave workers whose disability may have begun as far back as 1941 until June 30, 1961, to ask to have their Social Security records frozen as of the time they actually became disabled.

Thanks to another change that permits payments to dependent parents, even if the worker is also survived by a widow, widower or child, 3,000 aged dependent parents of workers who died since 1939 have been added to the benefit rolls.

"Perhaps many other parents who were denied benefits in the past have not yet heard of the law changes," Secretary Flemming said.

Through another law change, a disabled son or daughter, 18 years of age or older, of a retired or deceased parent may now qualify as a dependent, even though he or she has been receiving less than the previously necessary one-half support from the parent.

Still other amendments permit continuation of benefit payments when one beneficiary marries another; permits payment of mother's benefits when a child has been adopted by the stepfather, even though the mother had been married to the stepfather for less than one year at the time of his death; permits payment of benefits to a child if a retired worker adopted less than three years previously.

• • •

Q—I am the wife of a man, 62, who is getting total disability payments. How old must I be before I can get Social Security?—L.J.

A—A wife 62 or older or a wife under 62 who has in her care a dependent child is eligible for benefits as the dependent of a disabled worker.

Q—My husband and I have had Social Security cards since they were first issued. We have received benefits since 1951. Recently, I lost my card. I am 74 and don't work. Must I apply for a new card?—F.Y.A.

A—No.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Simon, Called Peter

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Until recently, when family illness has kept me closely to home, I had been a frequent visitor to the movies.

Many listed and reviewed movies I should like to see. But there is one that, if the description of it in a recent review is at all correct, I shall be very glad to miss.

It is the movie "The Big Fisherman," based on Lloyd Douglas' novel of the same title, with the Apostle Simon Peter as its titular character. I see that my late friend, Dr. Douglas, anticipating what the moviemakers would do to his story, described himself as "an irascible old man" who wished they would leave it "just a book."

The responsibility, I think, has been in some measure on Dr. Douglas himself. It seemed to me that after the immense success of "The Magnificent Obsession" as a movie, he wrote with one eye on the movie possibilities.

As to Dr. Douglas' irascibility I once had very specific proof. In a considerable file of letters that passed between us there is one not there. He told me to read it, and burn it, which I eventually did. In a pastorate that seemed a conspicuously notable success irritations that vex a minister's soul had evidently occurred, and in all literature I have never read anything so devastating—except the woes that Jesus pronounced against the hypocrites.

Actually, I think, the diatribe was much less an emotional and spiritual outburst than a literary experimentation. I think Douglas was experimenting to see how far in that sort of writing he could really go. He could use words to flay as well as to elucidate and inspire. He was throughout his life a Christian minister, and it is as a Christian minister his influence has lived, and will live.

But to get back to "The Big Fisherman:" the movies have evidently made out of his profoundly dramatic story and great spiritual experience a chiefly sensational movie with the worst sort of accompaniments.

The story of Peter, the fisherman, as told in the simple pages of the New Testament is one of the most moving in all the stories of religious experience.

The center and soul of the story of Peter is not found in any acts of Peter himself. It is in the words of Jesus: "Simon, Simon, behold Satin hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat: but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren" (Luke 22: 30, 31).

What a prayer! And primarily for faith which is the basis to conquest.

I think that in general the theater, the movies and television fail and give an inadequate, if not a distorted, portrayal when they enter the field of religion in which deep sincerity as well as keen spiritual perception and a true sense of value can be the only satisfactory guides.

Zesty Dilled Tomato Brine Enhances Swedish Meat Balls

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

The mother of one of the country's most distinguished restaurateurs, Joseph Baum of New York's brilliant new "Four Seasons," put up some old-fashioned dilled tomatoes in brine. She sent us a jar. First we ate the crisp green tomatoes. Next day, into that wonderfully strong brine, we placed medium-sized dill pickles and let them stand for two days. Then the pickles and dill-flavored brine were used for our own version of Swedish meat balls last night for dinner. A happy event.

Our Own Swedish Meat Balls (Yield: 15 medium meat balls)

One pound boneless chuck, 1 egg, slightly beaten; ½ cup quick-cooking oats, ½ cup milk, minced onion to taste, minced fresh parsley, garlic salt, freshly ground black pepper, 2 cans cream of vegetable soup, ½ can milk, 3 tablespoons dill brine, 2 dill pickles, finely chopped.

Mix chuck, slightly beaten egg, oats, milk, onion, parsley and seasonings. Shape into 15 medium-size meat balls. Brown lightly in butter in large skillet. Heat cream of vegetable soup, ½ can milk and brine. Pour over meat in skillet and stir. Add finely chopped dill pickles and parsley. Simmer, covered, over very low flame for about 45 minutes.

Monday's Dinner: Our own Swedish meat balls with dill brine, steamed rice, snap beans, poppyseed rolls, butter or margarine, watercress and tomato salad, oil and lemon juice dressing, prune pie with cream cheese topping, coffee, tea, milk.

Plan Buildings At Calhoun Co. Fairgrounds

HARDIN, Ill. — The construction and development committee of the Calhoun Apple Advertising Club met Tuesday night in the office of Paul R. Durr, committee chairman, to discuss plans for further permanent development of the county fairgrounds at the north edge of Hardin. This site is on acreage leased by the apple club from the Unit 40 school district and is the future home of the annual apple festival and county fair sponsored by the club.

Proceeds from the annual affair are used to develop the grounds further, Durr said, and in spite of financial reverses when the festival was rained out this year, the club is going ahead with its building and improvement program. A building housing rest rooms and storage facilities on the grounds is nearing completion and the construction of other buildings was discussed at Tuesday night's meeting.

It was felt that one of the most important items of construction would be a large permanent stage to be used for the crowning of the apple queen and for the apple exhibit. Of equal importance would be exhibit buildings, such as for livestock, with emphasis on 4-H accommodations.

Also discussed was the building of an arena for such events as horse shows, rodeos, 4-H shows and possibly midget car races. These facilities would be available to the entire county. The locating of a permanent midway, where roads may be built at a future date, was discussed.

The electric wiring which was installed for this year's festival is permanent, and all wiring has been completed. No decision has been made as yet concerning the location of permanent buildings, but tentative plans will be drawn up and presented to the CAAC organization soon, possibly at a dinner for members and other interested persons.

Saturday has been designated as clean-up day, and volunteer workers will gather at the fairgrounds to put the grounds in shape for the planned development. At the same time, measurements will be taken, and possible building locations staked out.

CALL COW UNICEF

A new livestock — share lease form, especially designed to take care of increased mechanization on many livestock farms, has been developed by University of Illinois agricultural economists. Copies are now available from any Illinois farm adviser or the Department of Agricultural Economics, University of Illinois, Urbana, for 10 cents each.

MOTHER OF TEN

Mitzie became the mother of ten puppies last Saturday and decided she would pose for our camera and show off her new brood. So as not to offend either sex, she presented her owner, John McBride, 1248 South East, with an assortment of five boys and five girls.

Mitzie is one of the most intelligent German Shepherd dogs we've seen and obeys all commands without question. She has won the first place ribbon at the Morgan County Fair Pet Parade two years in a row.

She has a beautiful set of teeth, all of which were visible when this photographer tried to pick up one of the pups.

Help-A-Neighbor Club; Patterson Meets On Friday

PATTERSON — The Help-a-Neighbor Club met Friday in the home of Mrs. Bessie Hicks, northwest of Patterson. A potluck dinner was held at the noon hour. The group enjoyed a social hour in the afternoon. The November meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Crystal Houghton, near Roodhouse.

Personals

Mrs. Nellie Smith has returned home after a weeks' visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Smith and son Jeffrey Lee, at Marquette Heights, near Pekin.

Mr. and Mrs. Norville Hicks and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hicks and children were Tuesday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Wald in White Hall. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Shive and daughters Donna and Elaine, of White Hall.

Mrs. Fairy Martin spent Tuesday and Wednesday with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ann Smith, near Pittsfield.

Everett Taylor was in Peoria from Monday until Wednesday attending a three day convention for township officials.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Taylor and daughters, Gail, Sheryl, and Mary Ann of Roodhouse were Sunday visitors with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Taylor.

Mrs. John Prindle accompanied her daughter, Mrs. John Price, of Walkerville community, to Jacksonville, on Thursday.

Mrs. Lucy Taylor, a former Patterson resident, who now resides in the Hubbert Nursing Home, in St. Louis, will observe her nientieth birthday Saturday, October 24th.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Pranger, who reside east of town, are parents of a son, born, Saturday, October 17th at the White Hall Hospital. The infant, who weighed nine pounds and one half ounce, has been named David Lawrence. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Taylor of Woodson and the paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pranger, of near Patterson. Mrs. George Brown is a great grandmother. The mother and baby were dismissed to their home on Tuesday.

MILK FOR FIFTY

Trio Entertains White Hall Lions

WHITE HALL—The Lions Club held their regular meeting on Wednesday night with supper at the Presbyterian Church. Lion C. K. Darrow of the program committee presented Glen Jennings, local bandmaster, who in turn presented a group of sixth graders playing trumpets. A trio composed of Steven Black, David Justis and Jerry Baird played "The Man On the Flying Trapeze."

David Bottom played "Tulip" as a solo, accompanied by Marilyn Lemons of the W.H.H.S. The trio then played "Black Bottom" and concluded with Baird playing "Coquette" accompanied by Miss Lemon.

Richard Mills, attorney of Virginia, Ill., chairman of the district, gave a talk and urged support of the Boy Scout program, also to share the district and council program expense.

Four new members, Donald Evans, David McClintock, Max McIntyre and Richard Brooks were inducted into the club by Past International Director Richard C. Bell and immediately assigned to committees. The president, W. J. Ritchey, reminded all present of the annual fall sale on Thursday, Oct. 29, with a kick off breakfast that morning.

CHAPIN 4-H CLUB HOLDS FUN PARTY

CHAPIN — The Chapin Top Notchers winter 4-H club held a Jack-O-Lantern Fun Party Oct. 15. Joan Carrigan led the pledge of allegiance. Roll call was answered by naming a kind of nut.

The program included piano solos by Marilyn and Barbara Schroeder, a poem, "October," by Judy Hamilton and the story of walnuts by Maxine Lael.

The 4-H pledge was led by Judy Detmer. Games were conducted by the hostesses, Mrs. Werries and Mrs. Long.

Following the meeting a wiener roast was held.

Officers Elected

The organization meeting of the Top Notchers was held Oct. 8. The following officers were elected: Janet Schumacher, president; Phyllis Wilder, vice president; Diane Johnson, secretary; Gloria Fisher, assistant secretary; Marilyn Schumacher, treasurer; Karen Smith, assistant treasurer; Maxine Lall, reporter; Linda Weeks and Carol Anderson, assistant reporters and Mary Rae La Kamp, program chairman.

Autumn Brings Danger Of Fire In Timber Areas

JERSEYVILLE—District Forester Waldon Lewis of Jerseyville reported Tuesday that the danger of forest fires is the area may be expected to grow greater as the fair weather continues and the dampening effect of the recent heavy rains gradually disappears.

Leaves are falling in many of the wooded areas, certain species discarding their summer foliage regardless of the absence of killing frosts.

As dry weather continues and the leaf bed increases in the timber areas, the fire danger will mount and fire patrols will again become a necessary factor in the control of forest fire outbreaks.

The usual plea for caution in handling fires is again being urged for it is better to prevent forest fires than to attempt to curb them once they get out of control.

It takes many years for burned over forest areas to return to a normal status. Tracts that were badly damaged by fires in western Jersey county during the extremely dry autumns of five and six years ago are just now beginning to return to normal status so far as young undergrowth is concerned.

The establishment of adequate fire patrols in the district the past several years has proven highly effective in keeping down the acreages burned over by forest fires. The spotting of fires in their initial stages, plus the quick arrival at threatened areas by patrols with adequate equipment has gone far to keeping the damage from forest fires in the district at a minimum.

★★☆★★★ JUNIOR JOURNAL COURIER ★★★★★

Jolly Jack-O-Lantern

Susan is 9 years old and lives in Franklin. She may come in any time now for her JUNIOR JOURNALIST PENCIL and JUNIOR PRESS CARD which all earn who have anything they have drawn or written printed on the Junior page.

How many children will you save today? You can "treat" sick and hungry children in other lands by collecting coins for UNICEF.

Maybe you'll want to add some of your own pennies too. Did you know that the cost of a comic book will give a child in India 50 glasses of milk?

Wear masks or costume, or both, and start out from your church at 3:30 p.m. today. Don't forget those empty milk cartons to use as banks for all the money you'll collect.

After the "trick or treating" for UNICEF, you'll be treated at the Youth Center to refreshments and a talent show.

BIRTHDAY PARADE

Michael Joseph Beniach

Our Birthday Parade starts today with a brand new marcher, Michael Joseph Beniach, who celebrated his very first Birthday October 23. Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Joseph Beniach, Hillcrest Trailer Court.

Reggie Wood

Riding by next on his lively steed is Reggie Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wood of Winchester. Reggie celebrated his third Birthday October 7 with a Birthday cake and all his little friends.

George Daniels

Today's last marcher is celebrating his Birthday right today! He sends a letter saying—

"My name is George Daniels of Winchester. I am the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Daniels.

I will be 10 years old October 25. I am in the 5th grade and my teacher's name is John Seed. He is a good teacher."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY to all the Junior Page Birthday Parade marchers from all the readers and your editor!

Cathy Jo Riley

This pretty, curly-haired marcher, Miss Cathy Jo Riley of Chambersburg was 4 years old October 14. Cathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Riley.

Hendall Page, Brother, Diane

The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Page of Hillview and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Arnold of Patterson.

The Thoroughbred

By Mary Pence Claywell

Part 2: Long-Ago Days

Most of the people in Major, the thoroughbred's day, were just ordinary folk, considered neither rich or poor since practically every man had to earn his living for himself and his family by the actual sweat of the brow. And every farm-wife, and every boy and girl also knew what it was to labor, for there were few labor-saving machines in either field or home.

Many small hands as well as group ones knew both blisters and callouses when the busy season were on . . . and truly, all four were filled with many tasks.

Most of the families, in Farmer Brown's neighborhood, owned small farms, well up in the rugged hills, or along wild and winding creeks, with only a few acres tillable in the bottom lands. Here the fields were so small, they were called "truck patches;" and the steep hills, that made up the remainder of these homesteads, were given over to pasture for a few cows and hogs, and sometimes goats and sheep.

These farmers either made a livelihood at truck-farming, raising potatoes, fruits and vegetables, with chickens, hogs, geese and turkeys as side lines; or else milked several cows and sold cream, and fed the skimmed milk to their hogs.

Old-Time Butter

Many times, the good farm-wives hand-churned cream and made butter and sold it by the pound. Because of its sweet freshness, it was much in demand.

The women used neat, old-fashioned wooden molds to shape the butter for their customers. Mrs. Brown had her own regular buyers, and she was very proud of the "yellow" product, artistically decorated with a pineapple design imprinted on every pound. In fact, all butter molds had some kind of design cut into the wooden dasher that pushed the butter from the mold, and it did look so pretty!

Now Farmer Brown was the proud owner of just such a farm, and his family did all these things. But he also rented a few extra acres from a large ranch-owner who owned many acres of rich river bottom land. The farmer drove twelve to fifteen miles to reach the rented field, which to him seemed large even if it was no more than fifteen or twenty acres.

Major Has A Part

Major played his own important part in this world-woven picture of early life for many years, as Farmer Brown and his good and willing wife raised their family of children to man and womanhood on their rugged little piece of God's good earth.

Needless to say, Major was their chief pride when it came to the "beast of burden." Because he was so proud and beautiful himself, with his great neck gracefully bowed as he pranced along, it took all the sting out of the fact that nine times out of ten he had an old, blind horse or mare as a teammate. Major didn't care, and he was to his blind mate what an intelligent "eye-seeing" dog is to a man who has lost his sight. The sensible horse somehow knew that he was the leader.

Very early of the morning, during the planting and harvesting season, Farmer Brown and his young son Tad hitched Major and Pet, or Ball, or Barney—whatever the other's name might be—to a rattling old wagon, with a plain board seat laid across the sideboards. Then they started their journey to the rented fields.

Hettie's Spoons

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

Part 2: Silver Talk

"When did you get out of that satchel?" spoon Number Six asked, "I want to know what you saw."

"When my boy got to the school, he took us to the dining room. We were always laid at his place. That is why we were monogrammed."

"'We?' Who were 'we?'" spoon Number Five queried.

"A soup spoon, a fork, a knife and myself," the teaspoon replied. "The boys chattered about their lessons sometimes. Latin and Greek were hard, but they liked Physiology.

"They had a game about bones. If someone called 'carpel and meta-carpel' they pointed to their wrists and hands, but if they held up their fingers, that was wrong. We silver pieces came to know all the names of all the bones too."

"What is the name for fingers?" spoon Number Four asked.

"I can't think now but I know;" the monogrammed spoon could not remember anything except the last letter "s."

"Think of the letter just before that, then the next and the next until you have all of them. You'll know the word then," Number Four suggested.

"I can't think backward, can you?" the schoolboy's spoon said. Then everyone was still, for Hettie reached into the drawer and took out all the seven.

Finds Spoon

"Why, here is my baking powder spoon," and Hettie began polishing. "Isn't it pretty! I'll keep it for jelly with the company ones." Then she put them all back in the drawer together.

"Where do you suppose the rest of my set can be?" it wondered when all was quiet again.

"I know," Number One answered. "The soup spoon is with the rest of the soup ones, the fork is with the forks. You know they scratch. But the knife came apart; they are going to have it mended."

Who Will Help?"

"Don't you like it here with us?" the six friends asked.

"Well, how will Hettie measure baking powder if I am not in the pantry?" the old spoon worried. "Who will help her?"

All the six thought hard, then Number Four remembered something. "Hettie measures vanilla now in the new bottle cap. She can promote the vanilla spoon to the baking powder."

Part 2: Wonderful News

"Teruko, my little daughter," she heard her mother call. "Teruko, my daughter, I have brought home much more than dresses to sew.

"I have brought home hope—for you—for both of us. Let us light the lamps for I have wonderful news for you.

"Today, my daughter," Okasan said, stroking Teruko's wondering face, "I bought a newspaper in the city to see if I could find more work.

"While I waited for Mr. Yamamoto to look at the dresses I had finished, I read this newspaper. It tells of wonderful things, Teruko. There is hope for happiness again for you and for me.

"It says that those who are crippled have not been punished by God. This is an old belief which we must put aside." Her mother was speaking very rapidly, her eyes dancing with excitement.

"Teruko, there is a law which says that crippled children must be helped back to health again. And this will be done by the government, without cost, for the children whose mothers and fathers do not have enough money to pay.

UNICEF Helps

"And, Teruko," Mother was breathless, "there is soon to be a new hospital in Yokohama where I may take you. The newspaper said that something known as UNICEF is sending fine equipment to help crippled children use their arms and legs again.

"UNICEF is a part of the United Nations which helps children all over the world. We must find out more about this UNICEF, my child."

Teruko could hardly speak, she was so excited. Her eyes, so long sad, were now as sparkling as her mother's. "Okasan," she cried, "perhaps I can sew again."

"Of course, you will! I return again to Yokohama in the morning," her mother said. "to learn where I may take you. Today I asked many persons, but they did not know. Tomorrow I will go to the government offices.

"Teruko, I have never been happy to think that you were punished by God. I am glad to know that it is not so. Let us give thanks for this hope which has come to us."

The next day the hours passed slowly for Teruko while she waited for her mother's return. She wondered about the UNICEF which was helping children like herself and she hoped with all her heart that she might soon be well again.

Goes to Hospital

Teruko's mother did find out where to take her daughter, and soon all the arrangements were made. Within a week, Teruko went to a hospital in Yokohama, where doctors studied her paralyzed arm and leg and wrote down everything about her illness.

It was decided that Teruko need not wait for the new crippled children's hospital in Yokohama to be finished. She would go to the Seishi Ryogo En, the special hospital for crippled children in Tokyo. Her mother would go too. She would stay with her for a while to be taught how to help Teruko.

While she waited at the hospital in Yokohama, Teruko learned many things about UNICEF. She learned that this strange word was known to millions and millions of mothers and children all around the world.

UNICEF meant the United Nations Children's Fund, and she heard it had helped children in more than 100 different countries. Teruko wondered how it could do so much. And then it was that she learned how very much the people of all the world care for children.

More than 90 governments, she was told, have given money generously. Mothers, fathers and even children themselves had sent money to UNICEF. Teruko also found that her own country had spent millions of yen to help crippled children lead happy, useful lives again.

Heart Full of Joy

Her heart was full with joy and thanks. She must do something important for UNICEF to show how she felt.

By the time Teruko reached the Tokyo hospital she knew what she would do. When the doctors came to decide what treatment would be best for her, Teruko shyly spoke.

"I wish," she said, "to thank UNICEF for helping me to learn how to use my arm and leg again. Will you please tell them that when I am all well, I will make them the most beautiful doll in all Japan."

And thus did a little girl thank UNICEF.

PLEASE HELP

In the hills near Galilee one little boy said, "My Father says in heaven there is God—here there is UNICEF—please help my people."

YOU CAN MAKE THIS

By Joseph A. Smith

For Reading In Bed

If you like to read in bed or know someone who does then this little project is really for you. It is a handy reading stand that can fit almost any purse. (And it's not too early to start making Christmas gifts!)

Pedal to town and visit a dress shop. While there talk the proprietor out of a large flat box such as dresses are packed in for shipment. It should not be deeper than three inches.

Now take off the lid and cut a "V" shaped slit in the middle of each of the narrower sides of it. Next draw a straight line across the lid from one slit to the other.

Then with an Exacto or other sharp knife VERY GENTLY run over this line (but DON'T cut through the cardboard) so that you can bend the ends inward neatly. Now place this bent lid inside the other half of the box by bracing it against the two larger sides.

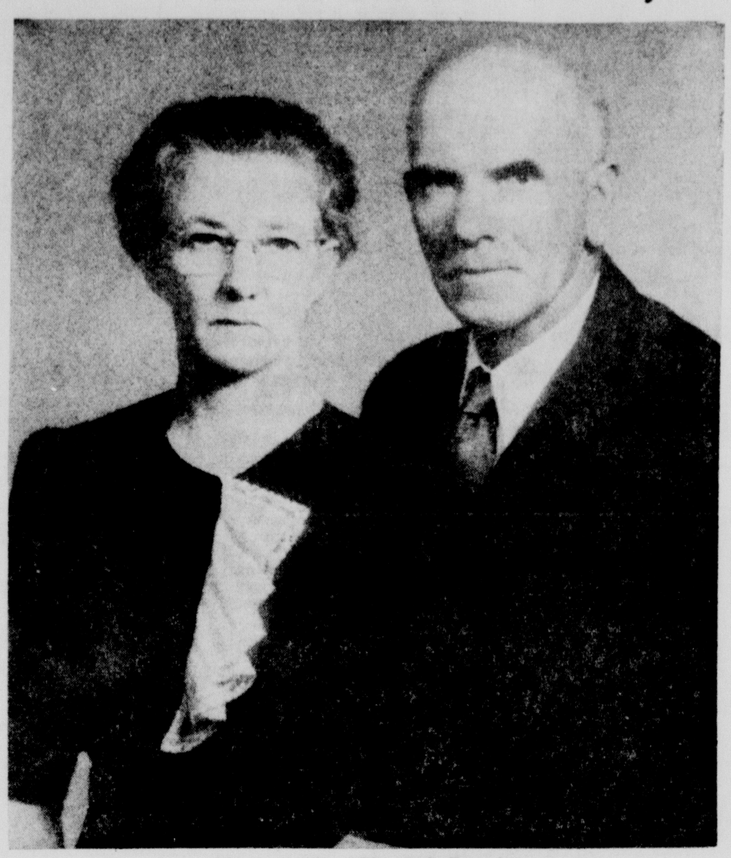
The bottom of your book will rest against the back piece and one long side piece of the bottom of the box.

Why not dress it up by coloring it with crayons or paints, or covering it with wallpaper? It would make a welcome gift to an arm chair reader too

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Mr. and Mrs. Albert K. Lemmons

Near Golden Anniversary



Mr. and Mrs. Marshel Fanning

A Jacksonville couple, Mr. and Mrs. Marshel Fanning, will observe their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, November first, at their home, 604 South Prairie street. A cordial invitation is extended to all friends and acquaintances to share this happy occasion with them from two to four o'clock in the afternoon. They respectfully request no gifts.

Anna Catherine Walt and Marshel Fanning were married Nov. 3, 1909 by the Reverend Father Jeremiah Cronin at the Catholic Parish at Virginia, Illinois. They were attended by Julius and Elizabeth Walt, brother and sister of the bride.

They were parents of one son, Robert J. Fanning, who died in 1948.

Mr. and Mrs. Fanning have spent their entire married life in rural areas of Cass and Morgan counties until Mr. Fanning retired from farming and they moved to their present home.

Mrs. Robert P. Chapman

Lynda Kay Lorton Becomes Bride Of Robert Chapman In Church Rites

Miss Lynda Kay Lorton became the bride of Robert P. Chapman on Sunday evening, October 11, at the First Baptist Church of this city. The Reverend L. E. Olson, D.D., performed the impressive single ring ceremony at six o'clock before the altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli and lavender chrysanthemums banked with ferns and palms and enhanced by lighted tapers.

Mrs. Gary Fitzjarrell sang "I Love Thee" and "Through the Years" before the entrance of the wedding party and "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony. She was accompanied by Miss Florence Heberling, organist.

The former Miss Lorton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn K. Lorton, White Hall, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville L. Chapman, Roodhouse.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a wedding gown designed with a molded bodice of Skinner's bridal satin. The gown featured a Belgian lace yoke set with traditional long sleeves. The sleeve and yoke edges were outlined in tiny pearl beading which extended down the back from the deep oval neckline.

A silhouette lace over satin front panel was attached to the voluminous satin skirt by multiple pleats. Graduated pleats of the skirt ended in a chapel-length train.

Miss Janice Overbey, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Carol Coonrod was bridesmaid.

They wore identically styled gowns of lilac and violet taffeta, respectively. The fitted bodices featured bateau necklines and short sleeves. The full flaring skirts were waltz-length.

The gowns were accented with contour cummerbunds and halo hats of silver lame. Short white gloves and silver sandals complimented their costumes. Their bouquets were made of yellow carnations and ivy streamers.

Lynn Chapman served his brother as best man. Jack Barnett, a brother-in-law of the bride, was groomsman and Robert Shaw and Jack Meek were ushers.

The mother of the bride wore moss green with beige accessories and Mrs. Chapman, mother of the groom, wore black and white. Both wore corsages of yellow carnations.

Reception

A reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church immediately after the ceremony.

On the serving table was a four-tiered cake, topped with wedding bells and lily of the valley. It was decorated with lavender rosettes and encircled at the base by yellow and white carnations. Lavender-colored punch and white candles also followed the bride's chosen decor.

Assisting with the serving were Miss Maxine Chapman, sister of the groom; Mrs. Jack Barnett, sister of the bride; Miss Martha Lorton, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Clarence Piper and Mrs. Wayne Overbey.

Miss Jane Piper, a cousin, was in charge of guest registration and Miss Barbara Chapman helped at the gift table. Mrs. Marjorie Fitzjarrell and Mrs. Doris Davis also assisted throughout the reception.

Honeymoon to Ozarks

Mrs. Chapman was graduated from the White Hall high school in 1958 and is employed by Central National Life Insurance Company. Mr. Chapman is a graduate of the same school, class of 1956, and is employed at Anderson-Clayton.

East Side Club Meets Oct. 14

The East Side Community Club met Wednesday evening, Oct. 14, southeast of the city at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Robson.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Hellen Middendorf. Thank you cards were read from Albert Kers and Marie Ranson, thanking the club for candy and flowers which Kers and Mrs. Ransen received while they were ill.

The yearbook committee gave new club programs for the coming year to the members.

A moment of silent prayer was offered in honor of Mr. Hiram Stubblefield, a club member who passed away recently.

Mrs. Roy Sayre gave a humorous Halloween reading. The club members also played bingo.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

The club will meet Nov. 11 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Watson which is northeast of Jacksonville.

Marie Hubbell Bride Of Albert Lemmons

WAVERLY — An impressive double ring ceremony at the local Christian church Sunday afternoon, October eighteenth, united in marriage Miss Marie Hubbell and Albert K. Lemmons, The Rev. Ward S. Humphries officiated.

The bride's father, George Hubble of Peoria, gave her in marriage. The former Miss Hubble is the daughter of Mrs. Doris Hubbell of Waverly and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kelton Lemmons, Waverly.

Mrs. Lilla Duewer presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Marshall Branham who sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

Miss Sherry Crow of Franklin, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Gary Smith, Waverly, served as best man. Ushers were Dennis and Daniel Crow, Franklin and Morse Branham, Springfield.

Wears Ballerina Gown

The bride wore a lovely ballerina length gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon tulle. The long sleeved gown was fashioned with snug bodice, jeweled Sabrina neckline and bouffant skirt featuring panels of lace and tulle over multiple net skirts and tiers of narrow nylon ruffles at the back.

Attendant In Green

Miss Crow wore ballerina length green silk organza over tafieta with a harem skirt. The sleeveless bodice had a Sabrina neckline coming to a deep V at the back. The softly hanging skirt featured small satin bows. She wore a matching headdress with nose veil and carried gold tinted mums.

The bride's mother wore beige lace with brown accessories and an ice green cymbidium orchid corsage. The groom's mother was in electric blue, with white dress accessories. Her flowers were white carnations.

Reception at Church

A reception was held in the parlors of the church immediately after the ceremony. Miss Kay Crow, cousin of the bride, registered guests. The parlor was decorated in white with green. Pink and white carnations centered the serving table where wedding cake and fruit punch were served.

Assisting with the serving were Mrs. Charles Crow, Franklin; Mrs. Gilbert Crow, Jacksonville; Mrs. Clyde Dodge, Waverly and Mrs. Milton Branham, Springfield.

The bride and groom graduated from Waverly High School in 1955. She is employed at the Illinois Bell Telephone office, Springfield and he at Montgomery Ward store in Jacksonville.

Hamilton-Evans Vows Exchanged At Roodhouse

ROODHOUSE — Carolyn Sue Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl D. Evans of this city, and Charles Raymond Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hamilton, Patterson, were united in marriage Sunday, Oct. 11, at the Emmanuel Baptist church in Roodhouse. The single ring ceremony was read by the pastor, Rev. Albert Hinners, at 2:30 in the afternoon in the presence of the members of the immediate families.

Attending the couple were her brother, Carl K. Evans, Roodhouse, and his sister, Carolyn Hamilton, Patterson. Nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. Hinners at the piano.

A reception followed the ceremony held in the church basement with Mrs. Ardell Kimmel and Miss Carolyn Hamilton presiding at the table. The three-tiered wedding cake was baked by Mrs. Rowe Lee.

After a short wedding trip the couple are residing on the Hamilton farm near Patterson where he is engaged in farming. Mrs. Hamilton is a member of the Roodhouse Envelope Co. office force. Both young people are graduates of the Roodhouse Community High School where they were prominent in social and academic circles.

CARROLLTON GIRL ENGAGED TO WED WOOD RIVER MAN

CARROLLTON — Mrs. Marie McCann of Carrollton and Leslie McCann of Jerseyville are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Maurietta, to Dwight Dale Holtman, son of Dwight Holtman of Wood River and the late Mrs. Minnie Holtman. The date of the wedding has not been announced.

Miss McCann is a graduate of the Carrollton Community Unit high school and is now a junior at the Illinois State Normal University at Normal. Mr. Holtman is a graduate of the East Alton-Wood River Community high school and is also a junior at the Illinois State Normal University.

WAS A DANCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Lee Grant, who co-stars with Jeffrey Lynn in the Broadway comedy hit, "Two For the Seesaw," was once a ballet dancer in Metropolitan Opera. She was forced to give up her ballet career when she was stricken with tuberculosis of the hip.

Her first serious stage role was as the shoplifter in Sidney Kingsley's "Detective Story" which had a long Broadway run in 1949.

Bluffs Woman's Club Program On Russia

BLUFFS—The Bluffs Woman's Club met Thursday afternoon, Oct. 22 in the Bluffs Civic Club dining room with 32 members answering roll call with assigned topics and guests, Mrs. Henry Lawshe, Mr. and Mrs. George Krusa, Royal Oakes and Barbara Chambers.

Mrs. Edward Marsh and Mrs. Leroy Vortman were introduced as new members by Mrs. James Baird.

Mrs. Floyd Hart opened the meeting then turned the proceeding over to the vice president, Mrs. Donald Mullen. "America the Beautiful" was sung by the group led by Mrs. Wendell Brackett with Mrs. Donald Merris at the piano. The flag pledge was led by Mrs. Jane Woodson followed by the prayer by Mrs. Cornelia Leonhard.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and the treasurer's report given and accepted.

Mrs. Clarence Nortrup read correspondence concerning the subscription to the General Federated Club Woman magazine and the club voted to send for the subscription for the president. Concerning the CARE project a coin collection will be taken at each meeting with the club adding to the amount to make a $10 contribution later in the year.

Mrs. James Baird, local community achievement chairman told of the activities of her department.

The club voted to again sponsor a delegate to the Egyptian Music Camp at DuQuoin with reservations to be sent at once. The club voted also to sponsor the Girl Scout Fund drive with the following committee appointed to assist, Mrs. Virgil Coughlin, Mrs. Harvey Vortman, Mrs. Everett Neese, with Mrs. M. D. Goldsborough as alternate.

Speak On Russia

Mrs. Richard Mains, program chairman, introduced George Krusa and Royal Oakes who gave the program, "Did You Know About Russia"

Mr. Krusa and Mr. Oakes in a very entertaining and informative manner showed the course of their trip on a map, comparing the size of the United States and Russia. He said the most important piece of equipment was the passport and also told how they were inspected at various points. He told of the food, the worship in the few churches they saw, and about the training of the young people for Party membership. The women do all the work, even to the paving of the roads, dredging the river channels, and heavy work in the factories.

Visit State Farms

The group visited the State farms which could be compared with the type work being done at the University of Illinois experimental farms and by constant pleading and begging and finally threats, were given a few hours on the collective farm at which place they saw primitive farming along with more modern type arriculture. He pointed out that what any family could raise in their own yard they could keep, every inch of ground was used.

The people are paid according to the amount and type of work they do. The people in the Ukraine were friendly but were not quite as friendly in Moscow. Mr. Krusa's talk on the food of the country was most delightful.

If a workman fails to show up for work without a good excuse he is apt to be sent to Siberia where no one is anxious to go.

The guide on the tour in Russia was a graduate of the University of Moscow, a large and beautiful university.

Both men spoke briefly on conditions in East and West Berlin and both told of the cleanliness of the grounds and fields. The landscaping is beautiful.

The club enjoyed their many interesting comparisons and were constantly reminded how thankful we should be of our freedoms.

Mrs. Wendell Brackett presented the special music feature by giving a "thumbnail" sketch of the play and movie of "The King and I" and singing two songs from it, "Whistle A Happy Tune" and Getting To Know You."

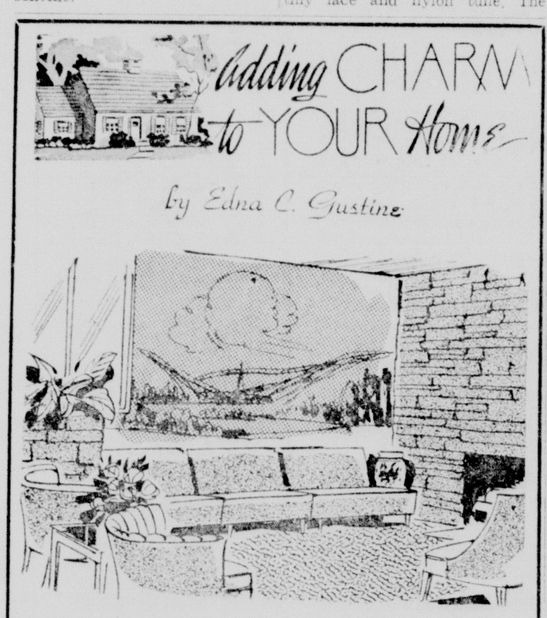
SUMMER THEATER GRADS

NEW YORK (AP)—Summer-camp theaters have graduated many of the current top-flight producers, directors and playwrights who are now prospering on Broadway and in Hollywood.

Among them are Moss Hart, Garson Kanin, Arthur Kober, Phil Silvers, Dore Schary and Danny Kaye. All of these were first office boys, stage hands and general workmen around summer theater stages before their talents hoisted them onto "big time" theater and film production.



Adding CHARM to YOUR Home

by Edna C. Gustine

CORNER FIREPLACE — MODERN STYLE

The old-fashioned corner fireplace often presented the home planner with room arrangement difficulties and space management problems . . . particularly when it was desirable to make the hearth the room's center-of-interest.

But modern architects, proven masters of the art of space maneuvering, have surmounted this difficulty by giving us a new corner fireplace effect with the chimney breast extending into the corner and the hearth off-centered. This leaves space available for comfortable and uncrowded furniture arrangements.

In the modern living room sketched above, the furniture seems to be molded into the architectural form of the room. The long low sofa backed by the wall mural has a sense of belonging . . . seats six comfortably. The chairs, lowscaled to be in balance with the sofa, are gently curved, offer a relaxing relief from the predominance of straight lines in the room.

Form, texture and color are largely responsible for this successful room plan. Natural chipped brick of fireplace wall appears again in an opposite corner. Rich wood tones of ceiling give a warm sheltered feeling. Sofa and chair covers, and deep-pile carpet are blended shades of tawny beige. Color accents are introduced with the wall mural and accessories.

We try to answer your every demand for fine furnishings. We want you to get the most value for your furniture investment. We offer you only the best in styling and craftsmanship to bring you furnishings that will serve you well — at prices that mean true savings for you.

With The Girl Scouts

Highlighting events this week at the Girl Scout office will be the craft workshop to be held Wednesday, Oct. 28, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. This is an opportunity for all troop leaders to acquire new skills and get new ideas to use in troop meetings. Specifically, there will be demonstrated at this workshop crafts for each month—tray favors, mats and small gifts to be made by the girls and taken to nursing homes and hospitals as a service project.

Need More Calendars

Orders for more Girl Scout calendars will be taken at the office up to October 30. If you wish more for your girls to sell, please notify the office by that date. The present supply is exhausted.

On Saturday, Oct. 31, we observe the birthday of Juliette Low, the founder of Girl Scouts in the United States. Her birthday appropriately occurs the week after United Nations week, Oct. 18 to 24, since she was one of the first true internationalists. Girl Scouts, in observing her birthday, may develop international interests and friendship. Perhaps the greatest need in the world today is for a closer understanding among people of the world. The Girl Scout program offers many ways of developing this understanding. Happy Juliette Low birthday celebrations to all of you!

Training Days

Last week two big sessions were held at the Scout office to train new leaders. New Brownie leaders met all day Tuesday and Mrs. Charles Nicholson instructed them in how to get along with Brownies. Thirty persons attended. On Wednesday Mrs. Charles Crocker conducted an all-day session for Intermediate leaders, giving them pointers for troop meetings. Ten new leaders were present. These training days are part of the program provided by the Illinois Prairie Council for the benefit of all concerned—the girls as well as the leaders since the girls gain directly from the better program provided by the leaders who have been trained.

Members of the Training committee of the Board of Directors met Monday preceding the training sessions to complete plans and set up plans for other training courses.

Waverly - Franklin leaders met Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. Clara Doglio in Waverly. Mrs. Hartman, Executive Director of the Council, met with the group and showed pictures of Camp Shagbark taken this past summer and also some slides of the Roundup from the visitor's point of view. The November meeting will be held Wednesday, the 18th.

Mrs. Hartman held three meetings for mothers of girls interested in Scouting this week — one at Roodhouse on Wednesday afternoon and two at Beardstown on Friday morning. To date a troop of 2nd and 3rd grade Brownies has been formed at the Washington school and a troop of 4th grade Brownies at the Beard school. More details will be given later. Other schools in Beardstown will have meetings for mothers on Monday, Oct. 26, with Mrs. Hartman presiding.

Scout Activities

Saturday, Oct. 24, was the day of the rally for all Girl Scouts and Brownie Scouts in Cass county held in Chandlerville. Mrs. Jack Garner, leader of Troop No. 61, was in charge of arrangements. Each troop attending presented two special numbers for the program. Girls were present from Ashland and Virginia as well as Chandlerville.

Brownie troop No. 100 in Virginia has taken advantage of fair weather on each of the meeting days this fall to engage in outdoor activities and fun. Three of the meetings have been held at the home of Kay McCausland, where the girls brought leaves and petals from the yard to make silhouette pictures and twigs to make birds. They also divided into teams of tree-spotter Scouts, scouting for nuts, leaves, bark and fruit to identify the different kinds of trees.

The group also went on an ABC hike at the home of Patty Mallicoat, and played outdoor games.

Trail Hike

Last week they met at the home of JoAnn Daniel and went on a trail hike set out by Mrs. Daniel. The theme of this meeting was "Four Winds and the Weather." After making a direction chart with sticks and after the leader, Mrs. Pauline McCausland had shown them how to establish due south by the sun with a pocket watch, they made weather predictions from poems about the four winds. They had a lot of fun "broadcasting" these on the miniature radio set.

In order to complete requirements on their Outdoor Cook badge, which was started at camp this past summer, the girls of Intermediate Troop 76 and two guests enjoyed a cookout at the home of their leader, Mrs. C. A. Dawson, on Saturday, Oct. 17.

Outdoor Menu

Each girl shopped for one item each and was then reimbursed from the troop treasury. The menu consisted of Irish Stew, Caramel Apples, celery and green pepper strips, bread and butter, and cider. The girls had a new experience in fixing the caramel apples which turned out very well.

On October 20 the troop was in charge of the presentation of colors at the South Jacksonville PTA. The color bearers were Nancy Pierce, Nancy Dawson and Carol Ennis. The escorts were Karen Letto, Judy Stout, Margaret Losch and Mary Bourn.

Roodhouse News

Fourteen girls winged their way from Brownies to Intermediate Girl Scouts in a beautiful and impressive candle lighting ceremony Wednesday, Oct. 7, at 3:30 p.m. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Ruth Galloway who is the leader of Girl Scout Troop 92. The assistant leader is Mrs. Rachel Grey. The ceremony began by the girls and their leaders joining hands and then forming a circle and repeating the Girl Scout pledge. Patricia Crabtree and Diana Everett were the patrol leaders for the group, and as they lit their candles they said the Girl Scout slogan and motto. Mrs. Galloway presented them with their pins and welcomed them as full-fledged Girl Scouts. Then each girl was escorted to the table by one of the patrol leaders where she lit her candle and gave one of the Girl Scout laws. Mrs. Galloway presented each girl with her Girl Scout pin and gave her a warm welcome to Girl Scouts.

The following girls took part in the candle light ceremony which invested them as Girl Scouts: Diana Everett, Patricia Crabtree, Marilyn Wyatt, Mary Ann Klingele, Shan Hannaford, Lois Janvrin, Cody Alred, Carol Scott, Tonnia Galloway, Karen Piper, Chris McIver, Lucille Winder, Vickie Rawls, and Debbie McConathy.

The following mothers and guests were present to witness the ceremony: Mrs. Joe Alred, Mrs. Wesley Crabtree, Mrs. John W. Everett, Mrs. H. L. Janvrin, Debbie Alred, Sue Crabtree and Kim Bennett.

Mrs. Galloway served refreshments of cookies, orange sherbet and chocolate ice cream. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Bailey.

HOMECOMING PARADE FLOAT

This float was entered in the JHS homecoming parade Friday by the Future Farmers of America and proved to be a crowd favorite throughout the parade route.

The idea depicted by the float was carried out in a very unique manner and appeared authentic.

By OSWALD JACOBY

Twenty-five years ago the weak jump overcall was known as a Jacoby because I was about the only player who used it. Later on young Alvin Roth and young Tobias Stone adopted it as part of their system and today it is used by about half of our top players.

The bid will always be controversial because it is definitely intended to produce swings and does produce them one way or the other with great frequency.

North's three club bid is an example of the weak jump overcall at its weakest. His neck was stuck out further than the proverbial mile but he wasn't vulnerable.

South had a good hand and decided to increase the gamble by a three no-trump bid and West doubled instantly.

North stuck by his guns and passed. Weak overcallers always have stout hearts. South stayed there also and won the opening heart lead. There was no point holding off when the diamond suit was wide open.

The queen of clubs lead came next. West ducked quickly. South thought awhile and took the finesse. When it worked he had his contract. Had it lost, he would have been down five.

Greeters at the door were Lucille Hageman, Cora Littler, Grace Hillig, and Fern Haigh, all past officers.

During the refreshments, Sjr. Clarence Stallings showed many beautiful slides, taken at Supreme Shrine last May, of the Supreme Installation, Banquets and drill teams in action. Shirley Stallings, W.H.P., gave a running commentary as they were shown.

Next meeting will be Friend's Night on November 20. The meeting will be informal and each officer is asked to contact Soj. Shirley Stallings and give her the name of the Friend invited to fill the respective stations so that the programs may be prepared. Installing officers will also be honored at this meeting and all are requested to attend this meeting.

Any officer or other sojourner needing petitions is asked to call Soj. Shirley Stallings, W.H.P., or Soj. Erma Cruse, W. Scribe. Petitions must be in by next meeting in order for the candidates to qualify for the Christmas Ceremonial.

JHS HOMECOMING QUEEN

Swiss Women Organize Against Female Suffrage

Editor's note — The bastion of Switzerland, this year gave women the vote in two cantons. A woman even is running for office in the Oct. 25 general elections. Does this make all women happy? Well, not according to a remarkable women's group that has swung into action to stem the tide.

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — A nationwide women's organization has just come to life in Switzerland — to ward off the growing threat of votes for women.

Swiss women are the last in Europe without the right to vote. Suffragettes have been campaigning for political rights since early in the century, but the anti-suffragettes are something new.

"Our enemies were gaining ground, so we had to organize," says Mrs. Gertrud Haldimann, president of the Federation of Swiss Women against female suffrage.

Mrs. Haldiman, 52-year-old doctor of pharmacology and mother of six children, has no membership statistics of her anti-suffragette movement.

"In some parts of the country we don't need members because all the women without exception are on our side," she says. "They include professional women, housewives, working girls — all those who want women to remain feminine by keeping out of politics."

Mrs. Haldimann became prominent last winter as head of an anti-suffragette committee during a national referendum on granting votes to women. Last February the all-male electorate turned down the proposal by 546,924 votes to 323,806, a two-to-one majority.

However, in the French-speaking western canton (state) of Vaud, the men broke ranks and gave women the vote in cantonal affairs, including election of Vaud's two members of the federal senate.

Alarmed by the action in Vaud, Mrs. Haldimann's group set up a permanent organization "To warn Swiss manhood of the growing danger."

But in spite of their efforts, this month the canton of Neuchatel also granted women the vote in cantonal matters.

Says Mrs. Haldimann:

"I am so busy with this political activity now, that my case stands as a living symbol of what happens when you allow women to get mixed up with politics. I have hardly any time left for my husband and my six children."

The husband, oculist Dr. Carl Haldimann, shares his wife's dread of female suffrage. So do the children, including two daughters, aged 16 and 22.

Mrs. Haldimann and the other leaders of her movement spend much of their time writing and lecturing about the evils of female suffrage.

The opponents of women's suffrage maintain that the women themselves do not want the vote. There have been several "experimental" ballots among women on this question, and those who went to the polls voted 5-1 in favor of receiving full political rights. But 40 per cent of the eligible women did not vote at all—which, Mrs. Haldimann says, proves a majority of women are against female suffrage, even in the highly developed urban areas where the experimental ballots were held.

"To give women the vote would deprive men of their feeling of importance," Mrs. Haldimann says. "We women should beware of pulling our men down."

Weare Group Meets Oct. 19

The Weare group of the Christian Women's Fellowship of Central Christian Church met Oct. 19 with Mrs. Reat Moody. Sixteen members were present.

Mrs. Glen Skinner called the meeting to order at 2:30 p.m. The minutes of the September meeting were read and approved. Mrs. Bertha Schoedsack was appointed missionary chairman for the group. Plans for a chili supper were discussed. No date has been set. Refreshments were served following the discussion.

World Community date has been changed from Nov. 6 to Oct. 30.

The next meeting will be Nov. 16. It will be held at the home of Mrs. Ruth Wolfe, 315 S. Church St.

The theme of the program is "Trends and New Materials in Teaching Science, Language Arts, Mathematics, Social Studies and Modern Foreign Language.

Dr. Philpot of Illinois State Normal University will give the lead-off talk on this subject and serve as consultant to the groups that follow.

Tickets for the luncheon will be available in the downstairs office at the Washington School for the local teachers.

Visiting Missionaries

Mrs. John W. Roberts introduced Mr. and Mrs. Don Wylie, missionaries from South Thailand, to members of the Methodist church and friends of the church present in the recreation room of the church, Thursday evening. The Wylies re-enacted scenes and experiences from Thailand with native dialect and showed colored slides taken of that country. The supper was sponsored by the Booster Class of the church and was attended by a large crowd. Table decorations were in keeping with fall with corn, leaves, flowers and napkins. Mr. and Mrs. Wylie are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Northrop.

Chairman of the supper committee was Mrs. Roberts who was assisted by the other members of the committee.

Waverly Society Gives Items For Church Kitchen

WAVERLY—The Evening Missionary Society of the First Baptist church of Waverly met Tuesday evening, Oct. 20, in the church basement.

The president opened the meeting. The by-laws of the society were read, and reports of two association meetings heard.

Devotions were presented by Mrs. Glen Suttles on the topic of "Church and the World." Scripture: Matthew 28: verses 18, 19, 20.

The study theme of Africa was presented with a large general map of Africa. Another map pin-pointed the field of the American Baptist mission in the Belgian Congo. Still another the layout of the Moanza mission station with pen-sketches of seven missionaries stationed there now and their background. The special missionaries are Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Stabell of Moanza.

Highlight review of the book "Coming—Ready of Not" by missionaries, Chester and Margaret Jump was given. Mrs. Jump is personally known as she was in Jacksonville, at the Baptist house party in June, 1957.

Roll call was answered by each member bringing something to be used in the church kitchen. Many useful things were given.

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served. The next meeting is Nov. 17 at the church, beginning at 8 p.m.

Sunday evening, Nov. 1, there will be a special White Cross filmstrip, "With Our Hands" shown at the church. The public is invited.

Lutheran Zone Meet At Arenzville Draws 340

The Illinois Valley Zone of the Central Illinois District-Missouri Synod-Lutheran Women's Missionary League held its Fall Rally at Trinity Lutheran church, Arenzville, on Oct. 13.

The Rally Day theme was: "His Truth Endureth to all Generations." The morning session opened with an organ prelude by Mrs. Harold Wessler, Arenzville. Devotions were given by Rev. Roland Welch, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Arenzville, followed with the Lord's Prayer in unison and the singing of the hymn, "O Word of God Incarnate," by the assembly.

Mrs. Grace Schnitker, Arenzville, extended a cordial welcome and the response was given by Mrs. John Peroutka, Mason City.

Mrs. Davidsmeyer Presides

Mrs. P. J. Davidsmeyer, zone president, presided over the meeting and introduced the missionary speaker, the Rev. R. Eissfeldt, Student Chaplain at University Lutheran Chapel and Student Center at the University of Illinois, Champaign.

"Helping Our College Youth Mature in Christ" was the topic of Pastor Eissfeldt's interesting and informative address.

Havana in 1960

During the business session, the roll call of societies was taken, the minutes of the 1958 Rally and the Executive Board meeting were read and approved. An invitation was extended to the zone to meet at St. Paul's Lutheran church, Havana, for the 1960 Fall Rally. The invitation was accepted.

The morning session was adjourned for luncheon, which was served by the members of the Trinity Ladies Aid in the school gymnasium.

The afternoon session began with organ music by Mrs. Wessler. The assembly sang the LWML theme song, "Lutheran Women, One and All." Pastor Marvin L. Matzke introduced Wayne Strubbe, Arenzville, who sang two vocal solos, "Bless This House" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The Christian Growth program was a symposium entitled "Your Society—Does it Glorify God?"

It was presented by three members of Chapin St. Paul's Lutheran church Mary and Martha Circle:

Mrs. Herman LaKamp discussed "Your Society's Business Meeting."

Mrs. Robert Burrus spoke on "Your Society — Does it Glorify God Through Your Program?"

Mrs. Carlton Schumacher presented "Your Society—Does it Glorify God Through Your Services?"

Pastor Matzke served as moderator. An impressive meditation on the hymn, "Take My Life," with Mrs. Russell Werries of St. Paul's Mary and Martha Circle serving as leader, was given in unison by the assembly.

Presents Delegates

Mrs. Davidsmeyer introduced the zone delegates, Mrs. Delbert I. Thies and Mrs. Roy Lovekamp, both of Jacksonville, who were in attendance at the 1959 Bi-Annual LWML Convention held at Toronto, Canada. Mrs. Lovekamp gave an interesting report of the convention.

Mrs. Davidsmeyer introduced pastors, district officers and guests. Brief reports were given by:

The meeting closed with LWML Pledge in unison and the singing of "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow." Closing prayer and benediction were given by Pastor Matzke.

CAT OUT OF BAG?—Farah Dibah (left), of Iran, arrives in Geneva, Switzerland, with unidentified companion enroute from Tehran to Paris. Miss Dibah remained quiet about her reported romance with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, but an Iranian official said, "the cat is out of the bag." It was reported that Miss Dibah was going to Paris to select a trousseau. Miss Dibah, 23, was a student in Paris last year. —NEA Telephoto

What Is A Policeman? Local Officer Tells Of Multiple Services

(One of a series of articles prepared by members of the Jacksonville Police Department.)

By SGT. ERNEST SMITH

Throughout the day a policeman has many questions asked of him.

"How do I get on Route 36 from here?

I've lost my little girl or boy, will you find him for me?

Maybe it is to decide who is right or wrong in a auto accident. Maybe it is to settle a family feud or a neighborhood feud.

Many questions are asked, which to some people seem ridiculous, but to the person or persons who are asking them, they seem important and sincere.

From time to time we will try to answer some of these, especially those dealing with traffic education.

First, let's take the first things first. The first big question is "What is a Policeman" or better still let's use the word "cop" instead. While reading a magazine here a while back, I came across the definition of a "cop."

"Cops are human (believe it or not) just like the rest. They come in both sexes; but mostly males. They also come in various sizes. This sometimes depends on whether you are looking for one or trying to hide something. However, they are mostly big.

Cops are found everywhere. On land, on sea, in the air, on horses, in cars—and sometimes in your hair. In spite of the fact that "you can't find one when you want one" they are usually there when it counts the most. The best way to get one is to pick up the phone and dial.

Cops deliver lectures, babies and bad news. They are required to have the wisdom of Solomon, the disposition of a lamb and muscles of steel—and are often accused of having a heart to match. He's the one who rings the doorbell, swallows hard and announces the passing of a loved one; then spends the rest of the day wondering why he took such a crummy job.

When he serves a summons, or gives a ticket, he's a monster. If he lets you go, he's a doll. To little kids he's either a friend or a bogey-man, depending upon how the parents feel about it. He works "around the clock," Sundays and holidays.

A cop is like a little girl who, when she was good, was very very good—but when she was bad, she was horrid. When a cop is good "he's getting paid for it." When he makes a mistake, "he's a grafter and that goes for the rest'em too."

Lots of them have homes; some of them covered with ivy, but most of them are covered with mortgages. If he drives a big car, he's a chisler; a little car," who's he kidding?" His credit is good; this is helpful—because his salary isn't! Cops raise lots of kids, most of them belong to other people.

A cop sees more misery, bloodshed, trouble and sunrises than the average person. Like the postman, cops must also be out in all kinds of weather. His uniform changes with the climate, but his outlook on life remains about the same; mostly a blank, but hoping for a better world.

Cops like days off, vacations and coffee. They don't like auto horns, family fights and anonymous letter-writers. They have unions, but can't strike. They must be impartial, courteous, and must always remember the slogan "at your service." This is sometimes hard, especially when some character reminds him, "I'm a taxpayer and I help pay your salary."

Cops get medals for saving lives, stopping runaway horses and shooting it out with bandits (once in a while his widow gets the medal.) But sometimes, a most rewarding moment comes when, after some small kindness to an older person, he feels a warm handclasp, look into gateful eyes and hears "Thank You and God Bless You, Son."

I don't believe Webster could have given a better definition of a Policeman. We are open twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week. If we can help, call us. Always at your service.

Next — Traffic courtesy and what it means.

G.T.S. Meeting Held In Franklin

The G.T.S. held its regular meeting on Oct. 14. Due to weather conditions an outdoor meal which had been planned for the day was cancelled and the group enjoyed lunch at the Shamrock lunch room in Franklin, now being operated by a former member, Mrs. Annabell Dodsworth, and husband, Robert Dodsworth. Sixteen members were present.

Roll call was answered by naming a nut. Mrs. Juanita Thomason read a paper on the history of the California walnut. A paper by Mrs. Roberta Werries told of "Tips Using Walnuts."

Mrs. Eva Enom had several contests, awarding prizes to Mrs. Rose Cully and Mrs. Fannie Joy. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Pauline West on Oct. 28. The event will be a hard times party at 2:30 p.m.

FARMER'S GIFT

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Church of the Nazarene disclosed it has been willed a total of $157,000 by the late Grant Miner, a wealthy Rantoul, Ill., farmer who died in 1957. It is the largest single gift the church ever received from an American's estate.

TREES, NOT CELL BARS—Three boys build a brush dam at a new work camp in Michigan Forest, Ohio. It was set up by the state for delinquent youths. The camp has two dozen juvenile lawbreakers, aged 16 to 18, working at a variety of woodland chores. The boys can go home on weekends once a month, have visitors weekly and travel to nearby towns for recreation. The camp has already turned out 100 "graduates."

Shutt And Danenberger Nuptials By Candlelight

Miss Judi Danenberger of New Berlin and John Allyn Shutt of Jacksonville were united in marriage in a pretty candlelight ceremony Thursday evening, October first, at Centenary Methodist church.

The Reverend Harvey E. Dibrell, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Danenberger, New Berlin and the groom is the son of Mrs. Opal Shutt of Jacksonville and John H. Shutt Garrett, Indiana.

The bride was graduated from New Berlin High School with the class of 1959 and attended Brown's Business College in Springfield.

A reception was held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Shutt left immediately for their home in Goldsboro, North Carolina where the groom is stationed in the Air Force.

ANOTHER BIG BLIMP—The third of the Navy's new class of ZPG-3W blimps gets ready for its maiden flight at Akron, Ohio. A sister ship is moored in the foreground. The Goodyear ZPG-3W airships are the largest nonrigids ever built. Envelopes which have internally mounted radar antennae have capacity of about 1,500,000 cubic feet, 50 per cent greater than previous airships built for Navy use. The blimps will be used for Airborne Early Warning (AEW) duty.

Bush Pilot Is Big Man In Canada's Northern Frontier

The little pontooned Beaver was skimming along at 90 miles an hour only 15 feet above a logging road hacked out of the virgin wilderness south of Fort Smith.

Aboard the single-engine plane were Jane and Pete O'Connor and their 8-week-old baby—bound for a new home at an isolated logging camp in Swanson, Alta.—a startled reporter and, of course, Pat Carey, a bush pilot for 30 of his 50 years.

The bush pilot is a big man in Canada's great Northland frontier, a land that knows of railroads only by hearsay and where most of the navigable highways lose themselves in the bush a few miles out of town.

The plane banked steeply over Swanson to come in against the wind on the broad, sluggish Peace River. Volunteer hands tied it to shore and the passenger walked across a narrow plank to the dock.

The bush pilot is all things to all men in the isolated camps and towns of the Canadian North.

In a typical day's work Carey flies some 400 miles out of his base at Fort Smith. He works for Pacific Western Airlines and in the busy summer season may be on hedgehopping cargo and passenger jobs seven days a week.

The plane took off and headed further along the river. Over the modern, ranch-style home of a fire warden Pat swung the Beaver low and waggled the wings. A young woman waved back through a picture window facing the river.

"Gordon Carlson's wife," said Pat.

It was just an exchange of greetings between friends. But it could have been different had there been trouble at the warden's station. Pat might have become an ambulance flier.

A white sheet or towel, prominently displayed, is the universal signal of distress in the Northland. It means a plane is needed urgently. Pat Carey and most bush pilots got out of their way to check the lonely outposts.

"There's an unspoken agreement that the white flag will be used only if it's something serious," Pat explained. "If someone uses it because he wants a pack of cigarettes, the pilot is liable to pass him up next time."

Around lunchtime, Pat headed homeward to post on the Salve River, taking care to swoop low over Fort Smith as a signal for his wife, Jean, to put the meal on.

The afternoon schedule was light, so Pat brought along his tackle box on the chance he might be able to set down on one of the many northern lakes for an hour or so of trout fishing.

Not all days are easy. Pat could recall a bad fire season three years ago when he worked twice around the clock, ferrying fire fighters and equipment into the bush.

"On the last landing I hit the water an awful wallop," he said. "I decided right then it was time to go to bed."

Winter flying can give a pilot bad moments, too, particularly early in the season when he can't tell if the ice is safe for a ski landing and there's no one on the ground to test it for him. Bush pilots have developed a technique for testing it from the air.

"You come in fast and bounce hard on the skis," said Pat. "Then you go back up and look behind you. If there's open water, you pick another lake. If the ice held up, it's okay to land."

The first order of the afternoon was to deliver three government foresters and their equipment to a half-finished campsite about 70 miles away down the Slave River.

The next stop was a buffalo hunting camp upriver to pick up three dogs, two rifles and a duffle bag left behind by a hunter.

By then the sun was dipping dangerously low and Pat made haste to cast off, since landing on the unlighted river after dark is tricky business. The dogs, resisting stubbornly, were put aboard.

"I carried a 1,400-pound horse once," said Pat. "We had to leave the plane's door off because all the horse wouldn't fit. We flew over an 8,000-foot pass out in B.C. with a half-frozen cowboy sitting on the horse's head to keep him down."

The sun set as the Beaver winged upriver toward home. Pat hit 120 miles an hour to beat the gathering darkness.

Pat has had only one bad crash. That was 10 years ago when the fuel pump of his Junkers 34 konked out. The plane went into the trees and split in two. Pat got out with a sprained ankle.

"Do you know," said Pat with admiration, "They put that plane back together and it flew."

Latin's Lively Corpse Is Second Most Popular Foreign Language In Schools

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

The last time anyone took a good look, Latin was still the second most popular foreign language taught in U.S. public high schools.

That was back in 1955, in a national survey by the U.S. Office of Education. It showed that 20.6 per cent of all public high school students were studying a foreign language: 7.3 per cent Spanish, 6.9 per cent Latin, 5.6 per cent French and eight-tenths of 1 per cent German.

Another such survey is now under way. No change in the standings is expected when the final results are in a few months hence, although Russian—a late starter—may move ahead of German.

These figures do not include the 2,458 Catholic high schools in the country, with their 810,000 students. In virtually all the Catholic schools at least two years of Latin is required. Some require four years of Latin for graduation.

Dr. John Francis Latimer, professor of classics at George Washington University, is one of the many who think the study of Latin in public schools is reviving by leaps and bounds.

"Every Latin teacher I've talked to," he says, "reports an increase in the number of Latin students. If we had the teachers available, I'm sure the number of high school students studying Latin would double in the next three to four years.

"The booming interest in Russian (from a handful of schools to more than 400 in two years) has carried all other foreign languages along with it, including Latin. And Latin is good preparation for any language, particularly Russian."

There seems to be little hope for that other great classical language—Greek.

From colonial times down to about 1850, Latin and Greek were the languages to study, with Latin by far the more popular. Between 1850 and 1890, both languages went into a decline. Greek never recovered, but Latin made a strong comeback.

"Except for World War I," Dr. Latimer says, "German would undoubtedly have replaced Latin as the most popular high school foreign language. World War II made it a war casualty for the second time."

What is the case for Latin and Greek?

Dr. Latimer puts it this way: "The two greatest literatures in the world are those of Greece and Rome. A knowledge of Latin and Greek is not essential to a happy or successful life, but it is extremely valuable intellectually and inspirationally.

"There is no substitute for the original."

Father William Dunne of the National Catholic Education Assn. says the primary reason that Catholic high schools teach Latin is for its cultural value.

A knowledge of Latin, he says, will prepare high school youngsters for a very rich literature. The same is true with Greek — and there are about 35 Catholic high schools which are still teaching Greek.

"There can be no real understanding of Greek and Latin literature in the translations. Too much of the true essence is lost."

Father Dunne emphasized that knowledge of Latin is an excellent background for the study of English, as well as modern foreign languages, and that it has valuable practical application in medicine and the ministry.

The National Defense Education Act passed by Congress last year provides a number of programs to ease the shortage of foreign language teachers in this country. The programs, however, are limited to spoken languages, and Latin scholars have been left to solve their own problems.

Last summer the Classical Assn. of the Atlantic States held a Latin workshop at Western Maryland College, designed especially for former Latin teachers who had been out of the classroom for 10 to 25 years.

"Many of them want to teach again," says Dr. Latimer, "and we need them badly. Similar workshops were held in all parts of the country. It will be quite some time before we have all the Latin teachers we need to meet the demand.

Catholic University of America also had a summer workshop on the teaching of Latin. Officials prepared for 50-60 persons but more than 160 signed up.

"The renewed interest in Latin amazed us all," says Mary Tinly Daly of the university staff.

CHANDLERVILLE — Mrs. Roland Vaughn was guest of honor at a pink and blue shower given recently by Mrs. Jim Hoon and Mrs. Richard Taylor at the home of Mrs. Taylor. Contests were played and prizes awarded to Mrs. Ted Wainwright and Mrs. Elmer Lynn. Others present were Mrs. Don Dinks and daughter, Leslie, Mrs. Richard Pratt, Mrs. Bill Clonninger, Mrs. Richard Kirchner, Miss Fae Richards and Mrs. Irving Beard.

The gest of honor received many fine gifts. Refreshments of ice cream, a beautifully decorated cake, coffee and mints were served by the hostesses.

The rate of admissions to general hospitals in the United States has risen by almost 80 per cent in the last 20 years, the Health Information Foundation reports.

Community Club Of Nortonville Holds Meeting

The Nortonville Community Club met Oct. 16 at the club hall with Mrs. Frank Vedder as hostess.

The meeting was opened by the group singing "When I Grow Too Old to Dream." Mrs. Harriet Seymour led the pledge to the flag. The club collect was repeated in unison.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by the assistant secretary, Mrs. Bill Orris. The treasurer, Mrs. Claude Bolton gave her report. Mrs. Lester Penick, the corresponding secretary read several pieces of correspondence. As many members as possible were urged to attend the Morgan County Federation meeting at Grace Methodist Church in Jacksonville, Oct. 27 at 2 p.m.

All members were asked to bring magazines and rags suitable for rag rugs to the next meeting. These will be taken to the veteran's division of the Jacksonville State Hospital by the veteran service chairman, Mrs. Melvin Koehler.

Mrs. Lloyd Sorrells gave two readings, "Kate's Agent" and "Hester's Caller."

Mrs. Herbert Clayton introduced Mrs. Frank Clayton and daughter, Pat. They displayed seven festive cakes for different occasions. Mrs. Clayton explained how she made part of the decorations with different types of molds. The large three tier wedding cake was served as refreshments along with punch and mints.

Mrs. Lester Penick won a cake as a door prize.

The meeting was closed with the club prayer.

The next meeting will be on Oct. 30 with Mrs. Virgil Vedder and Mrs. Lloyd Sorrells as hostesses.

Crimsons Score Twice In Final Quarter To Capture 33-26 Thriller

By STAN SPOTTS

The speedy backfield of the Feitshans Flyers pressed Jacksonville High for three periods but Bob Kraushaar's Crimsons weren't to be denied a homecoming victory Friday night as they roared back when the chips were down to annex a 33-26 offensive triumph.

After the Flyers yielded two touchdowns in the first period, they came to life in the second stanza and went on to give the Jacks a sterling battle.

It would be hard to single out any individual Crimson performer but twelve seniors and six juniors let their presence be known in the final home contest before a large homecoming throng. And several Feitshans' scatbacks had their say in the final outcome. Namely, Jake Hale, who accounted for three touchdowns, and John Dougherty, who returned a third quarter Crimson kickoff for a 78 yard touchdown.

The Crimsons received to open the non-conference game and set out on a sustained 79 yard scoring drive. With Gary Spangenberg, Don Schillinger and Dick Parker carrying the attack, Spangenberg had smooth sailing from the seven to put JHS in front with 6:59 left in the initial stanza. Ken Norton split the uprights for a 7-0 score.

Jacksonville's second tally came when the Flyers fumbled on the first play following the kickoff with Spangenberg recovering on the Flyer 20. Five plays later, Spangenberg again went over the right side to score from the eight. Norton's conversion was accurate and JHS clung to a 14-0 lead with 3:49 left to play.

The Crimsons eventually lost on downs after driving to the 44 and Spangenberg's punt was put in play on the Flyer 17. Two plays later, hard driving Jake Hale exploded through the Crimson secondary from the 21 and raced 77 yards to the Jacks' two where Ken Norton made the stop. Hale scored on the next play with 6:03 remaining before halftime. A run for the point after was short and Feitshans trailed, 14-6.

John Dougherty of the Flyers stunned the Crimsons and their followers to open the third quarter. The Flyer halfback took Norton's kickoff on his own 22 and sped 78 yards to paydirt behind some timely downfield blocking. JHS' lead was narrowed to one point when Dougherty connected with Hiram Jackson in the end zone on the PAT try, 14-13, with 11 minutes and 45 seconds remaining in the third canto.

A 28 yard kickoff return by Spangenberg got Jacksonville into scoring gear once again. Nice gains by Spangenberg, Norton and Schillinger paved the way for Gary Spangenberg's third tally of the game, this one coming from the seven yard line over his own right tackle. Norton's kick was true and JHS was on top by seven, 20-13, with 7:14 remaining.

The Flyers retaliated however on a 61 yard sustained drive with Hale skirting his own left end for a 20 yard TD. The JHS defense was baffled on Hale's run but they stopped QB Jim Williams on a PAT run and the Flyers still were out of a tie, 20-19, with 4:03 left to go.

Jacksonville got a big break at the start of the final canto when a host of Crimson tacklers jarred Hale and the ball loose to recover on the Flyer 45. A 26 yard pickup by Spangenberg highlighted Don Schillinger's 5 yard touchdown blast up the middle on the fourth play of the series. Norton added his final extra point of the evening for a 27-19 lead.

Norton intercepted a Doughtery pass on the Flyer 48 and returned to the 35 to get Jacksonville its final scoring chance. Schillinger, Norton, Parker and Yates took turns lugging the mail to push to the one foot line from where freshman Ronnie Yates plowed over. End Hiram Jackson blocked Norton's conversion but JHS led, 33-19, with 6:52 remaining to be played in the offensive production.

The Flyers tried a short kick to regain possession but the ball went out of bounds and was put in play on the Crimson 40.

Jacksonville held the ball for four plays before losing on downs on their own 46 with 12 seconds remaining. Time had elapsed when Dougherty got off a desperate heave but Schillinger intercepted and the Crimsons had tamed the Flyers for the eighth time in 10 games.

It was the fifth straight year that a Flyer eleven had bowed to JHS and the loss marked their third against three wins. For the Crimsons, the homcoming win brought their fourth straight triumph in six outings.

In all probability, the most outstanding Crimson effort was put fourth by captain Dick Parker, Gary Spangenberg and Don Schillinger.

Downstate Prep Notes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

Kenneth Epperson has resigned as Superintendent of the Northwestern Community high unit at Blandinsville effective November 1. It is reported that he will take a job with the State Department of Public Instruction and he is a former head basketball coach at Greenfield and Macomb high schools.

James Varner has resigned as coach of the basketball team at Bellflower high school and he served the past four years. His resignation is effective immediately and he brought Bellflower a winning team as the teams had won only nine games during the three years prior to his coaching regime.

Cuba high is facing its first losing football season in several years and Coach Tom Zaborac is in his fourth year as head mentor. He is a former Canton high and University of Illinois star, guided Cuba to an unbeaten season two years ago. Zaborac was on the post-war Illinois teams that played as a Rose Bowl winner.

Canton high will play at Lewistown Friday night and it marks the first time in several years for these two Fulton County teams to meet. In 1952 Canton beat Lewistown in basketball in a scheduled game and Coach Frank Whitman did not schedule the Indians again as he did not want his team to play in their gym. With a new gym being constructed at Lewistown it is probable that the old rivalry will be renewed in basketball in the near future.

Mt. Olive won over Benld 13-0 last week and the Wildcats will have to beat a tough Staunton eleven before claiming the championship in the South Central conference. Mattoon and Urbana will fight it out for the title in the strong Big 12 loop and these two top teams will meet on November 6 at Urbana. Peoria Manual is the team to beat in the Mid State Eight conference and the Rams beat Pekin by a one touchdown margin last week.

Jimmie Evers of Centralia high is in the hospital for a two weeks period and the popular coach is undergoing observation after a heart condition was discovered last week. He is in St. Mary's hospital and his assistant coach, Bill Davies, is in charge of the team. Coach Davies is the new head basketball mentor as Evers stepped down as cage boss of the Orphans of the Storm after last season.

Coach Bob Colburn's Murphysboro eleven lost a heartbreaker 7-6 decision to West Frankfort high last week and it stopped the 14 game winning streak of the Red Devils. Danville's fine pass catching end, Jerry Wright, is a standout basketball player for Coach Glenn Brown who is in his second year as head coach of the Big 12 conference team. I got to see this fine cager in action two years ago in the Kankakee high Holiday tourney playing against Jacksonville high.

Bill Dodd of Virden high is one of the best all-around athletes in the history of the Macoupin County high school. He is 6 feet and weighs 192 pounds, and he will graduate with 16 varsity letters to his credit. Dodd has averaged 15 yards per carry this season for Coach Tom Innis and he scored twice against Nokomis recently. Northwestern high of Palmyra will play at Virden Friday night in an important M.S.M. game and this might help name the winner of the title.

Friday Night Scores

Virginia 20 Carrollton 14

CARROLLTON — Virginia defeated Carrollton Friday night in an Illinois Valley Conference game by a 20-14 score. For the winning team this is their fifth victory against no losses and one tie. The losing team has won one and lost 4.

The kickoff was a short one by Virginia and they recovered it. Then after a series of plays Virginia pushed over the goal line for a touchdown. Velten scored the TD and Butch Marr made the PAT. For Carrollton it was Robinson driving for 17 yards after catching a pass which set up the TD. Both teams made their conversions.

In the second quarter neither team could push over for a score. Virginia made a 7 yard stand after Carrollton had recovered a Virginia fumble.

In the third quarter Carrollton scored again as Robinson went over for a TD. The extra point was also good. The rest of the quarter was played as a defensive battle.

The final quarter saw more action as Virginia got the ball and made a touchdown with 7 minutes left in the game. Butch Marr made the score on a fine 11 yard run after the ball had been advanced down the field in a series of drives. Velten made the conversion good.

On the following kickoff Carrollton fumbled and Virginia recovered. Butch Marr then went for 36 yards and a Virginia touchdown. The PAT was good for the first attempt but a holding penalty was called against Virginia. The second attempt failed. This last touchdown was scored with only 2 minutes left in the game.

Pleasant Hill 13 White Hall 6

PLEASANT HILL — In an Illinois Valley Conference game Friday, Pleasant Hill won over White Hall by a margin of 7 points. This is the second win for the victors.

White Hall made the first touchdown of the game when Ralph Chapman ran from the 10 yard line for a score. The try for the extra point failed.

For Pleasant Hill, Gary Capps threw a pass from the 50 yard line to Bill Dean on the 10 who ran for a TD. Taylor Steinberg ran for the PAT and made it good.

There was no score in the second quarter as both teams played good defensive games. However White Hall fumbled twice which halted any drive that they had started.

The second half began with Ronald Richards running over from the five yard line by going around end. An attempted pass for the PAT failed. White Hall then ran the kick off to the Pleasant Hill 30 yard line but was stopped when the Pleasant Hill pass defense tightened up.

The final quarter was scoreless but it might be noted that Steinberg intercepted a pass and ran to the White Hall one yard line where the game ended with a first down and one yard to go for the Pleasant Hill eleven.

Northwestern 33 Waverly 21

WAVERLY—Northwestern added its fifth win of the season Friday night when they defeated Waverly in a MSM Conference game. This was the third loss for the Waverly team against 2 wins.

In the first quarter it was Bob Mckinney going over from the 8 yard line for a Northwestern TD. The conversion failed and the quarter ended 6-0 for Northwestern.

In the second quarter Northwestern added 21 points due to the excellent running of Bob Mckinney. Bob made one TD from the 8 yard line and the PAT was good with Bill Mckinney carrying. Again Bob went over for the TD on a 41 yard run and scored the conversion also. Northwestern made their third TD of the quarter when again Bob Mckinney made a TD from the 3 yard line. The PAT was good with a pass play from Bill to Bob Mckinney.

In the third quarter the Waverly team came alive and Dunseth scored a TD on a fine end run from the 8 yard line. Fitzpatrick made the extra point good to give Waverly their first score of the game. Northwestern also scored again in this quarter.

Then in the final quarter the Waverly team dominated the scoring column with 14 points. Dunseth made a TD from the 1 yard line on a plunge and also carried for the PAT. Later in the quarter Dunseth again scored and this time Walter Miller made the PAT good.

Officials: Brim, Franklin; Groech, Springfield; Finnigan, Springfield.

Roodhouse 45 Hardin 6

ROODHOUSE—Roodhouse rolled over Hardin Friday night in an Illinois Valley Conference game. This was the sixteenth win in a row for the winning team and the fourth of the season in their conference.

The first quarter saw Winters run 8 yards for a Roodhouse touchdown and the conversion was made good by Pollard. The second TD of the quarter for Roodhouse was made by Pollard on an 11 yard run. Hopkins fell into the end zone for the PAT.

In the second quarter Hardin made their only score of the game when Bland went over the line after taking a 20-yard pass. Roodhouse scored again when Hopkins went over on a QB sneak for 6 points.

The opening of the second half again saw action from Hopkins when he ran 12 yards through the middle for another Roodhouse TD. Winters took the ball into the end zone for the PAT. In the same quarter Pollard went 10 yards to score 6 more for the Roodhouse eleven. The conversion was no good.

The last quarter was completely dominated by Roodhouse and touchdowns were scored by Bob Jamison on a 2 yard run and Hopkins on a 14 yard run. Neither conversion attempt was good. The final gun went off with the scoreboard reading 45-6 in favor of the Roodhouse team.

Greenfield 30 Winchester 0

GREENFIELD — Walt Thorpe's Greenfield Tigers staged an upset in a homecoming celebration with Winchester Friday night by stopping Darrell Spang's Wildcats, 30-0. The victory was Greenfield's second in conference play against a loss and one tie. They are 2-3-1 for the season.

Wilbert Wellhausen scored on a 20 yard dash in the second quarter with Bettis plunging for his second point. Tom Darr of the Tigers collected a safety for the winners in the same quarter to give Greenfield a 16-0 lead at halftime.

Touchdowns by Bettis on runs of 5 and 13 yards accounted for the scoring in the second half. Cox and Wellhausen scored the PAT's.

Wood River 26, Jerseyville 20

WOOD RIVER—Joe Jurkanin's Panthers gave way to a fourth quarter touchdown and bowed to Wood River Friday, 26-20, in a close battle all the way.

Roger Gross scored for the Panthers in the second period by returning a Wood River pass 98 yards for a TD. Roger scored again in the third stanza on a 47 yard jaunt and Buel Smith plunged for the extra point.

Summers passed to Bob Gross for Jerseyville's final tally in the fourth quarter. Gross also got the extra point when he recovered Gardner's fumble in the end zone.

Cuba 36 Havana 20

CUBA—A strong Cuba team defeated Havana Friday night in a non-conference game that saw the final score, 36-20. This is the second win for Cuba with 4 losses while Havana has a one won and five loss record.

In the first quarter Paul made a 45 yard run for Cuba and a TD. The conversion was no good and Cuba took a 6-0 lead.

The second quarter saw much more action with Cuba adding 23 points to their score column. Blakely ran for 4 yards after taking a 10 yard punt and fell into the end zone for 6 points. Paul made the PAT good. Then Paul made a touchdown and Blakely made the extra point good. Then a safety was given to Cuba as Havana centered the ball into the end zone. Again in the same quarter Paul ran for a touchdown and Blakely made the extra point.

The third quarter was scoreless for Cuba and Havana got their first score of the game when Liles went 7 yards for a TD. Havana failed to make the PAT good.

In the last quarter both teams scored with Havana adding 14 and Cuba 7, and the score stood 36-20 at the end of the final quarter.

Havana gained 167 yards rushing and 86 yards through the air. They also completed 6 out of 8 passes attempted. They gained 13 downs while Cuba made only 9. During the first half of the game it was dominated by Cuba and in the second half things were reversed with Havana outplaying Cuba, but not enough to pull the game out of the fire.

Illinois Deaf Blanks Triopia Trojans, 19-0

ARENZVILLE — ISD shutout Arenzville Friday night in a non-conference game for their fourth win with 1 loss while Arenzville has won 2 with 3 losses and 1 tie.

Bob Higdon took the opening kickoff and went for 97 yards and a ISD touchdown. Thompson then kicked the PAT and made it good. Allan Anderson who is a halfback for Triopia was injured in this quarter and did not play the rest of the game.

In the second quarter neither team pushed over into the end zone for a score and a defensive battle developed. The third quarter was much the same as the second with both defensive teams refusing to budge far from the middle stripe.

The final quarter saw the ISD team catch fire and add 12 points to their scoring column. Their first TD of this quarter came when ISD took over on the 2 yard line after Arenzville had a bad center on a punt. Higdon carried the ball over the line on the first play and the kick for the PAT was no good.

A few plays after ISD had kicked off to Arenzville and the Arenzville team again fumbled and ISD recovered on the 10 yard line. Three plays later Thompson carried the ball over on a six yard run. The PAT was no good.

Culver - Stockton Wins From I.C. In Homecoming

CANTON Mo. (AP) — A hustling Culver-Stockton eleven outplayed Illinois College here Friday night to give homecoming alumni fans a 32-7 victory.

The Blueboys were no match for the heavier Wildcat forward wall. I.C. had several drives underway but fumbles cost them any further advance.

Illinois scored its only tally of the game in the final quarter on a three yard run by QB Bobby Volk. Ken Mock converted.

Culver scored in each period to annex victory number five in seven starts. The Blueboys are all even for the season with a mark of two wins, two losses and two ties.

TV NEWS

by DON SHUMAKER

Louise O'Brien, lovely vocalist featured regularly on "The Pat Boone Chevy Showroom," once sang for inmates at the Oklahoma State Penitentiary. When her father became warden of the prison at Granite, Okla., Louise entertained the prisoners at the Thanksgiving and Christmas parties presented behind the prison walls. Louise was born in Tulsa. Her father called her "my little Irish biddy," because she loved to sing. When he was campaigning in politics she would attend the pre-election rallies and sing "When It's Springtime in the Rockies," a song that also won her many prizes on amateur nights.

Her family lived on a farm on the outskirts of town and she became familiar with all the rural chores. Louise is an adept cow-milker, horseback rider (used to round up the cattle), hog caller and corn shucker. In fact, she once won first prize in a cow-milking contest. While still in high school she had a 15-minute TV show one evening a week called "The Louise O'Brien Show." When she completed her high school education, Louise went to the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City as Miss Oklahoma and placed fourth. She enrolled at Tulsa University, majoring in dramatics and voice. In January, 1959, Louise was voted "One of the Five Most Outstanding New Talents" in the annual Radio-TV Daily Poll. She won out over 100 other girls auditioning for Boone's TV program. Another outstanding winner is the RCA Victor TV set. We advise that you see an RCA Victor TV demonstration before you buy any new TV set. We'd like to point out to you several of the important RCA TV engineering advantages, too. We also feature RCA Victor radios and Hi-Fi sets, and we provide our customers with expert electronic repair service. SHUMAKER TV & APPLIANCE, East State Street. Phone 5-6595.

White Hall Man To Be Chairman In Cancer Study

WHITE HALL—Mrs. Joseph McPherson of this city has been selected to serve as Unit Chairman for Greene County for the six year Statistical Survey being conducted nationally by the American Cancer Society. A meeting was held on Wednesday afternoon at the McPherson home with the following persons being asked to serve in this work. They include Mrs. Charles Prul, Carrollton, Publicity; Mrs. Charles Meek, Mrs. A. B. Meek, Carrollton, Mrs. Hal Nevius, Mrs. Lee Hartline, Rev. Ruth Nicklin, Mrs. Louise Waddell, Mrs. McPherson, White Hall, Mrs. W. H. Wolfe, Mrs. James H. Orr, Mrs. Henry Hannaford, Mrs. Ralph Beck, Roodhouse, Mrs. Joe Longmeyer, Mrs. Finice Doyle, Mrs. Richard Wilhite, Mrs. Hubert Cole, Greenfield, all research workers in their communities.

Each research worker will have ten lengthy questionaires to distribute, 160 being sent for use in the County, which will be returned to the worker and then sent to New York City for the extensive cancer survey the American Cancer Society is making in an effort to determine the cause of cancer.

Officials of the society say this is the most important thing they have ever done in cancer control in this country and hope the national survey will eventually put the American Cancer Society out of business.

Questions to be answered include living conditions, eating and drinking habits, all strictly confidential by the Society.

Home Bureau Unit

Mrs. Maureen Martin was hostess at her home on Thursday night to members of the Night Unit of the Home Bureau. Mrs. Vera Martin was assistant, and the lesson "Snacks for Between Meal Eaters" was given by the hostesses, with demonstrations of snacks for hearty men eaters, for eaters on diets, snacks for growing children and for the aged.

The selected subject "Book Preview" was given by Mrs. Mildred Bailey. Refreshments of the snacks were served with coffee, tea and cookies.

Mrs. Gladys Long was signed as a new member of the unit, guests including Mrs. Fred Moulton, Mrs. Carl Moulton Jr., Mrs. Dale Coates, Mrs. David McClintock. Miss Avis Nichols won a door prize.

UNICEF

The churches of the community are again sponsoring UNICEF to be held Thursday night Oct. 29th, between 6:30 and 7:30 o'clock. Children wearing identification tags and carrying the UNICEF labeled cartons will call and ask for treats not for themselves but for contributions to the United Nations Children Fund. Churches participating are the First Presbyterian, First Christian, First Baptist and First Methodist.

Donors are asked to measure their donations by the evening meal they have had, remembering that one penny provides five large glasses of milk, one nickle becomes enough BCG vaccine to protect five children from tuberculosis and one dime becomes enough to cure two children of yaws.

SP. 4/c BARNARD

(AHTNC)—Army Specialist Four Dorus L. Barnard, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Barnard, Hull, Ill., recently participated in a field training exercise conducted by the 3d Armored Division in Grafenwohr, Germany. The seven-week exercise was designed to test the division's combat readiness and effectiveness.

Regularly assigned as a driver in Company A of the division's 48th Infantry, Specialist Barnard entered the Army in March 1958, completed basic training at Fort Hood, Tex., and arrived overseas in October 1958. He is a 1955 graduate of West Pike High School, Kinderhook. (U.S. Army Photo)

by INGRAM SEE

1959 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Although Kim Volinger's death was accidental, people believe Sara Volinger killed him in a jealous rage. She faces manslaughter charges.

* * *

VI

Magazines were piled on the marble-topped table at Sara's home, but she couldn't read them. If there were only an anesthesia to put her to sleep and its effects would wear off the day Timmy was restored to her!

The telephone rang, and she went to it slowly. It probably would be Marie Dotzman, she thought.

It wasn't Marie. It was her husband John, calling from his office. "Do you feel up to a big translating job?"

Marie had been her only friend after the tragic incident in childhood. She had met and married John who entered the Hemisphere Insurance Company with his father. It had been through Marie and John that Sara met Kim.

"Yes, John, of course," Sara said. "Something from Bolivia?" She'd translated some letters from there a few months before.

"No, this is from Belem, Brazil, where a big warehouse burned. Our manager there, a North American, sent us a cable the day it happened, you know, but then he had to leave. It's put us in an awful spot because his replacement hasn't been assigned. Today we got a big file all in Portuguese, from the salesman, who's serving as acting manager."

Sara was almost in a panic when she got off the elevator in the building where Kimsley Volinger had been known to everyone. People looked at her and whispered and looked again.

In the board of directors' room she could almost feel Kim beside her. She pulled her Portuguese dictionary to her and the glossary of insurance terms John had laid on the richly grained table.

The total claim, when transposed from cruzeiros to dollars, amounted to nearly $800,000.

"As for physical evidence of fraud," stated the report, "the remains of dynamite sticks and the unusual condition of a portion of the electrical wiring, as described under 'Damage,' indicated grounds for suspicion. But the dynamite is the same kind which had been used at the new pier on the east side of the warehouse and could have been left beside the warehouse wall by a workman. It is impossible to tell, therefore, whether the fire was deliberately set and if so whether by one of these or some other means.

"There is no evidence of a moral hazard. Manoel Fontes is 28 years old, single, and of good reputation. He will gain nothing by the fire."

* * *

Under a blank headed "Attitude," Botelho had written:

"The attitude of Senhor Fontes is not co-operative. He does not seem to be hiding anything, and yet he does not try to give an opinion how the fire started and he will not sign any statements. I have told him that no settlement can be reached without a statement from him."

While the stenographer to whom she dictated was typing the translation, Sara went to the building restaurant for coffee with John. As they sat down at the table with its red and white checked cloth, it occurred to Sara that she hasn't thought of Timmy for two hours.

"There'll be our answer to translate, Sara," John said. "Fontes speaks English, but this, of course, goes to Botelho—" He shrugged. "Personnel tells me it may take a while to fill the vacancy down there. So if you have time—"

"Time? I've weeks of time. Possibly months."

Back in the board of directors' room John started reading the typed reports in his deliberate way but suddenly frowned. "The time element—will you check the figures on it, Sara? And the number of tons of rubber?"

"The time is right, John. You can read the figures in the original yourself." She computed the tons again. "Check my computations here on converting kilograms to tons."

* * *

"Then what is wrong?"

"The fire started just before six in the morning and was out by 10:30 the same day, and the loss is 1,005 tons of rubber. That much rubber can't burn that fast. And here." He pointed to a line in the description of the fire. "Botelho says he was there himself at 10 when the black smoke was reduced sufficiently to see inside the wreckage, and the rubber had almost completely burned then. A thousand tons, Sara, could not have burned out of sight in those few hours."

"Did you notice this paragraph on attitude?"

John nodded. "Yes, but it doesn't necessarily mean anything. People often refuse to sign any papers immediately in a case like this." He gave a low whistle. "I don't like to think of fraud. I met Fontes when he was in Guerland three or four years ago. Right after the end of the war. I liked him. I know what he wanted out of life." John shrugged. "Don't mind me, Sara, I'm just thinking out loud."

"Go ahead, John. I'm getting interested in the insurance business. What did the Senhor Fontes want out of life?"

John pondered a moment. "Markets in his own country. An economic level there that would take the place of the world market it lost sometime or other."

Ebenezer Unit Entertained By Mrs. Wm. Rigg

Ebenezer unit of the Morgan-Scott Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. William Rigg on Wednesday evening, Oct. 10. The meeting opened with the presentation of the major lesson on "Creative Living When Children Are Grown," by Miss Hazel Graves, home adviser.

Miss Graves pointed out the need for new interests and hobbies as one grows older, and suggested that everyone save some time during the day for the things they really enjoy doing, so that life can be interesting and creative no matter what your age is.

The song of the month, "Shine On, Harvest Moon" was sung by the group. Mrs. Lloyd Moss gave the selected subject on "Covers and Pads For Your Ironing Board." The business meeting was conducted by the unit chairman, Mrs. Arthur Beams.

Nine members and three guests, Mrs. Floyd Thrower, Mrs. William L. Hadden and Miss Graves, home adviser, answered roll call of "A Halloween Stunt or Prank."

At the conclusion of the business meeting refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistant, Mrs. John Oliver.

SAYS SPACE ROCKET TEAM LACKS DRIVER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) says the country has a space rocket team but "I am afraid it lacks a driver."

Johnson Thursday ordered the Senate Space Committee, which he heads, to make a careful study of the effect of President Eisenhower's order transfering the Huntsville, Ala., Army missile operation to the civilian National Aeronauuics and Space Administration.

MOST TURKEYS GONE TO MARKET

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bulk of this year's 5 per cent increase in the turkey crop already has gone to market.

Reporting this, the Agriculture Department said the number of birds remaining to be slaughtered is hardly any larger than at this season in 1958.

It explained that the hatch of poults tapered off more in the early summer of 1959 than at the same time in 1958, and since June 1 fewer birds have been started than last year.

CHARGE FORMER STRATTON AIDE WITH DRUNK DRIVING

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP) —The LaSalle County grand jury has returned an 11-count indictment against Joseph D. Carey Jr., 45, of Seatonville, former administrative aide to Gov. Stratton.

Carey was charged Thursday with driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident. Police said Carey, an employe of the State Labor Department, was the driver of an auto which struck and killed Richard Lampley, 12, in Peru Oct. 5.
